

Rate hike for C&NW delayed

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site for drivers set in area

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

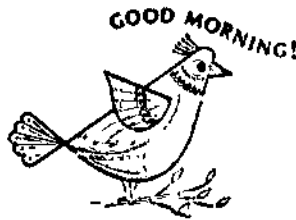

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Streator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

Poll of village trustees

Trustees to upset veto of trash hike

by BILL HILL

Village Pres. James T. Ryan's veto of an 8.3 per cent increase in garbage rates is expected to be overridden Monday.

Trustee August Bettman was the only trustee polled Thursday who plans to back the veto. He and Ryan also cast the only votes against the increases Jan. 19 when they were approved 7-2. A vacancy still exists on the board because of the resignation of Alice Harms, who voted with the majority, but only six votes are needed to override the veto.

Ryan vetoed the increases last week, saying he will not accept any rate hike above 5 per cent.

THE EXTRA 3.3 per cent in the proposal recommended by the board's finance committee is to cover increased dumping costs for the Laseke Disposal Co. Under that proposal, the cost of residential pickup would go from $5.39 to $5.84 per month. If the veto stands, residential rates will only increase to $5.60.

Laseke is guaranteed an annual 5 per cent hike in the exclusive, five-year contract with the village, but the contract also allows Laseke to request reimbursement for "unusual increases" in its business costs.

Ryan said in his veto statement that increased dumping charges at the Wauconda landfill are not unusual increases.

"To permit increases in excess of the 5 per cent is to defeat the purpose of the contract and its benefits to residents. This is not a contract which calls for an automatic reimbursement to Laseke for every increase in costs which he incurs," Ryan said.

"Five per cent is all they're entitled to," Ryan said again Thursday.

LASEKE REPRESENTATIVES have threatened to test in court the meaning of the "unusual" increases clause.

Trustees Frank Palmatier and Madeline Schroeder agreed Thursday that Village Atty. Jack Siegel has already said increased dumping charges constitutes reimbursement.

"The entire thesis of his (Ryan's) veto message hangs on that one word — unusual — which I consider erroneous. And it is in conflict with the advice already given by the village attorney," Palmatier said.

Palmatier also said Ryan's veto is in conflict with the precedent set last year when the board agreed to increase residential rates by 3 cents per month to cover initial increases at the landfill.

TRUSTEES David Griffin, Robert Miller and O.V. Anderson also said they plan to vote in favor of overriding Ryan's veto. Trustee Richard Durava, who has supported the 8.3 per cent increases previously, said he had not read Ryan's veto statement yet. Durava has argued in favor of Laseke in the past because Arlington Heights is Laseke's only customer.

"That's not our fault," Bettman said. "We shouldn't be at their mercy just because we're their only customer."

Girl, 11, injured when struck by car

An 11-year-old Arlington Heights girl was injured, and her dog killed Thursday night when they were struck by a car at Palatine Road and Windsor Drive in Arlington Heights.

Michelle Braun, 1505 E. Rosehill Dr., underwent surgery late Thursday at Northwest Community Hospital for a broken leg. A condition report was not immediately available.

Police said a car, driven by John Wittl, 20, of 708 Glendale, Wheeling Township, was eastbound on Palatine Road about 5:35 p.m. when it struck the girl and her dog.

A witness told police that the car had the green light at the intersection and that the girl and dog apparently stepped off a median curbing into the path of the vehicle. The accident is still under investigation.

Two arrested near Brandenberry

Two Arlington Heights roommates were arrested early Thursday for allegedly breaking into a car at their apartment complex, Brandenberry Apartments, Arlington Heights.

Robert R. Savage, 20, and Raymond L. Petterson, 19, both of 2432 Brandenberry Ct., were charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools. Petterson also was charged with possession of marijuana and Qualaludes.

Patrolman Michael Ossler said he saw a man closing a car trunk about 3:25 a.m. and then noticed a hole had been punched in the trunk. Savage was stopped by Ossler, and when Ossler approached the car, he said he found a radio antenna on the ground and Petterson pretending to be asleep in the front seat.

After arresting the men, police said they recovered various citizens' band radios and electronic appliances from the men's apartment. Near the car police said they also found a case containing lock-picking devices.

Savage and Petterson were being held in Cook County Jail pending an appearance Feb. 20 in the Arlington Heights branch of circuit court.

Kids learn human side of presidents

by MARILYN McDONALD

Most fourth graders at Riley School, 1209 Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights, had no idea who William Henry Harrison or John Tyler were.

But after an hour with Barbara "B. J." Chimenti, the students knew that Harrison, our ninth president, died of pneumonia after being in office only one month, and Tyler served out Harrison's term as a rather unpopular head of state.

Mrs. Chimenti is one of five "Presidents Ladies" at Riley who make brief presentations about two U.S. presidents to students of all grades. Sue Berlino, cultural arts chairman of Riley's PTA, organized the Bicentennial project.

"WE DID THE traditional Picture Lady program like many other schools in the area," she said, referring to the program in which PTA volunteers give brief talks to students about famous artists and display prints of their work.

"This year we tried to tie into the Bicentennial, and thought, 'Why not feature our presidents?'" said Mrs. Berlino, 714 E. Burr Oak Dr.

"Our approach is more the human interest side of the presidents," she said. "We thought it would be a nice way to meet the presidents as human beings."

Illustrating their talks with laminated reproductions of presidential portraits, the Presidents Ladies gear their presentation to each grade level.

Mrs. Chimenti told fourth graders that William Henry Harrison was the son of Benjamin Harrison, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Harrison was a popular Indian fighter who earned fame at the Battle of Tippecanoe, thus inspiring the famous campaign slogan, "Tippecanoe and Tyler too."

BUT HARRISON succumbed on pneumonia only a month after his inauguration, leaving the bulk of his term to Tyler.

Tyler, not a very colorful chief executive, lost the next election. But he lived on as a statesman until his death at 72 years of age in 1862.

Students were fascinated by the presidential stories, asking several questions about birthdates and family life. Many are excited to hear that during the Harrison-Tyler era, the Barnum and Bailey Circus was just getting its start.

The Presidents Ladies like their work. "I think it's a good idea be-

by KURT BAER

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,260 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

TWO LITTLE KNOWN American presidents came alive for fourth graders at Riley School this week as presidents lady Barbara Chimenti introduced them to William Henry Harrison and John Tyler.

AT&T urges interstate rate hikes

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $225 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $365 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $178 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

Youth is suspect in Klein murder

Champaign police have arrested a 17-year-old suspect in connection with the Dec. 30 murder of University of Illinois student Joseph Klein, 21, formerly of Arlington Heights. Michael Lee Exum of Champaign was arrested Wednesday after a Champaign County grand jury returned suppressed murder indictments. Police also are seeking Eddie Bishop, 19, also of Champaign, for questioning. Klein, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Klein, 212 S. Ridge St., Arlington Heights, was shot to death by one of two men who entered his Champaign home during an apparent robbery attempt, authorities said. Klein was shot once in the chest and once in the leg. Exum was being held in Champaign County Jail pending arraignment.

County inspects 'Greens'

Twelve Cook County building inspectors investigated 500 alleged health, building and safety code violations Thursday at the Greens of Golf Mill apartment complex in unincorporated Maine Township. Although the inspectors did not say whether any violations were found, James Dominco, who headed the inspection, said "If there are any violations, they will be processed." Residents at the 127-building complex say there are 500 code violations in the complex. The complex management has refused to comment.

Girl, dog struck by car

An 11-year-old Arlington Heights girl was injured, and her dog killed Thursday night when they were struck by a car at Palatine Road and Windsor Drive in Arlington Heights. Michelle Braun, 1505 E. Rosehill Dr., underwent surgery Thursday at Northwest Community Hospital for a broken leg. Police said the driver of the car, John Wilt, 20, of 708 Glendale, Wheeling Township, was eastbound on Palatine Road about 5:35 p.m. when the car struck the girl and the dog. The mishap is still under investigation.

GOP interviews hopefuls to fill Fulle vacancy

by WANDALYN RICE
The need for suburban Republicans on the Cook County Board to counteract the power of the board's 10-man Chicago Democratic majority emerged as one of the main themes Thursday as the five remaining suburban commissioners began interviewing possible successors to Comr. Floyd Fulle.

Several of the dozen candidates interviewed warned of the need for the suburban GOP to counter inroads by Democrats in the suburbs and to control the county's use of home rule power.

During three and one-half hours of hearings, the five commissioners also were told the county board "must become more answerable to the public" by a former county employee who was fired after challenging employees loyal to Democratic Board Pres. George Dunne in an election to the county pension board.

IN ADDITION, John McShane, a retired federal employee from Park Ridge, told the commissioners he favors legalized prostitution as a new source of county revenue.

Interviews for the county board post will continue today with the five suburban commissioners saying they will make a decision on Fulle's replacement sometime next week. Fulle's seat has been vacant since December, when he was sentenced to prison on federal extortion and income tax evasion charges.

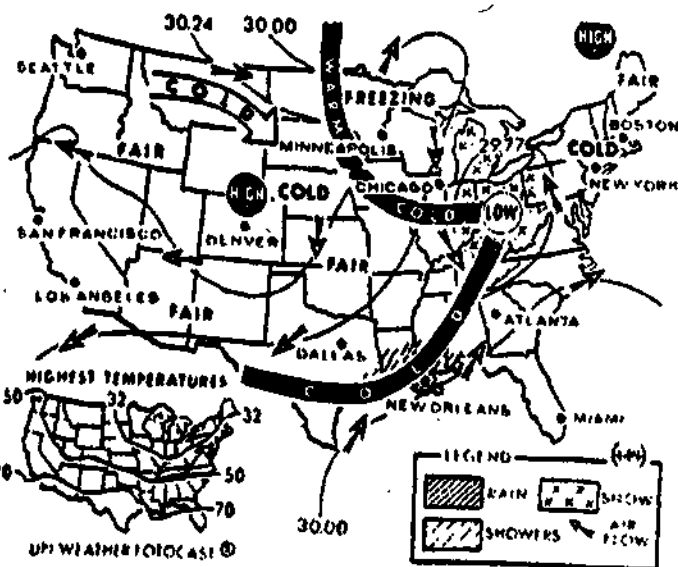

Thursday, three candidates acknowledged to be among the front-runners to succeed Fulle — Deputy State's Atty. Sheldon Gardner, Wheeling Township Supvr. Ethel Kolerus and State Sen. Terrell Clarke, R-Western Springs — all made varying references for the need for increased GOP power on the board.

Gardner, who has received the support of Comr. Mary McDonald, said the five remaining commissioners must name a strong person to the vacancy to counter a Democratic power grab in the suburbs. "The Chicago political machine, in its attempt to spread its power, will make every effort to strip you, the suburban commissioners, of your abilities to represent the suburban residents of Cook County," he said.

MRS. KOLERUS, who arrived at the interview accompanied by Wheeling Township Republican Committeeman Fred Yonkers, Township Assessor Marshall Thoreaux, and Arlington Heights Village Pres. James Ryan, said she believes the county's home rule power, granted by the 1970 constitution, means county board members must change the role of commissioners.

Clarke, who has served for 20 years in the Illinois General Assembly and has announced his intention to leave the legislature, said the Republicans on the county board must ensure that independent agencies such as the Regional Transportation Authority do not become "monsters" and must generally oversee county government.

Angola commies advance

Pro-West capital in sight

by United Press International
Soviet-backed troops battled to the outskirts of Huambo, the capital of pro-Western forces in Angola, and sent a "flying column" of strike forces to take the vital coastal towns of Lobito and Benguela, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

Pro-Communist Luanda Radio said Soviet-backed units of the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola conducted mopping up operations as they rounded up "scores of stragglers of the defeated army."

Luanda Radio, in broadcasts throughout Thursday, said pro-Communist troops were "advancing victoriously on all fronts in their march to liberate the remaining provinces still under the control" of the pro-Western National Union for the Total Independence of Angola.

In Washington, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told a Senate Subcommittee that President Ford is considering asking Congress to approve open financial aid for pro-Western forces in Angola.

Charging increased Soviet intervention on behalf of the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, Kissinger said there was evidence the Soviets may send MIG21 jet fighters to Angola to be piloted by Cubans.

Meantime, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a bill which forbids covert U.S. aid to Angola. It would require President Ford to ask Congress for any assistance for Angola.

President Kenneth Kaunda declared a state of emergency in neighboring Zambia to "cope with the grave situation which jeopardizes the country's security."

"A plundering tiger and her deadly cubs are coming in by the back door," said Kaunda, who has strongly criticized Soviet and Cuban intervention in Angola. "The consequences of foreign intervention in Angola can now be seen in Zambia."

The pro-Western National Union for the Total Independence of Angola has held off tank-led columns of Popular Movement forces north of Huambo but Wednesday ordered their forces to begin a guerrilla war against the Soviet-backed troops.

Ford pledges 'substantial' aid in support of Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford completed talks with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin Thursday, pledging to seek "very substantial" military and economic aid in support of Israel's security.

Rabin in turn promised that Israel will "continue to reach for a genuine peace" in the Middle East.

Following a third meeting between the President and Rabin, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "The President will request a very substantial foreign assistance program for Israel."

Ford also "reaffirmed there should be no stagnation or stalemate in the peace process in the Middle East," Nessen said, and "reiterated support for the security of Israel."

Nessen did not give specifics of the aid Ford will request of Congress, aside from saying the total would be less than the $2 billion Israel received immediately after the 1973 Arab-Israeli war.

Diplomatic sources said the President had decided to seek between $1.7 billion and $1.8 billion, whereas Israel was reported to have sought $2.5 billion.

Rabin, addressing the National Press Club following the final meeting with Ford, said: "We are ready to take all the risks for peace, but we are going to stand firm against the illusions of peace... We will continue to reach for a genuine peace."

Solution to the Palestinian problem is essential to any lasting Mideast accord, Rabin said, but he reiterated his refusal to deal with the Palestinian Liberation Organization.

"We can and will deal with those Palestinians whose main purpose is to achieve peace," he said. "I don't include among them the so-called PLO."

Rabin gave no details of his talks with Ford, but denied reports that they had problems, saying: "Nothing has gone wrong."

The Israeli leader said, "The purpose of our military strength is to deter aggression... If war is imposed on us, we have to win it."

But, he said, "I am sure that in the long run peace will be achieved. It may take longer than we want. It may take longer than others want. But I assure you, Israel will not be discouraged. I am confident that we can overcome."

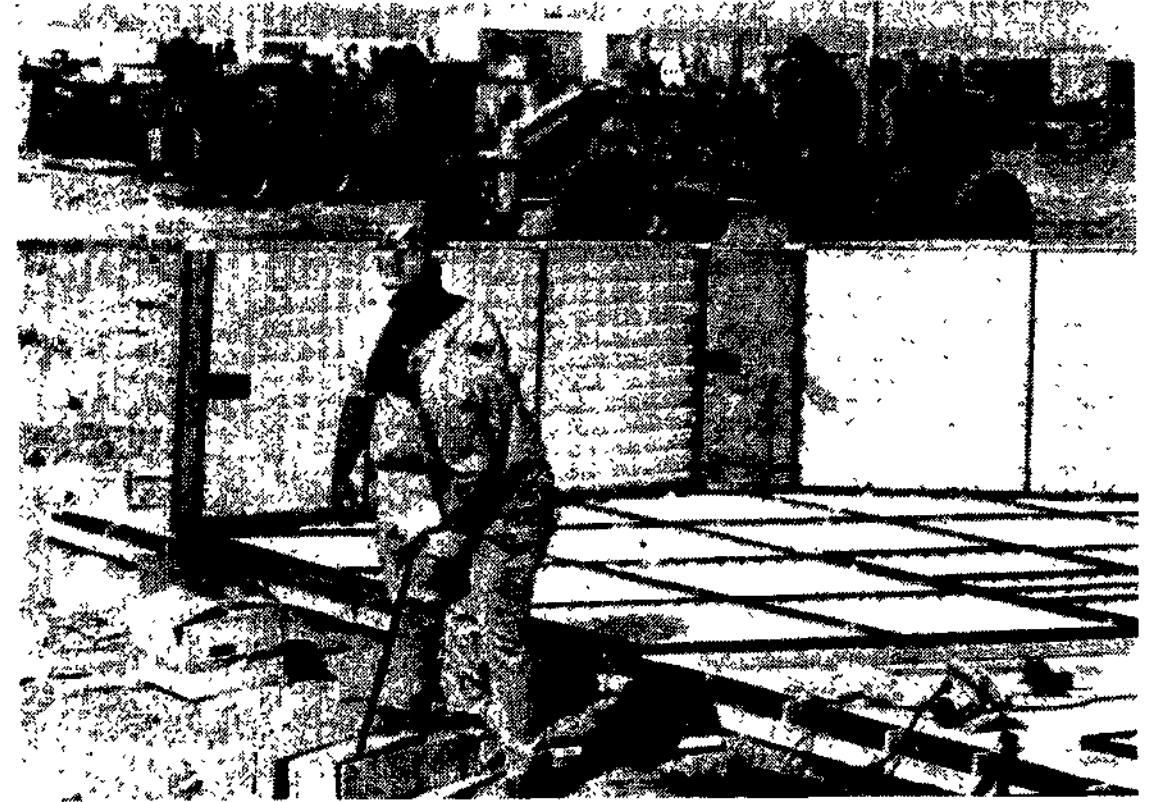

Nessen said the administration did not offer any new initiatives for another round of Arab-Israeli peace talks. But he said Ford "accepted in principle" invitations to visit Israel, Egypt and Syria, without setting a time.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has said Ford might visit the Middle East in late April.

Rabin will visit New York, Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles before returning to Israel next week via New York.

In the Sinai Peninsula, meantime, American hardhats are working daily to carve building sites in the sandy soil for the early warning system between Egyptian and Israeli lines.

The base camp near Mt. Umm Khashiba is expected to be ready for business as scheduled on Feb. 22.

AMERICAN TECHNICIANS work to set up the first Giddi Pass. The camp, near Mt. Umm Khashiba base camp for workers manning electronic warning systems between Israeli and Egyptian lines in the should be ready for business as scheduled by Feb. 22.

Meet set to speed Patty jury picks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Questioning of prospective jurors behind closed doors by a federal judge dragged on so slowly Thursday in the Patricia Hearst trial that it may be next week before a jury is selected.

The government and defense attorneys arranged to meet early Friday morning with U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter to see if they could expedite the selection process in which citizens selected for possible service were being asked dozens of questions about possible bias in the bank robbery trial.

U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. said it was hoped some of the questions suggested by both sides could be consolidated.

But Browning said he expected it would be Monday, Tuesday or even later before the 12 regular jurors and four alternates can be picked.

By late Thursday, five women and one man had been tentatively seated and three women and three men excused "for cause" — the judge decided they might not be able to serve impartially.

The main courtroom was empty and silent. In the second only the defendant, her lawyer, her parents, the prosecution attorneys, the judge, court clerks, stenotypists and marshals were present.

It was a wearing daily regimen for Miss Hearst.

Patricia has to get up before 6 a.m. at the maximum security jail in Redwood City, 28 miles away, where she is taken back and forth every day.

When the car arrives at the courthouse, Miss Hearst is handcuffed until she is taken to a 19th floor holding room with a bullet proof glass-panel. She is not in handcuffs when she enters the court.

She gets back to the jail around 6 p.m. and has dinner. She is allowed to watch television and usually watches coverage of her case on the news-casts.

Judge Carter was asking the prospective jurors detailed questions about what they knew about the case, whether the Hearst financial and social position could affect their verdict, whether they felt a kidnapping excused anyone from subsequent criminal action.

In London, meantime, a British expert on brainwashing said Patricia Hearst was undoubtedly brainwashed and there was "not a shred of truth" in charges she cooperated in her own kidnapping.

Dr. William Sargant, a retired British psychiatrist who interviewed Miss Hearst five times at her parents and defense request, said "there will never be any doubt in my own mind that Patty Hearst was 'brainwashed.'"

"There is not a shred of truth in any allegation that she cooperated in her kidnapping," Sargant said in a copyrighted article in the Times of London.

Complete ban of nitrate, nitrite asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coalition of consumer groups Thursday asked for a complete ban on the use of sodium nitrate and nitrite in bacon and other meats, saying the government's proposed regulations on the matter are totally unacceptable.

The groups, in comments filed with the Agriculture Department, said that agency's proposal to cut back use of the preservatives in some products and ban them in others does not go far enough to answer questions raised about the potential cancer problem involved.

The Agriculture proposal would eliminate nitrate from everything but dry-cured meats and fermented sausages, and allow nitrite in bacon, cooked sausage, canned cured products, dry-cured meat and fermented sausage.

The groups said current research efforts in industry and government have concentrated on finding ways to prevent the formation of nitrosamines, the cancer-causing agents which come from nitrates and nitrites — instead of looking for ways to make meat products which do not contain the preservatives. "If the industry were forced to develop alternative processing methods because of a proposal to ban nitrite, then great strides would likely be made in this area," they said.

The comments were filed by Public Citizen's Health Research Group, a Ralph Nader organization; the Center for Science in the Public Interest; Consumers Union, publishers of the monthly "Consumer Reports" magazine; the Environmental Defense Fund and the Natural Resources Defense Council.

Fare hike for airlines OK'd by CAB

The Civil Aeronautics Board announced Thursday America's airlines will be allowed to raise their ticket prices 1 per cent on all mainland U.S. routes next month "to offset rising fuel and other economic costs." A CAB spokesman said the fare hike, which takes effect Sunday, could give the major airlines an extra $76 million in profits. Many of the nation's airlines including United, the largest, planned to put the fare increase into effect promptly. Some, however, were expected to pass up this increase and push for a larger hike later. One of those saying they will not raise fares immediately was Eastern Airlines.

W. Coast doctors rush to meet 'deadline'

Striking doctors in Southern California rushed to meet a malpractice insurance premium deadline Thursday. A medical society spokesman, however, said there was too much confusion to get an accurate estimate of how many. Angry doctors indicated that payment of the higher rates would not insure they would return to work. Travelers Insurance Co. which raised first quarter rates by 327 per cent, set midnight Wednesday as the deadline for coverage retroactive to Jan. 1. "We're paying under duress," one doctor said. Another said his patients would pay more for treatment.

House approves public works measure

The House voted Thursday to send a $6.2 billion public works measure, which Democrats claim will create at least 600,000 new jobs, to President Ford, who said he will veto it. The measure would authorize $2.5 billion to carry out long-planned but unfunded state and local building projects, $1.5 billion for local areas where the unemployment rate exceeds 8 per cent and the rest for various projects including water pollution control. The $1.5 billion could be used for whatever purpose the local areas wanted.

Clandestine action panel urged by church

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, asked the Senate Thursday to set up a permanent nine-member panel with advance review powers and budgetary control over virtually all U.S. clandestine activities. Church, chairman of the Senate intelligence committee, said the special committee also would be empowered to make public details of intelligence operations if, in its judgment, "the national interest would be served."

Workers return to jobs in Beirut

Civil servants, dock workers and bank employees began returning to their jobs in Beirut Thursday, taking the first steps down the long road of rebuilding Lebanon after nearly 10 months of war. Argentine rebels attack U.S.-owned firm

A left-wing guerrilla squad carrying out a "people's execution" stormed an American-owned auto parts factory near Buenos Aires Thursday and killed two Argentine executives and a policeman. Fifteen Montonero guerrillas attacked the Bendix factory after police killed three suspected terrorists in a gunfight in the Argentine capital. The deaths raised to 52 the number of victims of political violence in the first month of 1976.

Press censorship permanent in India

Parliament in New Delhi passed a government bill Thursday that virtually makes press censorship a permanent feature of Indian journalism. By a voice vote, the lower house adopted a bill enabling the government to close newspapers and jail editors and publishers for printing "objectionable matter" — such as criticism of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. The vote came after passage of two government bills abolishing other key rights of the news media.

Computer hunt for Sasquatch slated

• Okay, Sasquatch: your days in hiding are numbered. The computer is after you. Ron Olson, executive director of North American Wildlife Research, an organization devoted to hunting the legendary Bigfoot, said a nine-man team using computerized information and electronic detection gear will go Sasquatch hunting in British Columbia in April or May. The object of the expedition is "to discover, once and for all, the sub-human creature who has left his giant footprints as proof of his existence. If Bigfoot is found he will be tranquilized and taken to a remote location where a tracker will be implanted. The creature will then be released.

• David K. E. Bruce, 78, dean of American ambassadors in Europe and the first U.S. representative to Peking, will retire Friday after 50 years of service to the U.S. in war and peace. He has been U.S. ambassador to NATO for the past year.

• Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, who has had plenty of warming up with numerous campaigns and Senate speeches, will narrate Aaron Copland's "Lincoln Portrait" at the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra's Bicentennial Program Feb. 8. The orchestra frequently invites local celebrities to appear as guest soloists.

• Politics: Ronald Reagan has accused President Ford's campaign operation as being a "little bit dishonest." He said prepared attacks on his proposal to revamp the aging Social Security system were distributed, leaving local supporters free to insert their own names as the source of criticism.

• Terry Sanford notified the FEC he is an inactive — but legal — presidential candidate and the FEC began to process a $2,319 campaign subsidies check. Sanford, however, said he would not accept and the check was stopped.

• Apollo 14 astronaut Stuart Roosa Thursday said he will retire from the Air Force and the space agency effective Sunday, one day after the fifth anniversary of the launch of his only spaceflight. He is undecided on future plans.

• Composer Johnny Mercer was reported improved in Pasadena, Calif., following brain tumor surgery three months ago.

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21

Two Riley School students were winners in a Bicentennial essay contest sponsored by the North Suburban chapter of B'nai B'rith. Paul Winandy won first place in the fifth grade division and received a $25 savings bond and a certificate of appreciation. Pattie Poole was third place winner in the fifth grade division and received a monetary award.

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59

Important moments in the nation's history will be portrayed through musical paintings at a Forest School cultural arts assembly. The artist, John Mosiman, will be appearing Tuesday at 10:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the school, 1308 S. Cypress Dr., Mount Prospect.

Among the paintings Mosiman plans to do to music are "The Arrival of the Mayflower," "Paul Revere's Midnight Ride" and "The Westward Movement to Oklahoma."

On Thursday, at 10:30 a.m., Buck Warren, the "OHare Poet," will conduct a program on poetry. In addition, he will display some of his pieces of sculpture.

An airplane mechanic for United Air Lines, Warren is a published poet. He plans to present one of his sculptures to President Gerald Ford.

High School Dist. 214

High School Dist. 214 has announced the third annual Distinguished Service Award contest sponsored in cooperation with the Dist. 214 Educational Assn. and various community service clubs.

Nominees must have made an outstanding contribution to secondary education during the 1974-75 year.

One person will be selected from the attendance areas surrounding Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Forest View, Hersey, Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling high schools.

Individual award plaques will be presented to the eight winners on March 22 at the regular Dist. 214 Board of Education meeting. A permanent plaque inscribed with the winner's name will be placed on display in each high school.

Nomination forms are available in each school and will be accepted during the month of February from any individual.

Full or part-time employees from Dist. 214 are not eligible as candidates for the award, however, they are encouraged to submit nominations.

For information contact William Warner, 250-5300, ext. 304.

The Elk Grove High School individual events team tied for sixth place in sweepstakes at Forest View High School recently. Individual winners included: Debby Lange, first in original oration; Tom Duncan and Debby Lange, first in dramatic duet acting; Joan Flores, first in humorous interpretation; Ron Cohen, third in original comedy; Janet Pumphrey and Tracey Lowing, third in dramatic duet acting; and Kerry Clariello, third in original oration.

Gaining honors for the Elk Grove debate team at the Rockford Jefferson tournament recently were: Margaret Mathie, Walter Brock, Greg Hanson and David Cullen who captured second place team award in the novice division. Margaret Mathie was also named third best novice debater in the tournament. Dean Crivellaro and Tony Cafferata also gained honors in the junior varsity division by receiving the fourth and third place speaker award, respectively.

Special Education

A seminar entitled "Helping the Learning Disabilities Child in the Classroom" will be held Feb. 7 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights. Sponsored by the Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (COULD), the seminar will feature Janet Lerner, author and professor at Northeastern Illinois University, and Estelle Bradley, reading and learning disabilities coordinator in Des Plaines Dist. 62.

Lerner and Bradley will speak from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Specific areas of interest will be discussed in small groups led by learning disabilities professionals from 1 to 3 p.m. Areas will include visual perception, motor skills, arithmetic, auditory skills and classroom behavior techniques.

For more information, contact Peg Linder, 439-3875.

Railroad station museum is still only a dream

by JOE SWICKARD

Virgil Horath has a dream.

The dream involves a steam locomotive, a wooden caboose and the Arlington Heights commuter station. A pleasant ending would have the station preserved as a railroad museum with the engine and caboose just outside the door.

When asked if the Arlington Heights Historical Society would like to save the station, slated for removal in June, Horath, a society member, said, "I'd love it."

THE CHICAGO and North Western Ry. station was built in 1894 and has become the busiest stop on the railroad's commuter lines. The wooden structure will be replaced by a modern $150,000 station this summer through a grant from the Illinois Dept. of Transportation.

Horath would like to see the building preserved as a museum and memorial to the role the railroad has played in the development of the area.

Even North Western officials recognized that someone might want to save the building. When plans for the new station were announced, they said no decision had been reached about its fate; demolition was not the only end they saw for the 82-year-old building.

"The idea (of saving and moving the station) has merit. But now we just don't have room for it," Horath said.

He said the society has spent a lot of time and money getting their building, 110 W. Fremont, the way they want it. He said the station would not blend in with the society's wrought iron fence, brick country store and log cabin now on the property.

THERE IS A location, however, that might become available sometime in the future. The Countryside Art Center is located just across the street.

The art center is in a large house now owned by the village. Although the house needs repairs, there are no definite plans to raze it.

As desirable as the location is, Horath said he is not in favor of evicting the artists in favor of the railroaders.

"We need an art center," he said.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the art center is starting to show its age.

"IT WAS PRETTY well used up when we acquired it. The roof and plumbing are held together with just a band-aid," Hanson said.

If the project works out, Horath said he has the plans all set.

"We have a railroad club with a 60-foot display. It was in Rolling Meadows and then it was moved to Evanston. Now they said we have to move it out by June 1," he said.

For the lawn, he found a steam locomotive and a caboose.

"I was up in Michigan getting an old post office and I met the man who runs the railroad graveyard," he said.

In the graveyard was a caboose and an engine small enough to be moved on a flatbed truck.

I CAN SEE IT coming down Vail Avenue now," Horath said.

With the growing interest in railroads and old stations, Horath predicted a display in the village "would draw thousands."

He said he has no cost estimates, but said, "I don't think it would cost as much as you might expect."

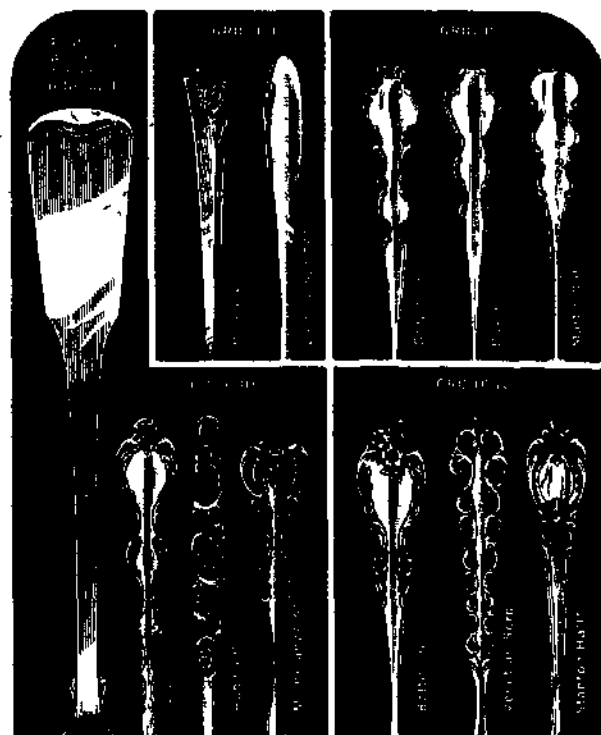

Joann Andrews, of the Wilmette Historical Society, said the old brick station in their town was moved and restored for about $45,000, including federal and state grants. She said the effort was "a long road," but worth it.

Mrs. Andrews said, "There is something important about saving real things" that helps make communities thrive.

"I'd love to have that station," Horath said. "There's a lot of history in there and there's not much history left around here."

cause, basically this is something they're just not going to be exposed to until later in school," Mrs. Chimenti said. "This way, if their interest is sparked, when they get to it later they'll have a little bit more background."

The Presidents Ladies won't cover all the presidents this year, but the project may continue next year. The Riley PTA has ensured continued interest in the presidents by donating a set of presidential portraits to the learning center, where the children see them every day. The latest, a picture of Gerald Ford, was sent by his wife, Betty.

The way we see it

We support rape reform

Our methods of handling rape allow the victim to consider her safety and still have a valid case in court.

Each of these bills is needed.

That is the clear message of a series of in-depth articles by staff writer Barbara Ladd which appeared in The Herald last week.

Although the incidence of rape is low in the Northwest suburbs compared with other areas of Cook County, any crime against a person is a matter of serious public concern. And rapes do occur with disturbing regularity on our seemingly safe suburban streets.

Substantial progress is needed in educating the public about the danger of rape, in easing the trauma of the victim and convicting the attacker. Some startling facts revealed in the series:

- Only 5 per cent of all actual rape cases result in conviction of the criminal.

- Victims must assume financial responsibility for treatment — including the collection of evidence which will be used in court.

- The victim's sexual history will be scrutinized in court, but the defendant's will not.

- Most suburban police do not have training in the handling of rape cases. Nor do all police forces have women investigators or social workers available if the victim is uneasy about talking to men.

Several bills before the Illinois General Assembly would improve the situation by requiring all police officers to have formal training in rape investigation and by making the victim's past sexual record inadmissible in court. Other bills would redefine rape to include anal penetration, expand the definition of "threat of force" and limit the defense's use of "consent" if the victim fails to scream or offer physical resistance. The latter bills would

Another less widely considered proposal would lower the minimum sentence for rape conviction from four years to one. The reasoning is that judges hesitate to convict young, first-time attackers because of the high minimum sentence. One assistant state's attorney estimated convictions would rise substantially if a lower minimum sentence existed.

The idea appears to have merit.

Beyond these legalities remains the need for educating the public and improving services to the victim, both of which are the responsibilities of individual communities.

Funds should be available to pay for emergency room treatment. The victim should not have to pay these bills directly nor through family hospitalization insurance, where even filing a claim would spread the embarrassment.

Schools should be encouraged to offer information on self-defense and rape procedures, as several in the area already do, especially since hospitals report increasing numbers of rape victims are teen-agers.

Our police departments should make a conscientious effort to employ women. And if a woman is not on duty during a shift when a rape is reported, the department should obtain the help of a woman from a neighboring department if the victim prefers.

Rape is a humiliating crime whose consequences are felt by the victim and her family for many years. Our response to the crime is inadequate on many fronts and should undergo needed change.

Draft lottery dies, war's shadow fades

If the U.S. government had killed off the draft 10 years ago, a loud cheer would have echoed across our nation.

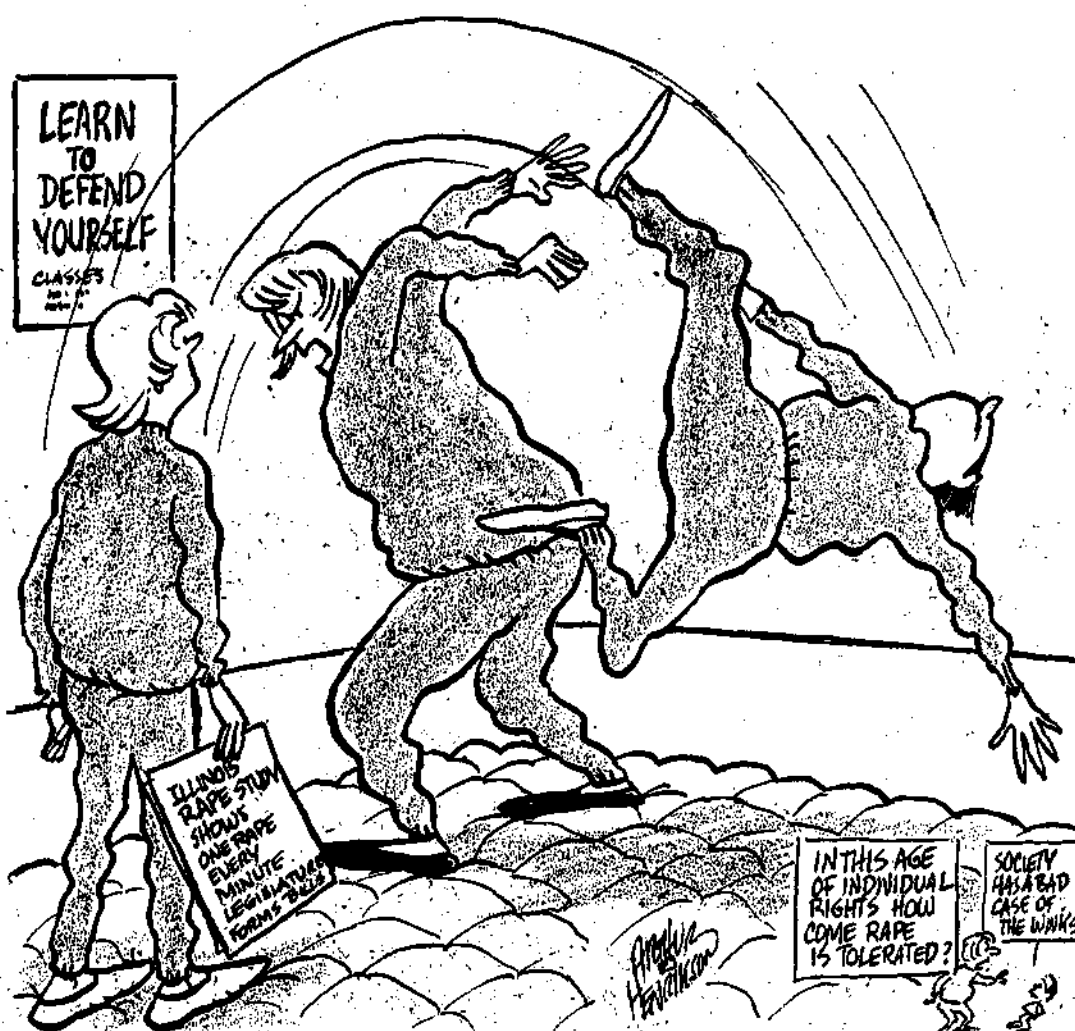

In 1966, as the Vietnam War was sparking sometimes-violent dissent, the draft was the target of the public's anger. To escape it, thousands of men fled to Canada, found "safe" professions or went to prison as draft resisters.

Now, as the last remnants of the draft fade into history, few seem to notice. That neglect is due in part to the fact that President Nixon started the draft's demise when he turned it into a lottery system in 1969.

Last week, with President Ford's bare bones budget for 1977 upon us, Selective Service officials ended the lottery. From now on, no young man who turns 18 will be required to register at a draft board.

Someday, perhaps, the draft will have to be revived to again turn men into soldiers. We hope that day never arrives; the draft is one shadow of wartime which we can do without.

While laws are being reformed, no jerk is going to deprive me of my individual rights!

'Don't sell summer scout camp'

The residents of the Northwest suburbs should be interested to hear of the proposed sale of Camp Napowan by the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America. The camp has been used for many years as a summer camp for thousands of scouts from these Northwest suburbs. The fate of Camp Napowan will be decided Feb. 5 by the Executive Board of the Northwest Suburban Council.

I represent the Lakota Lodge of the Order of the Arrow, a scout organization of honor campers. We, the scouts who love and use this camp and who will be most affected by the decision to sell it, are fighting to save this beautiful camp facility. We feel that this transaction is being conducted without the knowledge or consent of a great majority of the volunteers and contributors, who have given much time and money, and without whom the scouting program could not exist.

We act not only for ourselves but for the scouts of the future who may never know the joy and fun that summer camp brings, who may never experience the outdoors and learn the lessons she has to offer. We feel that Camp Napowan is worth saving, if not for ourselves, then for the scouts of the future.

Swim problems lamented

First off, I'd best identify myself. In all truthfulness, I can't call myself an uncomplaining one, but I have been a high school swimming mother for the past eight jolly years. The "Oh Barbara, volleyball is so much fun" bit comes because my last dolphin is about to enter Prospect High School next fall. Oh, joy — four more fun-packed years.

Bob Gallas' article of Jan. 21, "Early to bed, early to rise makes swimmers quit" gets all the credit for this little tirade. In all fairness, I must admit that in the past eight years not all of the high school swimming work-out have required my wake-up time to be 5:30 a.m. Lots of them have, though, and the thought of that cold, quiet darkness for even one more day is "yuk" for me and my swimmers.

Prospect High School finally has a great coach and two good swim teams (the girls and the boys). To ask a coach or swimmers to continue indefinitely to have work-outs before six in the morning is ridiculous. Prospect will end up without a coach or swimmers. Since renting Kopp Pool from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m. at the present time is costing the taxpayers and Prospect's Athletic Department $7,500 it probably will make the "powers above" more than happy.

The more I think about it, the more I know I should have cut my kids' fins when they were little ones. Speaking of little ones brings to mind the Mount Prospect Park District's "Learn to Swim" program. If filled to capacity

letters to the editor

In an effort to save this camp, we are sending out 500 petitions to be signed by volunteer scouters and the scouts themselves. We are also trying to raise $10,000 which is the amount that the council has determined will be necessary to open the camp this summer. We have been given two weeks to circulate the petitions, gather the money, and to determine what action we should take.

We feel that you, as a resident of the Northwest suburbs, should be interested in this proposed transaction. Many of you have, at one time or another, donated money to a Community Chest, of which the Boy Scouts get a certain percentage, or to the scouting program through sustaining membership enrollment or other money-raising

Writer regrets a mistake

Thank you for publishing my letter to the editor. But I made an important mistake. In reviewing my copy I saw that it was my mistake and not the typesetter's or anyone else's.

In the sixth paragraph I wrote, "In 1885 during President McKinley's administration, the contributions that were made by Standard Oil, etc." This was the mistake, I should have written "after 1885," not in. Most people know that President Lincoln was serving in 1865. This date was mentioned by me because that is when Standard Oil came to its power, in the oil industry, in spite of the Civil War. McKinley's administration was 1897 to 1901.

I sure am sorry about that and feel like a fool. I'll do such again.

Joy, agony share fireman's life

A bitter cold morning brought Joe Lawler's first fire. The memory gets no less painful, no less frightening. Hours became days, then weeks, months and finally, years. But the horror does not diminish. Perhaps it never will. Joe still says, "I was never so scared in my life."

A hideous black cloud signaled disaster over the Palatine business district that long ago winter morning. Flames shot upstairs from the building's basement. The men never really had a chance. This was a "real worker," in the language of men who bet their lives against fire.

The Palatine Fire Dept. needed help. When his truck was still two blocks away, Rolling Meadows rookie firefighter Joe Lawler already choked on black smoke.

THIS WAS THE Ben. Franklin store fire which taught its brutal lesson three years ago next Feb. 23. Three Palatine volunteer firemen, including the store owner, were killed in that blaze.

For Joe Lawler, it meant working his first fire. A killing fire. Those are the worst. "I still get nervous thinking about that one," Joe said this week.

Three years have passed. Some men who worked that Palatine blaze will remember they lost friends that day. Joe Lawler did not know the men who died. That does not make it any better.

For a few hours, that fire was their equal. It seems distant now. There have been many happier days. Joe said you cannot dwell upon yesterday's successes . . . or failures.

"That's why you've got to learn mind over matter," Joe said. "You must concentrate on the positive or you'll go nuts."

FIREMEN ARE a fraternity of people helping people. They're not doing it for large amounts of money, or to see their names in the newspaper.

Yet, they are seldom honored, seldom noticed, seldom thanked. How often does anyone just walk inside the fire department house and say thanks?

It would be appreciated. "When one person has the thoughtfulness to say thanks, that makes up for all the people who forgot," Joe said.

"You want to hear it, but you can't go looking for it. That's the frustrating part of our job."

Joe Lawler joined the Rolling Meadows fire force three years ago after knocking around as a truck driver, men's clothes salesman and slaughterhouse worker.

But this was no choice made by chance.

WHEN HE WAS a youngster in Madison, Wis., Joe would sometimes start small paper fires in the family garage. Keith Lawler did not appreciate his son's games.

"I can remember getting my back end beaten for playing with candles and matches," Joe said.

After he grew older and more responsible, Joe watched his father battle fires in Madison. Keith Lawler has served 28 years on the force.

Joe's since deceased maternal grandfather, Arne Lerwick, retired in 1960 after 38 years.

Mike Klein's people

"I was impressed that ultimately, men always won," Joe remembered. "Even in the Chicago fire, men finally won."

"THE FIREMEN charged while even the mice retreated," Joe said. "Whenever the animals leave the building, the firemen will still go in."

"Your hero might be F. Lee Bailey or Jack Anderson," said Joe. "My hero is my father. He's saved . . . Well, I don't know how many people I remember once watching him save an epileptic who had a seizure."

"That's why I'm where I'm at," Joe said. "We're a very close family I've admired what my father does and his extreme humility."

"You cannot ruffle a feather on my father," Joe said. "To this day, he can outrun and out arm wrestle men. I sometimes think he maintains that because his children are impressed."

Joe shuffled through pictures and old clippings about his grandfather and father. You could feel the pride as he talked about them. You could tell how proud Joe is to be a member of their profession.

BUT JOE LAWLER is also someone who wants to cut his own path. "It's good that I don't work in my father's fire department. He and grandfather cut some pretty wide shadows," Joe said.

"If I'm good here, that stands by itself. If I'm poor, I'll be judged accordingly."

Fire is war. Joe talked about "attacking the fire" and "assaulting from the front." He talked about the many good and bad experiences he's had as a paramedic.

Sometimes, said Joe, God must win. On other days, the paramedics win.

"For a fleeting moment, the possibility might exist that you can save a life," Joe said. "When it's lost, the heartache . . . and I mean heartache . . . it's hard to cope with."

There is joy and agony for the men who ride red trucks. They cannot always win. They can just fight harder. It's a business of victory and defeat.

"When we get back to that firehouse, I know I've done the best I could with my limited mental and physical resources," Joe said. "It's that way for all of us."

From Joe Lawler to Keith Lawler to Arne Lerwick . . . and every man who has bet his life against the flames.

IVI rates Thompson, Anderson 'preferred'

The Independent Voters of Illinois gave a "preferred" rating to James R. Thompson and Joan Anderson, who are running for the Republican nomination for governor and lieutenant governor in the March 18 primary.

The announcement by the IVI fell short of a full endorsement from the group, which had decided recently not to endorse a candidate in the Democratic gubernatorial primary.

"The IVI cannot at this time full endorse these candidates since they differ with us on so many key issues," said Steve Klein, IVI chairman.

The "preferred" rating for Thompson and Anderson came after the IVI interviewed the pair and their opponent Richard Cooper and St. Clair County Sheriff Dave O'Neal.

Klein said the group questions Thompson's stand favoring capital punishment and opposing handgun control, the graduated income tax and removal of the sales tax on food and medicine. He added Mrs. Anderson, who is a Metropolitan Sanitary District trustee, opposed the multimember legislative district, something favored by the IVI, Klein said.

Klein also announced the group will not endorse in the Democratic primary for attorney general. He said the IVI doubted if State Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, can serve in the office independent of machine control, while his opponent, Ronald Stackler, "does not meet our high standards of excellence."

House bills rule rapped

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and State Rep. Richard Mugallan, D-Palatine, have criticized a new Illinois House rule that requires legislative bills to receive a majority vote of all members of a committee before it can be sent to full House for action.

The current rules require only that the bill receive a majority vote from the members of the committee present in order for it to be sent to full House for action.

"Supporters of the rule change claim it will reduce the number of 'bad' bills that go to the full House membership on the floor, ease the workload and eliminate the end-of-the-session logjam. However, the new rule places a premium on absence from a committee hearing, will unduly delay consideration of bills and will allow a small minority of members, often with special interests, to prevent the full House from considering proposed legislation of statewide importance and effect the two lawmakers said.

Postal competition urged

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, a frequent critic of the U.S. Postal Service, praised the U.S. Council on Wage and Price Stability for its support of competition in the carriage of first class mail.

Crane is a long-time supporter of efforts to allow competition for the carriage of first class mail.

"This endorsement by the administration of the concept of competition in the carriage of first class mail is a major step toward the passage of legislation which would repeal the government's monopoly. I plan to seek additional sponsors for my legislation in the near future," Crane said.

Young breakfast Saturday

Samuel H. Young will sponsor a breakfast Saturday for members of the real estate and banking communities in the 10th Congressional District.

Young, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Congress from that district, will hold the session at 8 a.m. at the Park Ridge Inn, Touhy Avenue and Busse Highway, Park Ridge. Reservations for the breakfast may be made by calling 673-9038.

GOP candidates night set

The Maine Township Republican Woman's Club will sponsor a candidate night at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 18 at party headquarters, 1586 Miner St., Des Plaines. Party officials said 60 candidates were invited to the session, which is open to the public.

Fair share of RTA vowed

Roy Bergquist, a Republican candidate for the Illinois House from the 4th Legislative District, has promised to initiate a move to ensure the suburbs get a fairer share of the funds from the Regional Transportation Authority.

He noted the Chicago Transit Authority will receive more than 75 per cent of the RTA's budget next year.

He said he also opposed the implementation of a RTA tax on gasoline sold in a six-county area that comprises the district.

Intoxication law changes set for May passage

An Illinois House subcommittee announced Thursday major legislative changes will be introduced in May to amend a state public intoxication law so it can go into effect July 1.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, said the new law, which was passed two years ago, will provide care and treatment instead of arrest for persons drunk in public. Implementation of the law was delayed twice.

State Rep. Robert K. Downs, D-Chicago, chairman of the alcoholism subcommittee of the House Human Resources Committee, said the major changes redefine the terms "incapacitated" and "intoxicated" to safeguard the civil rights of the persons to be treated. He said the changes would also protect police and treatment personnel from potential liability.

Mrs. Chapman said she believes the Illinois General Assembly will pass the changes even though the bulk of the lawmakers' work will be confined to budget and appropriation matters this spring.

Downs told a Chicago news conference the legislative changes will also allow facilities, other than hospital emergency rooms, to receive persons for treatment, eliminate the requirement that persons brought voluntarily for treatment be examined immediately by a doctor.

He said the changes will also recognize juvenile alcoholism as a serious problem. He said the changes will require health and disability insurance programs to include alcoholism as a covered illness.

Improving Arlington hosts pace-setting Buffalo Grove

by ART MUGALIAN

It was a pipe dream just two weeks ago, and even today it's really no more than a dangerous thought. But after tonight, well — you never know.

Arlington's basketball Cardinals have recovered from a 3-10 start to win their last three Mid-Suburban North games, and if they beat visiting Buffalo Grove tonight (WWMM-FM, 92.7) the Cards would move to within a game of the division lead.

The game is one of three contests on the slate in the North loop tonight. The others are Palatine (4-5) at Wheeling (2-3) and Hersey (4-1) at Fremd (1-4). All three games are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Don Drain's young Arlington crew has rebounded from the disappointing start to move into contention with a 3-2 league mark. Buffalo Grove, 5-0 in the North, knocked off the Cardinals 65-41 in their first meeting.

"The kids have a little extra incentive," said Drain, "not only because we're back in the race, but because we were kind of embarrassed against Buffalo Grove the first time around."

In that first match, the Cards missed the services of 6-foot-3 junior Greg Kleiber, who owns a 16-point average. Today, Kleiber is back and healthy.

"Several things have helped turn our team around," said Drain, who took over the coaching reins after the start of the season. "Kleiber's return is one. And Tom North has been giving us another solid scorer to complement Kleiber and Jim Grandt."

"Plus the kids have developed confidence both in themselves and in their teammates," Drain added.

"We're going to need that near-perfect game," said Drain. "And that means holding our turnovers down to about 12."

Buffalo Grove coach Paul Grady has watched the steady improvement of Arlington and it has him concerned. But his own team has shown a marked improvement that keeps him smiling.

Grady's Bison have captured convincing victories over North rivals Fremd, Hersey, and Wheeling in the past two weeks during a particularly rugged portion of the schedule, moving their over-all mark to 14-3.

The Bison have provided excellent support for 6-8 superstar Brian Allmiller. Junior guard Scott Groot has recovered from an injury and his addition to the lineup gives the Bison another outside shooting threat.

Buffalo Grove's Tim Stonerook, Fred Heesch, and Mike Ledna have contributed greatly to the team effort.

Hersey needs a victory to keep pace in the North and the Huskies will take their tall front line to Fremd for a rematch with the Vikings. The first time the teams met, Hersey erupted in the second half to take a 60-42 decision after trailing by nine at halftime.

Tuesday at Elk Grove, the Huskies got 18 points each from Clyde Glass

Mustangs travel to Conant

Meadows shows new life

by ART MUGALIAN

There doesn't seem to be any reason why Rolling Meadows can't win its next eight basketball games, advance through the regionals at Maine West, and move into the sectional tourney in March.

No reason that Mustang coach Bill Weinberg can see, anyway. Meadows will meet host Conant (5-2) in a South division feature tonight at 8:00.

Weinberg's team is 5-11 after giving powerful West Aurora a real scare last Saturday. The Mustangs are 3-4 in the Mid-Suburban South, which leaves them pretty much out of the conference chase the rest of the season.

But Meadows has improved markedly over the past couple of weeks since a 54-50 loss at Palatine, and Weinberg is looking forward to Phase Two, the regionals.

"I guess it would take some kind of miracle to win the division," the coach admitted. "But I think we can win all of our games and still be a factor in the race."

Tonight's game at Conant is first on the docket for the Mustangs' rejuvenated bunch. The other South division games scheduled for tonight feature Hoffman Estates (1-5) at Schaumburg (5-1) and Forest View (2-5) at Prospect (3-4). Elk Grove (4-3) is idle.

Conant is one game behind South leader Schaumburg, and the Cougars need a win to stay in contention. Coach Dick Redlinger's team beat Meadows the first time they met, 49-40. In that game, Conant's Pete Scaffid scored 15 points in a starring role.

"Scaffid killed us with a couple of long jumpers that broke open what I thought was a well-played game by both teams," Weinberg said. "We'll have to concentrate on picking up their guards a little earlier to prevent the same thing from happening."

John Carbery, the Mustangs' leading scorer with an 11-point average, was held to six that night.

Meadows' surge has largely been the result of inspired play by guard Noe Nunez and frontliners Bill Wissen and Jerry McGill. Wissen and McGill have registered their career-high game scoring marks in the past week.

"We've finally got the right combination on the court," said Weinberg, who, in addition, has installed senior guard Ken Breithell into the lineup.

Joe Breault's Schaumburg Saxons (15-2) entertain Hoffman, a team they beat 75-58 the first time around. If the Saxons win No. 16 tonight, it will give them as many victories this season as they managed in the last two seasons combined.

Schaumburg, though, will have to guard against a letdown in the game with much-improved Hoffman. The Saxons may be looking ahead to next Tuesday's showdown at Elk Grove.

Prospect needs a victory to even its MSL mark at 4-4, but coach Bill Slayton is wary of tonight's return engagement with Forest View.

"We beat them the first time around but they've made some adjustments since then and they're very capable of turning the tables on us now," Slayton said. "The fact that they were able to beat a good team like Elk Grove and scare a good team like Schaumburg makes us respect them very much."

Fortunes have been bleak this year at Prospect, where last season Slayton's Knights were MSL champs.

"We've had our ups and downs but I've been satisfied with the way the kids have produced, for the most part," said Slayton, whose team is 7-11 over-all. "They haven't stopped hustling since the season started."

Anybody want to buy a used bowling ball?

In France they call it "Quilles." Germans call the game "Kegel." In Latin America it is referred to as "Boliche."

I can't tell you what I called the sport of bowling last Saturday night. This is a family newspaper.

I finally put it all together — all the bad bowling habits collected through the years — and flopped miserably in, of all things, a Paddock Publications bowling tournament.

It probably wouldn't have been so bad, or so embarrassing, if this had been sponsored by some obscure weekly paper in Carmi or Cairo, but this was in Elk Grove Village on a Saturday night and there was no way I could avoid the snickers. Herald people were all over the place at the mixed leagues tournament.

It's not that I'm such a hot bowler to begin with. I bowl once a week in the company mixed league and my weekly target is a 500 series, nothing fancy. I'm satisfied with anything above 480.

People don't talk about 800s in our league. We talk about a "big five" (over 580) series, "small five" (600-550), "big four" (450-499), and "small four" (400-449).

It was so bad Saturday night I started praying for a "big three."

I struck and spared in the first two frames of the first game and still finished with an absolutely pathetic opening performance. Don't ask for numbers. Please.

The ball was hooking wildly or skidding to the right. There was no regular pattern of ineptitude. I tried to adjust, but nothing helped. Single pins stared back at me, as if to say, "There is no way you can knock me down."

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

There was no way. The pin won — again and again.

When you start having problems in bowling, the usual copout is to blame it on the lanes. I won't even resort to that this time. I was the problem Saturday night, not the lanes.

There was one silver lining. There was no overhead scoreboard.

Until it was all over and the score sheets had to be turned in (where was the shredder when I needed one?), my dismal performance was known only to my teammates and to our competition, a very nice team called Marty's Heating that, thank goodness, was very polite and didn't laugh at my struggles.

The scorekeeper, from The Herald, tried her best to keep from laughing, but she slipped now and then. I didn't know quite how to take her "Nice one, Frisk" comments when I guttered going after the 10 pin or missed the head pin completely.

I wasn't alone in my misery. The team that bowls together suffers together. I had some company down below although there was one guy who actually bowled his average, spilling an otherwise total collapse by the Paddock Mixed Leagues entry.

Gradually — about the fifth frame of the first game — it became apparent there would be no concern over the embarrassment of any Herald headline saying, "Paddock team wins Paddock tourney."

The concern after the fifth frame of the first game was a headline that said, "Paddock team embarrasses Paddock."

I kept telling myself, "It's only a game. It's only a game," but I soon became paranoid. I was sure I heard rumbles in the audience, people saying, "How'd that hapless team ever qualify for this tourney?"

There were some shouts from well-meaning spectators.

"You're dropping the ball!"

Do you know what that does to your concentration? Suddenly, you're trying to analyze every move as you walk, or shuffle, to the foul line.

We knew we were in trouble when officials came over and estimated we needed a 1007 in the third game to have a chance at the title, or an average of 282 per bowler. Somehow, I think we got the idea then we were out of the running.

Where did we finish? No, we didn't crack the first division of 55 teams. Yes, we did make the second division — barely.

I hope Leo Durocher was right when he said, "Nice guys finish last." And to think I passed up the Mary Tyler Moore, Bob Newhart and Carol Burnett shows for this humiliation.

George Foreman learns Clancy's 'canvas' bounce

If you're going to lose only one fight in your life, you would think 5 o'clock in the morning would be just the right time for it. You wouldn't expect too many people to find out about it. If you had to pick a place, how about a clearing in the jungle?

Unfortunately, the whole world happened to be looking in when George Foreman lost the only fight of his life.

He was working on a winning streak of 40 straight, not counting cops, cellmates, and people careless enough to be walking through parks at night with money.

A fighter should lose a four-rounder somewhere early in his career when nobody's looking, or caring, so he can get used to it. George Foreman was knocked to the floor only once in his life. And it was such a new experience for him, he didn't seem to know which way was up. A fighter should be floored in a six-round prelim some time so he can get the hang of it.

George Foreman was probably the least experienced fighter ever to win the heavyweight championship. When he met Muhammad Ali in Africa in 1974, he had 40 fights — but only 121 rounds. Since 1971, no "fight" of his had gone more than two rounds and some a lot less.

Ali hadn't lost a lot. But he had fought thousands of rounds. He knew what to do when hurt, dazed, knocked down. George had never had to look UP at the referee in his life. George was an amateur at losing, a rookie at getting up.

George didn't even know what to DO after a loss. So, he fought five clowns in one night in a nightmarish charade which almost destroyed boxing but, unfortunately, not quite. It was probably the most degrading spectacle sport has seen since Jesse Owens raced a horse, or Tony Galento boxed an octopus.

So, George Foreman needed some sense of purpose to his life. George had lost more than a fight at Kinshasa. George had lost his ego. Ali had landed a hard right to his pride, too, punching it out in 2:58 of the eighth round, along with a dazzling series of left insults, right ridicules, sneers to the mid-section, and scoffs to the ear. Muhammad Ali leaves you nothing at the end of a fight he wins but a headache and an earache.

Gilbert Clancy is a Holl's Kitchen Irishman, an NYU graduate and a onetime Police Athletic League instructor who knows more about putting fighters together than anybody of his generation. He's a cocky, Cagneyish character who was a swift, hard-bellied lightweight himself in his day. Clancy was hired by George Foreman, who lost faith in his previous management because they didn't tell him how to get up.

Clancy quickly saw that he had to gain George's confidence. But he also saw that George had to gain George's confidence, too. Clancy, who had one of boxing's longest and most profitable associations with Emile Griffith, who fought 25 world 1 a ets and is still a ranked contender, installed a crash program to instill the one missing ingredient in George Foreman's weaponry — experience.

The Clancy-Foreman partnership was given the acid test in Ron Lyle earlier this month at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas. Lyle, who's not to be confused with those carnival-booth stiffies George took on up at Toronto, gave the former heavyweight champ the pounding of his life, knocking him twice to the canvas. Foreman was on queer street again, but this time he shook loose the cobwebs and dispatched Lyle after a brutal corner mugging in the fifth round.

Clancy seems to have put something of the old tiger in Foreman's tank. Now if they can "smoke out Ali for one more tournament, and maybe think of something to take away his attack," George may be on his way again. To take away Ali's attack, however, I would recommend first, ear-muffs.

Bruins stop
Black Hawks, 5-3

Jean Ratelle scored two goals Thursday night to lead the Boston Bruins to their fourth straight victory, a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

The Bruins took a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Terry O'Reilly and Ratelle but Chicago stormed back to take a 3-2 lead with goals from Dennis Hull in the first period and Alain Daigle and Pit Martin in the second period. The Bruins scored the next three goals, with the game-winner coming from John Bucyk at 18:20 of the second period.

With the Bruins trailing 3-2, Ratelle received a pass from Don Marcotte on the right wing and the veteran center responded with his 18th goal of the year. Less than two minutes later, Wayne Cashman skated behind his net and passed out front to Bucyk, who beat Hawks goalie Tony Esposito on the short side.

Cashman scored the only goal of the third period. The loss was only the second absorbed by the Hawks in their last 16 games.

Tampa Bay hires Gibrion

Former Chicago Bear Head Coach Abe Gibrion was signed Thursday as defensive coach for the expansion Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League. Gibrion, who was head coach of the Bears from 1972-74 and of the Chicago Fire of the defunct World Football League before that team disbanded in 1974, will assume his new duties Sunday.

"I have long respected Abe as a player and as a coach," said Bucs' Head Coach John McKay, a teammate of Gibrion at Purdue. "His teams have always been top-flight on defense."

Gibrion is the sixth assistant coach named by McKay. He is expected to name two more assistants. Gibrion was an All-Pro guard during his seven years with the Cleveland Browns. During that time he played in six NFL championship games and was on the winning team three times.

Zikes in finals of King Louis Open

Palatine's Les Zikes was one of 24 bowlers making the final cut after three rounds at the $70,000 King Louise Open in Overland Park, Kan. Thursday.

Earl Anthony, a 20-time winner on the Professional Bowlers Association tour, took a 45-pin lead going into the final six games. The top five bowlers at the conclusion of match play Friday will advance into Saturday's nationally televised finals.

Through 18 games, Zikes had a pinfall total of 3,776 for 23rd place, well off Anthony's 4,066 leading pace. Number five man after Thursday was Don Johnson of Las Vegas, Nev. with 3,913 while Chicago's Carmen Salvino stood just four pins shy of the top five qualifiers in sixth place.

Wade wins in Virginia Slims tourney

Top seeded Virginia Wade, the defending champion, moved into the semifinals of the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Chicago Tennis Tournament Thursday with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over fellow-Britisher Cynthia Doerner.

Fifth-seeded Nancy Gunter scored a mild upset over fourth-seeded Olga Morozova in a match that went three sets.

An hour after her afternoon singles triumph, Mrs. Wade returned to team with the Soviet Union's Morozova for a 6-4, 6-4 doubles victory over Sue Stap of Deerfield, Ill., and Valerie Ziegenfuss of El Cajon, Calif.

Connors, Borg, Laver advance

Relentless pressure brought Jimmy Connors from behind to defeat Stan Smith, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 Thursday night and put the No. 1 seed in the quarterfinals of the $115,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Championships where he will meet his Las Vegas Playmate Rod Laver.

Bjorn Borg, second-seeded to Connors, had no difficulty in a 6-3, 6-3 victory of Mark Cox. Borg will face Jan Kodes in the quarterfinals.

Struggling and having difficulty concentrating, the 37-year-old Laver nevertheless advanced to the quarterfinals with a 7-6, 7-6 victory over young Brian Gottfried.

Later in the day happy-go-lucky Tom Gorman shocked Arthur Ashe 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 and also advanced to the quarterfinals. It was the Wimbledon champion's first defeat of the year.

Cubs are losers at the bank too

The Chicago Cubs lost $2,109,191 from baseball operations in 1975 and had a net operating loss of $154,783 for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31. President Philip K. Wrigley reported at the annual stockholders' meeting in Wilmington, Del., Thursday.

"While there was a slight increase in home and road attendance and an overall increase in income of $192,197," he reported, "the constant rise in costs of operations created a loss for the year after taxes."

Baseball operations provided a direct income of $3,442,477, the report showed, but expense was $5,551,638, creating a loss from direct baseball operations of $2,109,191. Receipts from "other sources" provided $1,994,406 to produce the final deficit.

Curl early leader in Hawaiian Open

Rod Curl, 10th on this year's money winning list, employed a hot putter Thursday to shoot an eight-under-par 64 for the early first round lead in the $230,000 Hawaiian Open.

Curl, a three quarter Wintu Indian from Project City, Calif., missed by just one stroke equalling the course record set by Jack Nicklaus in 1969.

WWMM microphones at Arlington

WWMM-FM (92.7) will have its microphones at Arlington tonight as the improving Cardinals tackle North Division powerhouse Buffalo Grove in Mid-Suburban League basketball.

Bob Houghton of WWMM will call the plays and Bob Frisk of The Herald will give the color commentary with air time 8 p.m.

WWMM will cover Loyola vs. Marquette Saturday night from the International Amphitheatre with Howard Balson calling the action starting at 7:30 p.m.

In other high school coverage tonight Randy Paniello will be at the microphones as WFVE-FM (88.3) showcases the battle between Forest View and Prospect, starting at 7:45 p.m.

Harper dry spell keys
95-86 Rock Valley win

by MIKE GARBUS

Rock Valley used a nearly four minute scoring drought by Harper at the outset of the second half to expand on its 45-40 halftime lead to coast to a 95-86 win over the Hawks Thursday night at the St. Viator High School gym.

The loss dropped Harper's season record to 9-12.

Rock Valley switched to a zone in the second half of play after the Hawks exploited the Trojans' man-man of the first 20 minutes with lob passes to their front-liners.

The lob technique had helped the hosts to leads of as much as six points before Rock Valley forward Dennis Burke's jumper broke a 33-all and forced the visitors' lead that was never headed.

"We didn't attack the zone," Hawk coach Roger Bechtold said of Rock Valley's second half defense that forced his squad to scrap the lob.

Though the Hawks forced the Trojans into 18 of their 28 game-long turnovers in the second half, they found it hard to capitalize. Characteristic of Harper's frustration during the dry spell was its failure to convert two straight fast breaks and one shot from underneath without a Trojan in sight.

Rock Valley was buoyed by its rebounding performance on the night that saw it dominate the Hawks 50-36.

Rock Valley collected its last 11 points of the contest at the free throw line. In all, the Trojans hit 23 of 27 chances at the line.

Rock Valley guard Louis Watkins lead his mates with 22 points, while forward Mickey Myles chipped in with 21.

Harper got another outstanding shooting performance out of forward Jim Arden, who took game high scoring honors with 26 points.

Wally Butman tallied 20, Steve Loughman hit for 14, Bill Kenney for 12, Scott Green and Art Stevenson each collected six and Kevin Lavin added two.

ONE OF THE more consistent performers on the Wheeling High School swim team this year has been junior Dan Mackie, who regularly finishes first or second in the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard backstroke while helping his team's 400-yard freestyle relay team.

Ruth caught stealing

The New York Yankees lost the 1926 World Series four games to three to the St. Louis Cardinals when Babe Ruth was caught trying to steal second base with two out in the ninth inning and the Cardinals ahead 3-2.

Hitting heaven

In 1930 when the entire National League had a batting average of .303, guys who hit .330 were considered "weak sticks" and Freddy Lindstrom of the New York Giants was fifth in the league with a "mediocre" .379.

Mid-Suburban North

and Jay McDermott and 19 from Tom Burzak but still lost. Coach Roger Steingraber tried shaking up his guard combinations with some success and tonight Mark Miesfeldt and Joe Pusatera could see more playing time.

Wheeling Coach Ted Ecker is still reeling from three straight North division losses, but he hasn't given up hope. The Wildcats' battle against visiting Palatine tonight is a crucial game, though.

Palatine's attempts to get into the league win column have met with nothing but failure so far, but the Pirates keep getting closer. Last week, they went down to the wire against Hersey before losing.

"We're so close to putting it all together," said Pirate coach Ron Finck.

Palatine's 6-6 junior Kevin McKenna moved into first place in the league scoring derby with a 24-point average, just a fraction ahead of Allsmiller of Buffalo Grove.

Emotional battle highlights Friday swimming card

STATE HOPEFUL. Tom Stahnke of Rolling Meadows High School is tied for ninth in the latest listing of the state's best times in the 50-yard freestyle. Stahnke's time was 22.7 seconds, but he recently improved that to 22.4 which could put him in a fourth place tie in the next rankings. Meadows (0-5) swims today vs. Forest View (0-5) as both teams look for their first conference win.

by BOB GALLAS
Swimming Editor

An emotional battle for third place in the Central Suburban League involving two evenly matched swim teams highlights a light card of swimming action tonight when Maine East (3-2) is hosted by Maine West (3-2).

In the Mid-Suburban League, next-to-the-last week of conference action will see Buffalo Grove (3-2) at Arlington (5-0), Forest View at Rolling Meadows (0-5) and Elk Grove (3-2) at Hersey (1-4).

In MSL action Wednesday, Prospect moved closer to a conference meet showdown with Arlington by drubbing Wheeling, 111-61. The Knights from Prospect captured every first place event in the meet.

It's parents' night tonight at the Maine West pool where action will get underway at 7:30. Parents of senior swimmers will be honored during the meet.

The meet is crucial to both squads who are trying to stay close to league leading Glenbrook North (7-0) and second place Glenbrook South (6-1).

The Warriors from West will finally be back at full strength after a rash of illness and injuries. Coach Scott Chovanec sees depth as a critical factor in the meet.

"Both squads have depth and every event should produce some good races," said Chovanec.

Buffalo Grove is next to try where a long line of MSL teams have failed — beating Arlington. Hurting the Bison's chances is an injury to one of their top swimmers, Mike Yaskey, who's been out with a shoulder injury and may only swim in one event today.

"I'd say they (Arlington) are at least one or two guys ahead of us," said Bison coach Jim Harrington. "But things should be close," he said. The meet at Arlington should begin at 4:15 p.m.

Either Rolling Meadows or Forest View is guaranteed to walk away smiling after their encounter at the Buffalo Grove High School pool at 4:30 p.m. Each team is looking for its first win in conference competition.

Hersey will entertain a heavily favored Elk Grove with little more than a handful of talent to throw against the Grenadiers, but what a handful it is.

The Huskies boast Chris Tague, state leader in three freestyle events, the MSL's top diver in Bill Cashmore and Dick Hawes, another dependable point getter whose times have dropped significantly of late.

Tague leads in state rankings

Hersey's Chris Tague now ranks above all other swimmers statewide in three categories, according to the latest listings of the state's high school swimmers.

Tague is ranked first in the 200-, 100- and 500-yard freestyle events. He is also 11th in the 200-yard individual medley.

Again the Herald area is well represented on the state's list of top 12 swimmers. Eight area products are listed as among the state's 12 best in 13 events. In the medley relay, St. Viator's team is fifth while Prospect's is 10th. Viator is also ranked seventh in the freestyle relay.

Tague is the only swimmer in the state to rank first in three events. Hinsdale's Matt Robertson comes closest as he is first in two events statewide.

Chris Tague

Other swimmers ranked in the state include Tom Stahnke of Rolling Meadows who is tied for ninth in the 50-yard freestyle and is sixth in the 100-

Explosive Holy Cross visits Lions tonight

The basketball fortunes of St. Viator have turned for the better, but the Lions will be hard pressed to keep it that way tonight when they entertain a young, but explosive Holy Cross team.

The Lions have won three of their last five and the two losses were each by one point, to Palatine and powerful Marist.

Holy Cross is now tied with Marist for the East Suburban Catholic Conference lead. Both teams have 7-1 conference marks. Viator, meanwhile is in fourth place with a 5-4 league mark.

"We're going to have to be physical and stop their fast break," said Lions coach Ron Cregier. "It should be a good game the way we've been playing lately. I think we've peaked so now it's a matter of sharpening up and keeping turnovers down," he said.

Holy Cross, which starts five juniors, will be giving some heat away to the Lions on the boards, with a front line that goes 6-foot-5, 6-foot-5 and 6-foot-2, compared to the Lions' 6-foot-9, 6-foot-8 and 6-foot-2.

Game time will be about 8 p.m. in the St. Viator gym.

First Hoffman sign up

The Hoffman Estates Park District will be holding its first formal soccer registration on Saturday, Feb. 7 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Vogelie Barn, 650 West Higgins Road. The fee is $8.00 per player, with each getting a complete soccer uniform they will be able to keep at the end of the season.

Basketball game for Keefe Fund Feb. 4

Tickets will go on sale today at Mid-Suburban League schools for the Coach David Keefe Memorial Basketball Game, Wednesday, Feb. 4 at Prospect High.

Sixty area football coaches, representing all levels of competition in the Mid-Suburban, will participate in this special game.

The money will be used in the education fund for the children of Dave Keefe, the Prospect High School football coach who died of cancer New Year's Eve.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students, and they may also be purchased at the gate the night of the game. The game will start at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 4.

In addition to the high schools, the Mount Prospect State Bank and The Bank and Trust of Arlington Heights also will have tickets for sale.

The game will match the North and South divisions with Hank Szymanski and Ron Ashley of the Prospect staff serving as coaches.

Mark Rohl of St. Viator is 11th in the 50-yard freestyle and eighth in the 100-yard freestyle. Rohl's teammate, Doug Peonisd, is third in the state in the 100-yard backstroke. Buffalo Grove's Mike Yaskey is tied for sixth place statewide in the event.

Prospect's Spencer Gluchist is seventh in the backstroke. Rusty Myers of St. Viator is 10th in the 500-yard freestyle.

Free throw contest at Woodfield

They've been shooting baskets at Marshall Field Court this week.

No, that's not a new basketball arena in the area. It's a free throw shooting competition at Woodfield Mall.

Action started on Monday with the preliminaries running through today in six categories — 12 and under boys and girls, 13 through 16 girls and boys and 17 and over males and females.

Between 4:30 and 6 p.m. and 7 and 8:30 p.m. you can try your luck.

Those in the older age groups that sink 3-for-3 will advance to the finals on Saturday. The 13 and under competitors must sink at least two to qualify for the finals.

The finals will get underway at 10 a.m. Saturday with over 150 prizes being donated by the shopping center merchants.

Bob Love, star forward from the Chicago Bulls, will be at the mall between 1-3 p.m.

Niles West visits Warriors tonight

With one eye on the top spot in the Central Suburban League South, the Maine West Warriors (6-2) host Niles North (2-6) in basketball action starting at 8:00 tonight.

The Warriors are tied for second place in the South after knocking off Maine South last week in a 53-52 thriller.

The Warriors will try to avoid looking past tonight's encounter at Tuesday's trip to Niles West, against the 7-1 Indians which could be a battle for first place in the conference.

They (Niles North) are no doubt much improved since the last time we faced them," said West coach Gaston Freeman. The Warriors won easily last time out against North in December, 64-45.

Freeman said he has been pleased with his team's performance since their Christmas tournament, but added his players needed to work on patience in setting up shots and setting the tempo of a ballgame.

The Warrior bench will be weaker for tonight's game. Sub Jim Logren is doubtful for the game. Logren was in the hospital earlier this week after suffering a concussion in a collision during the Waukegan West game.

Hoffman seeks volunteers

The Hoffman Estates Boys Club is seeking volunteers to participate in next year's football program. People are needed in the following areas: commissioner, coaches, equipment manager, groundskeeper, publicity, officiating, recruiting, concession stand, banquets, bowl trips, pre-registration, chain gang and fund raising.

Please contact 885-2513 for further information.

Saxons girls sports night

Schaumburg High School girls sports will be honored at an athletic banquet on Monday, Feb. 2 at 6:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the school's VIP Club, the banquet will be held in the high school's lunchroom on the ground level, east end of the building at 1100 Schaumburg Road.

Volleyball, tennis, field hockey, archery and bowling will be the sports honored.

Zikes ninth in voting

Les Zikes, pro at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, and a seasoned veteran on the American Bowling Congress tour, finished ninth on the latest ballot for entry into the ABC Hall of Fame.

Zikes picked up 22 votes for membership but will have to wait a bit before being selected to the hall of fame.

SAA sets extra day

The Schaumburg Athletic Association will hold an extra day of baseball registration Saturday, Feb. 7 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Great Hall in the barn on Civic Drive above the police station.

The first day of registration will be Saturday, Jan. 31 at the same time and location.

Registration is open to all boys and girls who, as of August 1, 1976, are between eight and 15 years of age. The fee is $30 per player or $50 for a family registering two or more players.

Final Prospect Heights signup

Prospect Heights Little League will hold its final registration Wednesday, Feb. 4 at MacArthur Junior High School cafeteria, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd. between 7 and 9 p.m.

All boys between the ages 8-14 that live within the boundaries of Hintz Rd. on the north, Kensington Rd. on the south, Windsor Drive on the east and Arlington Heights Rd. on the west are eligible.

Major league tryouts will be held Friday, Feb. 20 and Friday, Feb. 27 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Hersey High School field house.

Area officials chosen

Pat Ritchie and Mary Welton, both of Arlington Heights, have been chosen as officials for the Illinois state girls volleyball tournament at Normal, Ill. this weekend.

Each of the eight women named to the tournament hold the highest ranking accorded an official.

St. James Sports Night

The St. James Parents' Club Sports Night will be held Friday, Feb. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the St. James Parish Center, 820 N. Arlington Heights Road.

Sports stars attending will be Jerry Sloan of the Chicago Bulls and Doug Buffone of the Chicago Bears.

There will be a short talk by each of the celebrities as well as a question and answer period. The evening will also include a film called "Chicago Bear Bloopers."

Tickets, at $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children, can be purchased at the door or by calling 392-2096.

From campuses nationwide

Bob Radzic, an Elk Grove High School grad, and Pat Teehey, a product of Hersey High School, have been honored for their contributions to the Indiana State University football program.

Radzic, a 6-4, 230 pound defensive tackle, made 47 solo tackles and assisted on 30 others and was chosen as an honorable mention on the Associated Press' Little All-American squad.

Radzic is a junior, majoring in business management.

Teehey, although not selected to the All-American team, was chosen by his teammates as the defensive player of the year.

Teehey is an education major who is now doing his student teaching at Terre Haute (Ind.) South High School.

As a 6-2, 215 pound defensive end, Teehey set a school single season record for tackles for a loss at 21. He also set the career mark in the same category with 34.

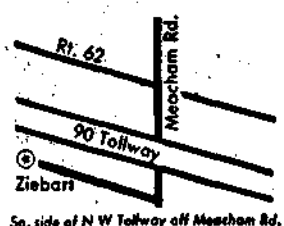

In one day we can make your new car last years longer.

New cars cost more than ever. And now you want to protect your expensive investment. That's what we're here for. One day is how long it takes Ziebart to rustproof your car. And since it's rust, not mechanical wear, that ruins most cars, your new car will stay new much longer.

At Ziebart, we get inside the body with patented spray tools. We coat the metal with a special sealant that penetrates every joint, weld and seam. As a result, your car is really rustproof. And up to 35 percent quieter. And squeakproof and dustproof and leakproof. And worth a lot more money when you finally decide to trade it in. Ziebart. The rustproofing process that works!

Tuneup time in league wrestling; Maine West meets East in feature

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor
For Mid-Suburban League teams it's tuneup time.
For Maine West, it's do or die as they travel to Maine East Friday night still in quest of Central Suburban League wrestling honors in the South Division.

In the MSL, an interesting sampling of crossover matches dominates the mat docket this final weekend prior to the big conference tourney. Schaumburg will visit Palatine and Fremd will be entertained by Hoffman Estates in a pair of Dist. 211 rivalries while Forest View hosts Hersey and Wheeling welcomes in Conant Friday.

Another couple of MSL units will tackle Fenton back-to-back, Golling Meadows hosting the Bisons Friday and Arlington competing in Bensenville Saturday. Meanwhile, Conant and Fremd will be guests of powerhouse Addison Trail tomorrow and a pair of strong Rockford clubs — Auburn and Jefferson — will join with the Wildcats in invading Buffalo Grove Saturday to further highlight area non-conference action.

Elsewhere, league action is still on tap. St. Viator takes on a pair of Suburban Catholic entries — St. Francis de Sales and Montini — Saturday as they ready for the SCC East loop tourney to be hosted by Holy Cross Feb. 7.

And in the CSL, coach Dick Carlini's Warriors have to consider Friday's dual meet with the Blue Demons as more than just a rivalry if they are to remain in the circuit title hunt.

IS YOUR TIME WORTH $50⁰⁰ A MINUTE?

It may be, if you're in the market for a water conditioner and you read this ad. We're the Johnson people and for years we've watched other companies use every sales tool in the book to market their equipment, causing many people to pay hundreds of dollars more than they should have for good water and we feel it's time you should know about it. Here's just a few of the ploys they've used to get you to dig deep into your pocket . . . They often claim that what they're selling is different from anything on the market to justify a higher price. They may say it's an "Ion Exchanger," a "Refiner" or some other fancy doo-dad, but it's basically a water conditioner - it softens, filters, clarifies and removes substantial amounts of iron - the same things ours does. Some companies add a few pounds of activated carbon (which usually lasts only a few months) and call it a "Complete Water Treatment System" in order to demand a premium price, when actually you'd be better off to install a low-priced carbon filter under your kitchen sink for the drinking water. They may offer to check out your older soap, and you'll pay for that too. They may offer to check out your older softener at a discount price or even free of charge and then present you with a whopping estimate to fix it when it may need only minor repairs. The list seems endless. These are commissioned salesmen. . . if you don't buy, they don't get paid. In most cases these companies give the salesman a set cost for the equipment and anything they get over that is their commission. Don't be misled by tactics that could cost you as much as $500.00 extra. We will furnish you with a fully automatic, 32,000 grain, Top-Of-The-Line water conditioner at Factory-To-You-Savings. It has a heavy duty, motor driven brass valve (not plastic), rust-proof fiberglass tank (not metal), which will probably give you a lifetime of use with a minimum of service for just $289.00 uninstalled. This unit is adequate for almost any family in this area, but if you need a larger one it's only slightly higher. Cabinet models are about $15.00 more. We'll install it for just $45.00 (up to 20 ft. copper with a bypass). If you have an older softener that you want checked out we'll give you an honest estimate for any repairs. Call us at 255-1107 or stop by our factory showroom at 1717 North Rand Road in Palatine. If you order a unit within the next 10 days, you'll enjoy a 5% discount.

Knight swimmers should not suffer

Dear Sir:

We come from an affluent suburban area, so affluent that our dedicated kids have to rise at 4:30 a.m. and, half asleep, drag their bodies to a distant park in order to get swim team practice. Is this any way to maintain good grades or good health?

Perhaps it is not practical to build a pool for Prospect (H.S.). I remember a referendum that was outvoted on that subject some years ago. But is it fair to expect these kids to compete with other schools whose swim-time arrangements also allow them to live some semblance of a normal life? We have one indoor pool, a YMCA, and several schools with indoor pools, all within a five-mile radius. Why must Prospect's fine swimmers suffer?

Now for Mr. (Paul) Reeff, a fine coach, certainly more qualified than most, a fine teacher, a great person! The kids, for the most part, love him. Sure, a few complain that he is "tough" but when they finish his course they know the subject. I thoroughly agree with (Herald columnist Bob) Gallas (Wed., Jan. 21) — how long will a man with these qualifications stick under these adverse conditions?

Let us get together past, present and future parents and alumni of Prospect — we do want to maintain the spirit of winning at our fine school and we certainly want to retain a teacher who relates to his students. No, my daughter is not a swimmer, not even an athlete — she is just an average, decent kid who I am sure agrees with me in that it is a rotten deal for a bunch of dedicated people. How long are we going to let this continue?

HAWKS IGNORED

Fans Forum:

Everybody says that Chicago sports fans are too demanding, that they always want winners, that they won't support a team that won't win. We've seen what happened to the White Sox when they fell out of contention a few years ago: nobody went to Sox Park. We saw all the no-shows when the Bears started to lose it. And the Stadium emptied pretty quick when the Bulls suddenly fell on hard times.

Give us a winner, the fans said, and we'll come out in droves.

But what about the Black Hawks? They are riding comfortably on top of their division, they're playing superb hockey, but they can't fill the Stadium like they used to, even when they had a mediocre team a couple of seasons. I think this proves that a winner doesn't necessarily guarantee a full house or a financially successful team. In Chicago, that is. The point has already been proved in Oakland (the A's) and elsewhere.

By the way, I'm convinced that the Hawks' major problem is the issue of hockey expansion. Fans feel that the Hawks are playing in an inferior division (whether it's true or not) and they realize that the Hawks won't get much farther than the first round of the playoffs.

weekend) so they are now one loss behind loop-leading Niles East. West's skirmish with the Trojans will cap CSL dual meet action next weekend and a Warrior verdict then would allow them a share of the crown.

But first, they have to get past Maine East. And that could be no small task considering the outstanding season the Demons have been enjoying.

Fox Valley stars to meet

The Fox Valley High School Hockey League will play an all-star game Sunday, Feb. 1 at the Polar Dome in East Dundee between the all-stars of the North division and the South division. The game is scheduled to begin at 4:10 p.m.

The North division will be represented by players from Schaumburg, Conant, Forest View, Hoffman Estates, Crown, Barrington, Elgin, and Elgin-Larkin. The North will be coached by Elgin coach Greg Swanson.

South's team will be made up of players from Bolingbrook, Lyons-LaGrange, Naperville Central, Naperville North, West Aurora, East Aurora, Geneva, and St. Charles, and they will be coached by Leo Drambowski, the coach at Lyons.

A $1.50 donation for adults and 75 cents for students will be requested at the door. The Polar Dome is located at Rtes. 72 and 25.

Waycinden group plans signups

Registration for the Waycinden Area Boys' Baseball League will be held from 12 noon until 2 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 7, and Saturday, Feb. 14.

The signups will be held at the Mount Prospect Country Club, Sky Room, 600 See Gwun, Mount Prospect. Applications may be mailed to Waycinden Area Boys' Baseball League, P.O. Box 275, Des Plaines, Ill. 60017.

The league boundaries are Golf Road (on the North), Touhy Avenue

Arlington youth program sets two signup dates

Registrations for the Arlington Heights Youth Athletic Assn. will be held in the Olympic Park basement, 680 N. Ridge, on Saturday, Jan. 31 and Saturday, Feb. 21.

Hours for the signup will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

All boys who will be 8 years old and not more than 16 years old on July 31, 1976 are eligible. Boys must live in the village of Arlington Heights and/or the Arlington Heights Park District.

The registration fee will be $12 for the first boy and $7 for each additional brother. In addition, each boy must buy six pancake tickets at $1.50 each to be sold or used at the annual Pancake Day. A maximum of 18 tickets per family will be issued.

The fee for one boy will be $21 — two boys $37 — three boys $53 — and four boys $68.

Boys who have never played in Arlington Heights must bring proof of age regardless of the age category. A parent or guardian (not a friend or neighbor) must attend the registration and volunteer for one of the adult programs.

Girls signup will be held the same time as boys baseball.

Girls must be accompanied by a parent or guardian and must be at least 8 and not more than 18 on July 31, 1976. Proof of age is required of first-time participants.

The registration fee will be $12 for the first girl and $8 for each additional sister. In addition, each girl must buy $6 in decals, which can be sold.

The cost for one girl is $18, two girls $32, and three girls $46.

The old man could hit

The highest batting average logged by a major league batting champion in the past 35 years was by a 39-year-old outfielder who everybody figures was washed up. Ted Williams hit .388 old outfielder who everybody figured in a .406 mark to lead the American League in 1941. The Boston Red Sox star finished his 19-year career with a lifetime average of .344, the fifth-best mark ever.

Ageless Spahn

Warren Spahn didn't register his first 20-win season until he was 26 years old, but over the next 19 major league seasons the crafty lefty had 13 such efforts and finished his career with 363 victories.

Togetherness the only way for the Astins

by GENIE CAMPBELL

John and Patty Duke Astin thrive on togetherness. Even the old cliché "They've got it made" seems refreshingly appropriate. But the famous acting couple do not make a big thing out of their dual contentment. It's not necessary. It genuinely shows.

Starring together on stage, as they are in "Rattle of A Simple Man" at Arlington Park Theatre, is a continuing way of life for them. Since marrying almost six years ago, they've toured together exclusively.

"Yes, this is what we prefer doing," said Patty, who preceded her husband to lunch by several minutes. John was winding up a promised game of pinball with their 2-year-old son.

"Oh, I suppose if something terrific came up for one or the other, we wouldn't stand in each other's way," she continued. Yet her general lack of enthusiasm indicated that nothing could ever be considered that important.

Separation, in fact, would mean leaving a whole family behind because the Astins usually travel en masse with all five sons, along with one grandmother to baby-sit.

The exception was this trip to Chicago. Only the two younger, ages 2 and 4, accompanied their parents because "the timing was all wrong."

THE OLDER THREE (ages 10, 14 and 16 from John's previous marriage) were right in the middle of exams.

"We hated to take them away. Anyhow, they had certain social things they wanted to do. After all, they shouldn't have to make sacrifices for us," said Patty.

But ordinarily it's all eight or nothing. Both parents prefer it and so do the kids. If the school curriculum can't be brought along with Patty and John doubling as teachers, a tutor is hired for the duration of a play's run.

The Astins prefer renting houses to staying in hotels and always send ahead a three-page grocery list to be filled.

"We've almost entirely given up hotels and public transportation," said John, who chauffeurs his family in a large Ford van. The Astins are considering towing a large trailer this summer to alleviate the continual unpacking and to possibly save some of the leftovers.

Yet, total togetherness does not interfere with the couple's acting. It only enhances it.

"It's not hard finding a play to do together, but it is difficult finding one which will be readily booked," said John, mentioning "Rattle of a Simple Man" as one example. The title itself is misleading.

"MANY PEOPLE feel it is a heavier piece than it really is," he continued. "Even so, it is not your usual commercial play."

But the Astins won't agree to do just anything. Parts equal in size are important. But so is content.

John and Patty Duke Astin prefer to remain together on stage.

"We've discovered a wonderful thing in the theater. We're able to reach people, build an audience. Wherever we go now, particularly on the east coast where we tour so much during the summers, we can choose to do almost anything we wish and the people know they'll be getting their money's worth and time's worth. That's what it's all about — doing what you like."

The Astins are often approached to do a movie or television series, together, of course.

"But again it's a similar problem satisfying both the networks and us," said John. "We know what we don't want to do, and that's something which is terribly imitative of what's already being done."

"And then what we feel might be an interesting show just won't fit into a network's planning. In the final analysis we really won't be able to do the ultimate. It will have to be a compromise."

FOLLOWING THE run of "Simple Man," closing Feb. 14, the Astins will return to their Los Angeles home — "in one of the few areas with sidewalks," — until March 1 when they open in Palm Beach.

On a typical Saturday morning at home John frequents the local hardware store to pick up electrical supplies for small repairs. Patty is busy in the kitchen.

"Don't forget you have to lay the tiles when we get home," Patty reminded John. "And the front door will have to be completed."

"The paint was peeling. It looked like something out of 'Tobacco Road,'" said Patty, who took an electrical sander to it one week-end while John was here in Chicago completing production details prior to their Arlington opening. Except along with all the old paint came the molding, too.

"Oh well, at least it looks like it's in progress. Before it simply looked neglected."

PATTY OCCASIONALLY enjoys watching television, particularly if a news program is on, or she often reads. John reads, too, but mostly electronic textbooks.

"Can you believe that?" asked Patty. "He'll read for hours at a time."

"When we do go off on our own for a little R and R, I'll do needlepoint or read and John does orgami. We hardly talk to each other."

"Actually, if I were to try to change anything right now, I'd arrange more time to write. I can't blame my wife. She's very cooperative," smiled John.

Although currently working on a play, he added, "The boys want me to write a best-selling novel or cut a comedy record."

There is little spare time around the Astin household. With five kids in four different schools there are numerous school functions and parent-teacher conferences to attend. And the Astins try to make them all whenever they're in town.

"IN THE OVER-ALL plan of life I guess I actually have all I want. It's very apparent to me how much of the rush, work and caring for the kids I really want, like and enjoy," said John.

And Patty, who considers her marriage "the most important achievement in my life," sums it up . . . "I shouldn't say this out loud but I've really got it all."

"I could have continued to have a successful, satisfying career. But this is how I always pictured myself, happily married with children."

by DICK KLEINER

The depression may be over. At least in Hollywood and that could be the bellwether for the world.

They're making big pictures again, pictures that cost a lot and look it. It's full speed ahead and don't spare the dollars at Columbia, where director Mark Rydell is making a genuine, old-fashioned biggie called "Harry and Walter Go To New York."

At least, that's the temporary title. Nobody is too happy with it. It was designed to reflect the kind of titles they stuck on novels during the period — the turn of the century — when the movie is set.

"But who remembers what titles of novels were at that time?" one of the production staff grumbled. "And, besides, the public will think this is another 'Harry and Tonto,' which it isn't."

FAR FROM IT. "Harry and Tonto" was a gem of a film, but a small film. "Harry and Walter Go To New York" may or may not turn out to be a gem, but there can be no gainsaying its largeness.

It is budgeted at $7 million, and there haven't been many $7 million pictures lately. It has a 16-week shooting schedule, about twice as long as today's average. And it has one of the most lavish (and lavist costs money) indoor sets built in Hollywood in some time.

The set is supposed to be a semi-replica of a real New York establishment of the early 20th Century, a place called Shang Draper's 6th Avenue Oyster House. They served more than oysters there.

"PLEASE, DURING the rehearsals," the assistant director called out to the horde of extras, "don't sniff the cocaine."

Cocaine?

One of the extras, a handsome dark-haired girl, was passing among the diners and gamblers with a small tray. On it was a dish of white powder and she would give certain gentlemen a pinch on a spoon, and they would sniff it up, a nostril at a time.

"Sure they used cocaine then," one of the hangers-on said. "How else could they wear those clothes and smile?"

The clothes were super-fancy, Designer Theoni V. Aldredge (she won an Oscar for "The Great Gatsby") said she had fun designing them.

"PERIOD PIECES are always fun for a designer," Ms. Aldredge said. "And nobody ever gives you an argument, either."

She said some of her inspirations came from the old Godey's Lady's Book, the fashion magazine of the period. She's poured her heart and talent into this wardrobe, and she's saddened by the fact that, as usual, the ownership of the dresses and suits reverts to the studio after the filming is over.

"The clothes become the property of Columbia," she says. "They'll use them again — and when that happens it kills you a little."

Even the dresses for the extras, like the cocaine girl, cost around $1,000 a copy. And the one Leslie Warren was wearing in that scene, Miss Aldredge said, was a

$1,200 number. She said she made about 100 dresses for the film, almost as many as she made for "Gatsby."

BECAUSE OF THE expensiveness of the gowns, the extras were rehearsing with smocks over them, highly unusual for Hollywood. To make the dresses and the women look right, they were even wearing period underwear underneath, and they said it hurt. The women complained about being gored by whalebone corsets.

Miss Aldredge had found some original dresses of the period and had thought to use them. But, she said, today's women couldn't fit into them — their waists were too big.

The set in which the costumes were parading was as elegant as it could be. Heavy wood panelling. Stained glass windows. Plush carpets. Gas jets with real gas, and technicians standing by with tapers to light them. The stained glass, they said, had been especially made for the film.

AND THERE are high-priced actors to fit into the high-priced set. James Caan, Michael Caine, Elliott Gould and Diane Keaton have the leads in this story of a couple of crummy vaudevillians who become safe-crackers.

"Finally," director Rydell said, "I have a chance to do a full-out, romping comedy — but it's a comedy with social overtones. It's a marvelous collage of disparate elements — vaudeville, crime and elegance."

He was supervising a very complicated shot. Caine walks through the gambling hall, greeting a man here, kissing a girl there. The camera had to follow him the full length of the huge room, and everywhere he went there had to be action and conversation.

AT ONE POINT, Rydell wanted men walking past the windows on the outside, making shadows Caine would notice. The men to cast those shadows had to be cued when to start walking. That was accomplished, supposedly, by a cue light — a bulb on a long extension cord which lit when Rydell pressed a button. But the light didn't work, and that small detail held up production a half-hour. That's how costs mount in Hollywood.

Rydell also had his huge cast rehearse by the numbers. As he counted off, they all knew what they were supposed to do and when they were supposed to do it. They went over it dozens of times. Each time, Rydell would change an extra's position or movement.

I left before the shot was finished. It had taken a couple of hours already. The meter was ticking away, the dollars mounting. Maybe prosperity was returning to Hollywood on the wings of waste.

Dionne Warwick's super at sophisticated sound

Dionne Warwick (again without the final "e" in her name) had a long dry spell from her dozens of Burt Bacharach hits until 1974's "Then Came You" with the Spinners.

For her new album, "Track of the Cat" (Warner Bros.), she again is teamed with producer-writer Thom Bell, who was responsible for "Then Came You." Bell's relaxed, stylized brand of Philadelphia soul is an excellent vehicle for Warwick's voice (one of the best in the business). In addition, the backing of the MFSB string and horn section adds a highly polished professionalism.

FROM THE sensual opening — complete with wild cat sound — of the title song to the full sound of the closing "Once You Hit the Road," which is her current single, the album is a triumph of sophistication. The single is an uptempo tale of infidelity, while another highlight, "His House and Me," is a hopeful rather than bitter reflection after a husband has walked out on a woman.

Six of the songs were cowritten by Bell, including five with Linda Creed. Other good performances are found on "Ronnie Lee," "Jealousy" and "This Is Love."

Warwick will appear with Isaac Hayes Feb. 18-22 at the Mill Run Theatre, Niles.

LAST YEAR SAW the welcome resurgence of the Four Seasons and lead singer Frankie Valli's solo career. The group's single, "Who Loves You," was one of the year's best, a good radio brightener.

Starting with "Sherry" in 1962, the Four Seasons (who took their name from a nightclub at which they unsuccessfully auditioned) racked up 17 gold records and sold more than 60 million records. The group then was Valli, Bob Gaudio (who then as now writes most of the group's songs), Nick Massi and Tommy Devito.

A generous helping of those hits and other bright Seasons' sounds is found on the specially priced "The Four Seasons Story" two-record set (Private Stock). Among the 28 songs are "Sherry," "Dawn," "Bye Bye Baby," "Big Girls Don't Cry," "Ronnie," "Rag Doll" and "Silence Is Golden."

IN "WHO LOVES YOU" (Warner Bros.), the modern Four Seasons — Valli, Don Ciccone, Gaudio, John Falvo and Gerry Polci — ably recapture the same spirit and fine harmo-

What's getting you down these days? Is it too much stress? Too little stimulation? Are you tired all the time and do you have a general case of the blahs?

If so, an eminent psychiatrist, an internist and several medical journalists are at hand to counsel you on "The Courage to Create," "How to Beat Fatigue" and "Keeping Whole in the 20th Century."

Rollo May's "Courage to Create" is a book in praise of creativity in painting, music, mathematics, physics, psychology and in life.

But even for those who have no intention of trying a hand at a potter's wheel or a couplet, Dr. May believes that creativity is the very source of life. We drink from its wellspring to solve everyday problems, to apply a pleasing form and structure to our own lives.

THE BOOK suffers from a lack of cohesion, and in fact we learn from the preface that the various chapters were lectures given at colleges and universities.

But if you enjoy enlightening anecdotes about the creativity of Einstein, Mondrian, Auden and even the Greek god Apollo selected by a man with a genuine feeling and understanding for the inventive spirit, then dip into Dr. May's new book.

"Keeping Whole in the 20th Century" is actually the subtitle for John C. McCamy and James Presley's book called "Human Life Styling." The authors are that reliably readable combination of doctor and journalist and they serve up a pleasant salad of right thinking with good dressing.

Dr. McCamy points out that we are getting sicker in this country and we are getting sicker younger. "In one study of subjects from ages 17 to 24, almost 50 per cent had some kind of degenerative disease."

Since the authors' thesis is that dis-nic blend. There is a good blend of music with the voices, too.

Both the superb title song and "Emily's (Salle de Danse)" have the same instrumental verve. "Silver Star" and "Storybook Lovers" both deal with escape through dreams and imagination. "Mystic Mr. Sam," although its lyrics are outdated psychedelia, has a strong performance, particularly with the horns and synthesizer.

The album also contains their new single, "December 1963 (Oh, What a Night)." Throughout, there is a lush touch to the arrangements, mostly through the strings and keyboards.

Valli's new solo album, "Our Day Will Come" (Private Stock), has some obvious intentions toward the disco market, with the extended title song being the most successful. Production is by Hank Medress and Dave Appell, who specialize in the middle-of-the-road market.

MUCH OF THE NEW album, however, sounds better than most of "Gold" (Private Stock), a hits-type album that can only boast "Can't Take My Eyes Off You" and "My Eyes Adored You" as true hits.

Valli's distinctive voice comes through in fine style on ballads like "You Can Bet" and "Elsie" and the disco-aimed "Heart Be Still" on the "Our Day Will Come" album. There is less tendency toward the novelty side of his vocals, such as in his early helium-raised days.

Both of the Four Seasons albums are recommended, while the new Valli album is the better of his solo albums.

"The Best of Gladys Knight & the Pips" (Buddah) contains two songs from the "Claudine" soundtrack and the other songs all come from the albums "Imagination" and "I Feel A Song." Still, the material is a powerful collection which includes the classic "Midnight Train To Georgia" and smooth ballads such as "The Way We Were," "I Feel A Song" and "The Going Ups and the Coming Downs."

ease is both predictable and preventable, "the techniques of human life styling all revolve around the concept of how you can learn to build up your resistance factors and thereby lower your susceptibility to illness."

THEIR PLATFORM for good health is built on ecology, nutrition, exercise and stress reduction.

There is counsel on vitamin supplements (the doctor believes in them); eating more fresh fruits and vegetables along with whole grain cereals, and avoiding foods like sugar and refined flour.

From deep breathing to giving up smoking, from getting enough exercise to being reasonable about your own great expectations, McCamy and Presley present age-old wisdom folded into a contemporary context.

"HOW TO BEAT Fatigue" by journalist Linda Pembroke is a compendium of research on what makes you tired and some very general suggestions about how to better use your time, exercise and relax.

Each chapter makes generous use of already published books and articles and concludes with a bibliography of the author's sources.

This technique for turning out a book is hardly new, but the author's blatant use of very common materials (articles that have appeared in Reader's Digest, Family Circle, and Today's Health, for example) catches me between awe and annoyance. On the other hand, if you're not a regular reader of the Medical Times, the Archives of General Psychiatry and Patient Care, then you may find something new. But not much.

"How to Beat Fatigue" dispenses both sides of some well known theories and concludes with common sense: get plenty of rest, exercise, think about pleasant things, avoid anxiety and depression. This book may help you pinpoint the causes of your fatigue, but you won't get professional guidance if you are chronically anxious or depressed.

To teach watercolors

A watercolor demonstration will be given by Sue Robertson of Wheeling at Thursday's 8 p.m. meeting of the Community Arts League of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove. Guests are welcome to the program at Chamber of Commerce Community Park, Wolf Road, Wheeling.

League members exhibiting during the month of February are Sylvia Westgard, at the Bank of Buffalo Grove, and Elaine Lumley, at Buffalo Grove Medical Center.

Open auditions

Fortune Theatre in Des Plaines will hold open auditions for "Every Mother's Son" next weekend at Christ Church, Cora and Henry streets, Des Plaines. Friday (Feb. 6) auditions begin at 8 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m. Information 827-6932.

Countryside show

Artists whose work was selected for the Woodfield I Art Fair held last March are featured in an exhibit at Countryside Art Center, 414 N. Vall, Arlington Heights. Gallery hours are 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. The show runs through Feb. 28.

Guest demonstrator

Fredric Bacon, a member of the art department of Maine East High School, Park Ridge, will be guest demonstrator for the Mount Prospect Art League's meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the local community center, 600 See-Gwan. Besides oil painting, Bacon has been working with enamels as an expressive form of art and with ceramics.

Guests are welcome to this program. Information 392-5965.

Harper exhibit

Contemporary American Graphics, an art exhibit of American prints and drawings, are on display at Harper College; Palatine, through Feb. 11. Open to the public free of charge, the exhibition is located in Buildings C and P, second floor.

All the works are available for purchase; prints are matted and mounted with prices ranging from $10 to $300. Two Harper art professors, John Knudson and Jack Tippins, are among the contributors.

Vignette display

Randhurst art show Feb. 7-8

Randhurst's first Winter Art Festival will be held Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 7 and 8, on the shopping center mall in Mount Prospect. More than 120 Chicago-area artists will be showing and competing for cash awards. The show is coordinated by the Mount Prospect Art League and directed by Sylvia Westgard of Buffalo Grove.

Two area art instructors have been named to judge the show: Sally Mason and Joe Abbrescia.

Mason, who teaches at Harper College, has her work on exhibit at Pat Whipple Gallery, Glenview, and the Art Gallery, Backyard of Lincolnshire.

Abbrescia has had many one-man showings throughout the Midwest and is the owner-director of Village Art School, Skokie.

Show hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

State theater group convenes

The fourth annual conference of Illinois Theatre Association will be held at the Bismarck Hotel in Chicago on Feb. 6-8. Included is a meeting of Region III of the American Theatre Association.

Dr. Oscar Brockelt, president of ATA, will address both groups at 8 a.m. Feb. 7. Frank Galati, actor and playwright, will perform at a luncheon the same day. Richard Christensen, Chicago theater critic, will introduce Jean-Claude van Itallie, playwright, at 10:30 a.m. Feb. 8.

Workshops, lectures and showcase productions, headed by prominent theater people in a five-state area, will be shared by approximately 200 delegates concerned with growth and quality of college/university theater; high school, community, professional and children's theater; and creative dramatics.

For Academy Awards

They won't win an Oscar

by VERNON SCOTT

Exactly 227 motion pictures are eligible for Academy Awards nominations this year, 200 of which haven't a prayer.

The 1975 Oscar candidates include flicks from Canada, England, France, Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Russia, Sweden and Switzerland.

Botswana, Bhutan, Paraguay, Iceland and Mongolia were shut out again.

Among studios, Twentieth Century-Fox qualified 20 films. Columbia had 18; American International, 14; Warner Bros., 13; Paramount, 12; Universal, 9; and MGM, 5.

Unlike books which cannot be judged by their covers, most movie titles indicate the worth of their contents.

Who in his right mind would pay to see "Hurry Up, Or I'll be 30"? What about "Don't Cry With Your Mouth Full," "They Call Her One Eye," "What the Peeper Saw," "Confessions of a Window Cleaner," or "Linda Lovelace for President"?

All are eligible this year for an Oscar as best picture. Their directors, players, set designers, composers and all the rest may dream of awards, too. Their chances are nil.

SOME TITLES are outright deceiving, like "And Now for Something Completely Different."

Not infrequently a movie title attempts to cash in on some other picture's success. Last year "Clockwork Blue" was let loose on the public, who did not mistake it for a sequel to "A Clockwork Orange."

Only disaster movie of the year was "The Hindenburg." Such unintentional disasters as "At Long Last Love" and "Doc Savage, The Man of Bronze" don't really count.

The Japanese have a fey touch with titles: "The Last Samurai," "Love-sick Torasan," "The Round Waste-land," "Shinjuku Cop," "Torasan — Good Samaritan" and "The Yakuza" which is not an Asian version of a whirlpool bath.

Chinese filmmakers have the hang of it too, as evidenced by "Shanghai Lil and the Sun Luck Kid," which incidentally, did not star Robert Redford and Paul Newman. The cast was headed by Shih Szu, Chin Han and Lung Fei.

MANY AN American pot smoker was ripped off by the title "Cooley High," which was not the story of a strung-out Chinese peasant.

Black pictures continued popular with such titles as "Aaron Loves Angela," "The Black Gestapo," "Bucktown," "Cornbread, Earl and Me," "Friday Foster," "Let's Do It Again" and "Mahogany."

"The Black Bird," "Black Christmas" and "Black Thursday," however, were not ethnically oriented films. Neither, for that matter, was "White Line Fever."

Some pictures were produced with a cast of a single person. "Appetites" was one such with Sarah Flatt the lone performer. Another was "Give 'em Hell, Harry" with James Whitmore.

Others — "The Man Who Would Be King" — had casts of thousands in the old tradition, mostly rabble in rags.

"SPECIAL SECTION," a foreign import, gave screen credit to 79 actors, none of whom have a remote chance of nomination — not even such household names as Aspiere Dux, Heinz Bennt, Ivo Garrani, Jacques Rispal and Rene Eyrout.

Seek talent for Great America

Over 200 entertainers are needed to perform at Marriott's Great America, a $50 million family entertainment park under construction in Gurnee.

Great America is actively recruiting talent and will hold auditions in the Chicago area at O'Hare Marriott Motor Hotel next weekend, Feb. 6, 6-10 p.m.; Feb. 7, 10 a.m. - 10 p.m.; and Feb. 8, noon - 6 p.m.

The talent search is under way to recruit performers from every aspect of the entertainment field. Needed are singers, dancers, variety performers, jugglers, barbershop quartets and magicians.

Phil Davis, manager of show productions for Great America, said, "The park is expected to be the largest user of young, aspiring entertainment in the Midwest with five large indoor and outdoor theaters, plus roles for strolling musicians, cartoon characters and unique variety performers."

DAVIS SAID auditions will be limited to three minutes and cassette tape recorders, record players and a piano accompanist will be made available for all tryouts.

Live entertainment is expected to play a key role at Great America. Some of the selected talent will join the Great America Singers, a troupe of 18 singers and dancers who will perform daily in the spacious 1600-seat Grand Music Hall.

After the first season, Great America entertainers will be invited to become a part of an on-going talent workshop program during the off-season, which will feature tours and TV appearances.

Costume designers from throughout the country are busy creating the 6,000 costumes that will be used at Great America — one of the largest working wardrobes in the world.

Instrumental musicians, character actors and those interested in stage crew positions are encouraged to contact the Show Operations office to set up an interview. This office is located at 1 Great America Pkwy., P.O. Box 1976, Gurnee, Ill., 60031, or call 249-2000. Marriott's Great America opens May 29.

Chinese menu ample, inexpensive

Dining at the Temple Restaurant in Arlington Heights dispels the myth that one is hungry again an hour after eating Chinese food. It's impossible to leave this Chinese restaurant, located in Surrey Ridge Shopping Center at the northeast corner of Routes 58 and 62, without feeling satiated.

If the ample servings of Temple's family dinners, including Mandarin, Cantonese or Chinese entrees, aren't totally convincing, there is the Temple's delectable all-you-can-eat Sunday smorgasbord.

No tired potato salad is served at this unusual buffet, 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Sunday. Picture instead mounds of crispy, fried won ton, egg rolls, beef chowmein, sweet sour pork, Chinese chop suey, egg foo young, fried rice, almond cookies and tea.

It's inexpensive, too. The price is $3.50 for adults, $2.30 for children under 12, and $1.50 for children under 6.

Featuring:
Temple Restaurant

Although the menu may vary every week, seven main dishes are always featured.

MY HUSBAND and I sampled a bit of everything. We found no skimping on the exotic, fresh Chinese vegetables which were extremely crisp, no easy task when serving a five and a half-hour buffet.

Owner Eric Fong said the secret is to prepare small amounts of dishes which cannot be cooked ahead and kept hot, then constantly replenish the table with them.

Fong, who with his wife Brenda, operates the Temple, said his goal upon opening was to offer the best in Chinese cooking and create a family-type restaurant.

As my husband and I rested between dishes, it was evident the Temple has not only succeeded in attracting families, some as large as 10 to a party, but is also a favorite eating place of Oriental patrons.

OUR ENJOYABLE eating experience at the Sunday buffet prompted a return visit to the Temple. On this occasion, a Saturday night, we began our meal with a pu-pu platter, $6.25, which is not the before-dinner appetizer tray we had expected. Two can actually make a meal out of it.

It includes two large egg rolls, marinated steak on long bamboo skewers, barbecued spare ribs, jumbo Cantonese fried shrimp and a shrimp toast, all of which were excellent.

The shrimp toast deserves an extra compliment. Small triangles of bread are coated with a generous amount of minced shrimp and egg batter with special seasoning, then deep fried to a golden brown. It's different and quite tasty.

BUT BECAUSE the pu-pu platter is so ample, I recommend the Temple Exotic Appetizer tray for two at $4.50, which includes egg roll, ribs, shrimp, Rumsaki (steak), Bong Bong chicken and won ton.

We sampled three main dishes: Mongolian beef, $4.80; Four Happiness, $5.50; and Crab Meat Delights, $5.60.

A garnish of thin-sliced, golden ginger root was sprinkled over the top of the beef dish, a combination of sliced tenderloin sauteed with green onions and served on a bed of long-grain rice.

Bill o' fare

The ginger is added to give an unusual flavor to the dish. Nibble a piece of the pungent root but do not, as I did, eat several pieces. If you do, be prepared to feel like a Chinese dragon belching fire. The root's flavor, I learned later, is released by the hot sauce in the dish, but the root itself should be pushed aside. My faux pas was finally relieved by large amounts of hot tea.

The Four Happiness was made of chunks of roast pork, beef tenderloin, chicken and jumbo shrimp, blended with mushrooms, water chestnuts and bamboo shoots, and flavored with an imported oyster sauce. It's mouthwatering, according to my husband, and a good choice for the diner who can't decide among meat, poultry and seafood.

THE CRAB MEAT Delights, equally delicious, were a combination of Alaska king crab with hearts of bok choy, snow peas, mushrooms, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts, also in a savory oyster sauce.

Although the Temple is not really elegant, comfortable booths and tables with Chinese lanterns to match the over-all red decor afford attractive surroundings.

IN ADDITION to offering dinner prices that are kind to one's pocketbook, Fong serves luncheon specials from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Most dishes cost $1.75, with the highest a $3.15 shrimp and lobster sauce dish. His most popular luncheon is the Double T special, serving egg roll, egg foo young, fried rice and a bottle of beer for only $2.20.

Fong sure drives a hard bargain. —Jerry Thomas

Joffrey Ballet due Tuesday with Bicentennial tribute

Dance fans of Chicago: Spring must be on its way because the City Center Joffrey Ballet arrives Tuesday for its annual two-week visit at the Auditorium Theatre.

The company will open in grand style this year with a tribute to the nation's Bicentennial. All three ballets to be presented opening night are choreographed by Americans to the music of native composers.

Included in the program is Gerald Arpino's new work, "Drums, Dreams and Banjos," to the music of Stephen Foster. Other ballets in the Bicentennial program include Twyla Tharp's "Deuce Coupe II" to Beach Boys music and Jerome Robbins' "Interplay."

Wednesday the Joffrey will stage an evening of Kurt Jooss ballets in honor of the choreographer's 75th birthday. Jooss will be on hand for the event to see the Chicago premieres of both "Pavane for A Dead Infanta" and "Ball in Old Vienna."

Other Jooss ballets to be performed include "The Big City" and the anti-war "The Green Table."

Thursday evening will bring the local premiere of "Five Dances" choreographed by company member Christian Holder.

ON FRIDAY THE spotlight will focus on choreographer Margo Sappington, who will be in town for the world premiere of her new work set to music by Michael Kamen.

As in the past, the Joffrey brings with it a diverse program that includes the romantic, comic, expressionistic and modern sides of the dance world. Many well-known favorites are on the program which runs through Feb. 15.

The Joffrey is the only ballet company that can sustain a two-week winter run in the Loop and return for a third week at Ravinia in the summer. This is because the program appeals to people who have never seen a ballet as well as to the more educated audience.

Tickets range from $11 to $3.50 and are available at the box office, 50 E. Congress Pkwy. Matinee performances are scheduled Feb. 8, 14 and 15. There will be no performance Feb. 9.

"DRUMS, DREAMS AND Banjos" a two-week visit at the Auditorium Theatre, Chicago. The company opens Tuesday with a special Bicentennial program.

New Disney escapade strictly for the kids

by DAVID DUGAS
(A review)

A minor Disney escapade called "No Deposit, No Return" offers some merriment for the kids. But there is minimal fun for adults who may find the notion of a comic kidnapping less than hilarious.

A kidnapping comedy? Young Kim Richards and Brad Savage, both Disney veterans, aren't really kidnapped but would like rich grandpa David Niven to think so. If he pays the ransom, they can finance a flight to Hong Kong to visit absentee mother Barbara Feldon while helping out their supposed abductors, a pair of about-to-reform safe-crackers, Darren McGavin and Don Knotts.

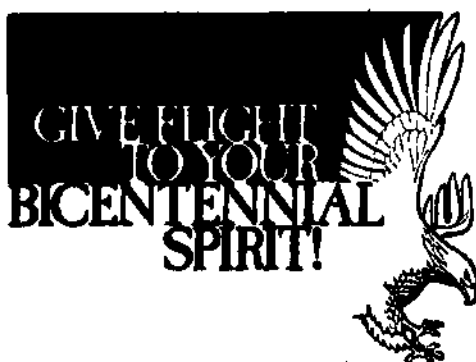

Thanks to the bungling of Los Angeles police detective Herschel Bernardi and his incompetent cops, they nearly succeed before the alternative happy ending.

Knotts gets the best scene, pursuing the youngsters' pet skunk through a Harold Lloyd flagpole routine that builds as it moves onto the towering girders of a high-rise construction site.

Director Norman Tokar, another Disney veteran, keeps the action going. But the kidnapping hoax isn't the happiest of comedy gimmicks. Nor is the heavy-handed ridicule of the men in blue.

"No Deposit, No Return" is rated G.

Camelot Singers feature the '20's

The CAMELOT SINGERS, the current entertainment attraction in the TOP OF THE TOWERS of the ARLINGTON PARK HILTON, have outlasted all other acts booked in the supper club within the last year. And no closing date is yet in sight for the young sextet who just opened a brand new show. Same faces, but all new material.

This one is a Roaring '20s revue complete with flapper dresses, straw hats, Charleston and Blackbottom dance numbers, selected songs from musicals of the era and just old favorites. "Swanee River" and "Second Hand Rose" are two they choose to do.

Though entertaining, the show does not have nearly the continuity or sparkle of their previous one, a salute to Rogers and Hammerstein which they still present for the second show on Friday and Saturday.

Yet, if you haven't seen the Camelot Singers you'll enjoy the freshness and enthusiasm they always wear on stage. And besides, the revue does constitute one of the few floor shows filled with both song and dance offered anywhere in Chicago anymore.

A rock festival, the first of its kind in the Northwest suburbs, takes place tonight at the RANDHURST ARENA adjacent to Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect. Featured in a concert beginning at 8 p.m. will be the BLUE OYSTER CULT, RORY GALLAGHER and BOB SEEGER. Tickets are $6 in advance or $7 at the door. A spokesman for the arena said the concert is the first of many such events to be scheduled there.

Word of mouth gets the message across. And because satisfied patrons are telling neighbors and friends to see PATTY DUKE ASTIN and JOHN ASTIN in "RATTLE OF A SIMPLE MAN," the bittersweet comedy is being held over at ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE for an additional week. The play will now close Feb. 14.

RICHARD DREYFUSS, who was to open Friday the 13th (no doubt he's relieved that he's not), will instead make his debut at Arlington Park Theatre in "MISS JULIE" a week later, Feb. 20. Co-starring with him will be CAROLYN SEYMOUR. Dreyfuss isn't off the hook completely. On April Fool's Day he begins filming a new movie.

JEANNETTE BUREK, a harpist, is currently entertaining diners in the BARN OF BARRINGTON RESTAURANT from 5-9 p.m. every Sunday. Miss Burek teaches instrumental music, band and orchestra for Schaumburg Township School District 54. The Barn is located at 1415 Barrington Rd.

Three Chicago area artists will be exhibiting their modern sculptures on the conference level of the HYATT REGENCY O'HARE beginning Sunday through Feb. 20.

Featured will be LARRY CROST,

by Genie Campbell

whose collection includes "Pinched Nerve Picker" and "Fishing for Knowledge;" ELLEN SANDOR, who is showing three pieces, "Chicago," "California" and "Brooklyn;" and JAMES ZANZI, who is associate professor of sculpture at the School of the Art Institute. He will be exhibiting his "Self Portrait."

The KONA KAI POLYNESIAN RESTAURANT in the Chicago Marriott Hotel will "ring in" the Year of the Dragon, 4674 with special CHINESE NEW YEAR'S festivities beginning Saturday through Feb. 7. Activities include authentic Oriental lion dancing at 7 p.m. every evening.

JUDITH ANN JONASSEN is appearing tonight at the CAFE O'HARE BALLROOM, 6405 N. Mannheim Rd., Rosemont.

DUE TO INCREASED ticket demand "The Magic of Young Houdini" has been extended at Mill Run Children's Theatre in Niles through Feb. 28. The show features spectacular illusions, songs and a storybook episode about the world's greatest magician and escape artist. Performances are Saturdays at 1 p.m.

Closets full? — try a want-ad

suburban living

Some need help to quit

by ROBIN FRAMES and MARK FUERST
(Fifth of 10 parts)

Some people can give up smoking by themselves, and others need some outside help. There's nothing to be ashamed of if you're in the latter group. Often the do-it-yourselfers try a number of times before they succeed. If you join a quit-smoking group or see a doctor, you may break the habit much sooner.

Many clinics, including those sponsored by the American Cancer Society, use the general techniques already outlined: Observe your smoking habits, learn why you smoke, why you want to quit and work up to Quit-Day by gradually cutting down. Help yourself stay off cigarettes by avoiding smoking companions and situations and with the help and support of the group.

The value of the group is largely the psychological help and reinforcement that you get from meeting and talking with other people who share your problem. You learn from someone who has coped with the problem successfully — your group's leader — and by seeing others struggle you realize you aren't the only one who finds it hard to stop smoking. Members of a group can check on one another, encourage one another and exchange ideas.

A "BUDDY" system where members call each other for support or to offer help between sessions is an important part of the New York ACS clinics conducted by June Walzer. She also encourages new ex-smokers to form "I Quit Clubs." Members follow up the clinics with periodic meetings for lunch, dinner or just talk sessions to continue their mutual support efforts.

Some of the programs, such as those operated by the ACS and religious and public interest organizations, are free or make only a nominal charge. Commercial methods may be rather expensive.

One of the most widely known commercial programs in SmokeEnders, which gives nine-week courses in 17 states. The first five weeks are devoted to psychological and physiological preparation for Cut-off Day, when all smoking is stopped without any gradual tapering off.

This sudden abstinence is reinforced by four more weeks of classes, and then a follow-up period of a year.

The Seventh Day Adventist Church conducts non-sectarian, Five-Day Plan courses which begin with a total smoking ban. Students are then taught how to cope with their withdrawal discomforts. Among other things, a diet of fruit and fruit juice is recommended.

SMOKING & YOU

THERE ARE OTHER kinds of group therapy, hypnosis and aversion techniques — some of which use drugs or even electric shock therapy. Some physicians recommend tranquilizers to ease the adjustment.

Aversion therapy takes a number of forms, but basically uses the principle of associating smoking with something very unpleasant.

There are drugs that help to give cigarettes a bad taste. Some classes are subjected to rapid smoking session in unventilated rooms to accentuate the naturally unpleasant aspects of cigarette smoking.

Perhaps the most extreme form of aversion therapy is the technique of punishing the smoker with mild electric shocks every time he reaches for a cigarette or lights up.

The American Health Foundation in New York City tailors its quit-smoking therapy to the individual, employing a number of the methods already mentioned. This is essentially what each smoker must do — assess the different kinds of help available, try one, and if it doesn't work, switch to another.

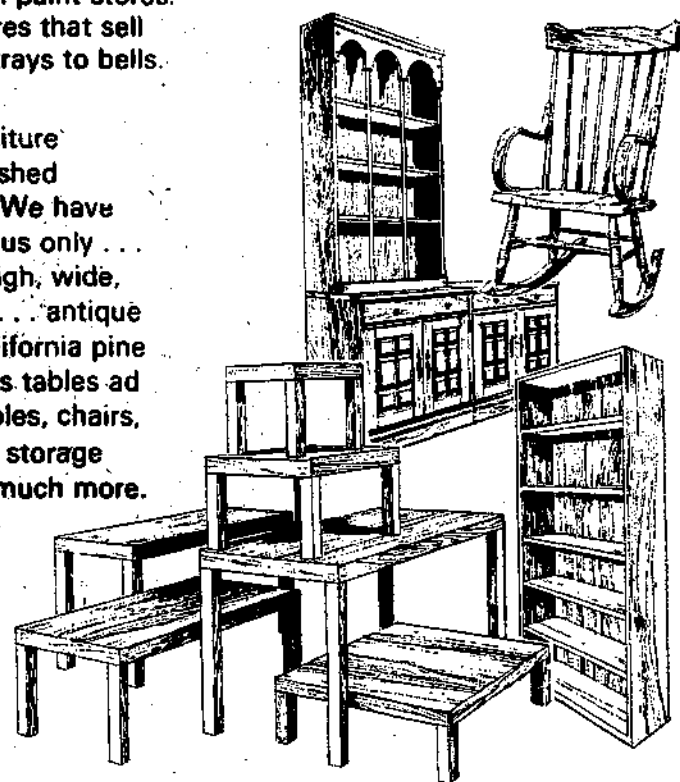

NEXT: Some case histories.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

With emphysema can he still exercise?

I am a 68-year-old man and exercise every morning, push-ups and similar exercises. I bowl three nights a week. I have been smoking cigarettes for about 58 years; I started young.

Now I am told I have acute emphysema. Is there anything I can do to stop the shortness of breath, any special exercises? Is it still OK for me to continue my exercises and bowling?

I have stopped smoking for a month now and would appreciate your comments.

The most important exercise for you was exercising your will power and stopping smoking entirely.

If you do not get too tired or short of breath, you can continue to exercise. I would think that if you are experiencing shortness of breath, though, that you should cut back on exercising until you get an okay from your doctor.

There are breathing exercises that help some people with lung disease such as you have. Each case has to be evaluated on its own merits. If available to you, it would be wise to have an evaluation at a pulmonary care center to know exactly how much damage to lung function you have and what you can expect.

Fatigue is often a sign of emphysema because the diseased lungs are not able to deliver sufficiently increased amounts of oxygen to permit too much increased activity.

For more information on your lungs send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 24, Keeping Your Lungs Fit. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Our TOPS Club would appreciate if very much if you would publish in one of your columns how long it takes excess calories to be burned.

Just a matter of hours. Remember the fat deposits are the way your body stores excess calories. The body is a simple energy converter. That food energy must be accommodated as soon as it is absorbed into the circulation.

The excess fat in the bloodstream is stored in your fat cells. The fat in the fat cells is constantly turning over. It is not "old fat." It can be as dynamic as the wildest checking account.

People don't lose fat very fast because it takes a long time to turn up a deficit of 3500 calories, the number of calories in a pound of fat. Most of the sudden weight loss in the first few days of dieting is not fat at all. You must consume 500 calories less than your body uses every day for seven days to rack up a deficit of 3500 calories and lose an actual pound of fat.

When the body fat is used for energy, there will be residual water. The body may hold this for days or even weeks and then suddenly the water is eliminated and there is a sharp drop in weight.

The slow process of losing fat (as opposed to water and waste material) makes some people think that it takes a long time to get fat. The truth is you can get fat just as fast as you can shovel the calories in to form the pounds of stored energy. If you can consume 3500 extra calories above your body needs in a day's time, the next day you will be one pound fatter.

Removing tub treads takes delicate touch

Dear Dorothy: The decorative treads in my bathtub need to be peeled off and replaced. It ought not to be an overpowering job, but I want to be sure not to damage anything. Can you help? — Sara A. Culler

It's a good do-it-yourself project. It isn't difficult, but does call for some delicacy of touch. The method is recommended by the Porcelain Enamel Institute.

Saturate a cloth with kerosene or mineral spirits paint thinner and lay it over the treads for about 25 minutes. This loosens the adhesive backing. Using a single-edge razor blade in a holder you've bought at a hardware store, scrape up the softened adhesive. This is the only tricky part. But with careful touch and using a slanting motion, the stuff should come off.

If any metal marks show, they can be removed with the gentle cleanser (Bon-Ami) recommended for porcelain tubs. There might be more of a stain if yours is one of the porcelain-on-enameled tubs made before '64, but at least the tub would be clean and ready for new treads.

Dear Dorothy: I live in an apartment and the last time someone was in to clean, I noticed a damp-looking stain on the carpeting. It felt a little sticky so I shampooed the area. However, the stain keeps coming back. Any suggestions? — Mrs. George Rollins Sounds as if something containing oil was spilled there. This type of stain picks up soil quickly. Try a solvent like trichlorethane — not in one splash, but periodically — to see if you can get the oil absorbed.

Dear Dorothy: I'm continually surprised to read of people worrying how to keep celery crisp. When I bring it home, I rinse it, wrap damp paper towels around it and put it in the hydrator. It stays crisp and lovely for weeks. — Peggy Eddings

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is requested, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 200, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Eye care for elderly

Most Americans over 65 would like the federal government's Medicare program to assume the cost of taking care of their vision. More than 78 per cent responding to a 40-state survey said they pay for vision care out of their own pockets. The study made by the American Optometric Association and its auxiliary said 48 per cent blamed lack of money for their failure to seek eye care the last time they felt it was needed.

Dominick Day benefits set for February

Dominick's Finer Foods will be holding a benefit day for the E-Hart Girls of Mount Prospect next Monday, Thursday, Feb. 4, Immanuel Lutheran PTL, Palatine, and St. Colette's Sports program, Rolling Meadows, will have benefit days, and on Wed., Feb. 11, Winston Knolls Homeowners Association, Wheeling Instrumental League and The Expressions.

Friends of these groups shopping at any Dominick Store those days should present identification slips to the cashier for the group to receive 5 per cent of their purchase. Slips are available from sponsoring groups; emergency slips are available at the stores.

Howlett vows drivers test station for area

The rest of the money being returned to the general fund was allocated for construction of another testing facility in Elgin. Instead, Howlett said a building previously occupied by the state highway department will be utilized.

The funds for the two stations have been appropriated since 1969 by the General Assembly, but were never spent.

THE SIX-YEAR SITE search in the Northwest suburbs heated up last fall when The Herald learned the secretary of state's office entered into lease negotiations with the operators of the Surrey Ridge Shopping Center, Algonquin and Golf roads in Arlington Heights.

The planned station would have had facilities for testing of drivers and license renewals but would not have issued license plates.

The plan drew opposition from local residents and merchants who feared the station would have monopolized parking at the shopping center and traffic would have endangered children in neighboring subdivisions.

The Surrey Ridge location was rented to an electronics company after the negotiations dragged on.

In November, it was learned talks were being conducted with owners of the Woodfield Commons office-commercial development in Schaumburg.

ALTHOUGH NO commitments were made, a spokesman in the secretary's office said the Commons site was among a dozen under active consideration.

The search has been centered around Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg. Howlett declined to name the town that will get the site.

The closest testing stations are in Libertyville, Elgin and on N. Elston Avenue in Chicago.

KISS ME KATE, the musical with a play, "Taming of the Shrew," within a play, will be presented today, Saturday and Feb. 6 and 7 by students at St. Viator and Sacred Heart of Mary high schools. The 8 p.m. performances will be staged at St. Viator, 1213 Oakton St., Arlington Heights. Cast in the leads are Ronnie Komar, foreground, playing Katharine, and Rich Roller, as Petruchio. Kathy Wynne, background, plays Bianca and Randy Belter is cast as Lucentio. Call 392-4050 for tickets.

Rate increase for C&NW delayed

step rate increase of 15 per cent and 37 per cent. The compounded rate hike for commuters was set at 40 per cent. MacDonald said the proposed fare increases would allow the railroad to make a 5 per cent profit.

The next ICC hearing on the railroad's proposal is scheduled for Feb. 6 in Chicago.

Last November, Larry Provo, railroad president, said the C&NW had abandoned hope of joining the RTA because of a contract containing "repressive" provisions.

Stocks on upswing again; Dow gains 17.40 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new year rally, stalled for two sessions by profit taking, regained its power Thursday as prices soared to their highest level in 27 months in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 17.40 points to 968.75, the highest since it closed at 964.80 Oct. 29, 1973. It was the biggest gain since it rose 19.12 points Jan. 5. The blue-chip average, a 10-point loser the previous two sessions, has gained 116.34 points in the new year rally.

The rally was broad-based. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 1.58 to 100.11, a 1975-76 high, and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 54 cents. Advances routed declines, 1,213 to 379, among the 1,894 issues crossing the tape on the NYSE.

VOLUME CLIMBED to 29,800,000 shares from the 27,370,000 traded Wednesday and brought the volume for the month to approximately 597,733,950 shares, a record.

There was no specific news to account for the buying. Analysts said buyers were taking advantage of the selling of the past two days to acquire blue chips, glamors and other selected quality issues.

Most analysts have been surprised there has not been more profit taking to nail down gains they made during the first three weeks of the new year.

After the market closed, the Federal Reserve Board reported the nation's money supply rose $300 million in the latest reporting week and loan demand at New York's leading banks fell $348 million. Analysts will be watching Friday to see if trend-setting First National City Bank of New York lowers its prime rate to 6.5 per cent from the prevailing 6.75 per cent level.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased 11 cents. Volume totaled 3,520,000 shares, compared to 3,050,000 traded Wednesday.

Ask Andy

Flying fish just appears that way

HOW DO FLYING FISH FLY?
Flying fish certainly leave the water and take short trips through the air. The mystery is whether or not they flap their fins as birds flap their wings. This dispute raged for a long time, and both experts and non-experts had their say. We now have evidence that these remarkable fish cannot flap like birds, though their gauzy fins may shiver and vibrate in the sparkling air.
The average flying fish pops unexpectedly out of the water, takes off at 40 miles per hour, skims over the waves for about 10 feet and plops back down. The whole thing happens in about 10 seconds, which is too fast for the human eye to see clearly. We merely catch a glimpse of a silvery blue body with gauzy butterfly fins. True, the shiny fins seem to beat the air. But even the ordinary movie camera cannot prove whether they do or not. The separate frames in the movie are too blurred.
The shivering motions of those gauzy wings called for stroboscopic photography. This type of camera takes a series of exposures at split-second intervals. The separate pictures are precise and clear enough to show the slightest changes in a moving object.

Stroboscopic pictures prove that the flying fish is a glider, and not a fin-flapper. These results gave the fish experts a chance to say, "I told you so." They had examined the muscle structure of the flying fish. Birds need mighty chest muscles to flap their wings. But the flying fish does not have the right muscles for flapping.
Several species of flying fish live frantically in warm seas around the world. Our favorite is the four-finned flying fish, often seen off the southern shores of California. He takes to the air like a shimmering silvery blue dragonfly — 18 inches long. When underwater, he swims with his four wide fins folded to his side.
The trip upstairs is triggered below, when the fish swims frantically to escape a shark or some other hungry predator.
He darts to the surface, lashing his tail and vibrating his huge tail fin at perhaps 50 beats per second. For a moment he taxis along, then he spreads his fins and becomes airborne. The momentum from his last frantic swim carries him along for about 10 feet. In the air, sad to say, he may be grabbed by a greedy gull.

As he leaves the water, his lashing tail shakes his body and vibrates his gauzy fins. Wavelets and air currents make them flutter — and the uncertain picture is blurred by the shiny fish in the sparkling air. To the human eye, the flying fish may seem to beat his fins, but careful researchers assure us that he does not.
Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Jill Schumm, 11, of Indianapolis, Ind., for her question:
WHAT IS A DOUBLE STAR SYSTEM?
Since before the dawn of history, people have looked up to admire Sirius, the Dog Star. This sparkler adorns our winter skies, and it is the brightest star we ever see from the earth. Naturally everybody assumed that Sirius is a single star. Imagine the astonishment when it was found to be a double star system, including a whopper and a midget.
Actually we see just one star because the midget is too small for our eyes to behold. It is a white dwarf star, and astronomers named it the Pup. The two stars are a system because the gravitational pull between them causes them to orbit around each other. The Pup makes a fairly wide orbit, but Sirius barely wobbles because the big star is so massive. Since the Pup was discovered, astronomers have found many other double and triple star systems. In each case, the orbiting partners are locked together by gravity.

Thomas to portray gag-cracking doc

by JOAN HANAUER

"The Practice" presents Danny Thomas as New York's answer to Mervyn Duvall — with gag writers.

NBC's new Friday night comedy, to bow in today from 7:30 to 8 p.m., contains few surprises but plenty of laughs.

Danny plays Dr. Jules Bedford, grey and grizzled, gruff and growling to hide his soft heart. He insists on continuing his practice on New York's West Side, which is a long way, economically, from Park Avenue, where his son practices higher priced medicine.

DANNY'S NURSE, with whom he is close but not that close, is played by Dena Dietrich — you may recognize her as Mother Nature in the margarine commercial in which she purrs, "It's not nice to fool Mother Nature" and zaps the world. She plays with verve and warmth and has a quick wit with a funny line.

David Spielberg plays the son, struggling for this father's approval, with Shelley Fabares as the son's wife, and Didi Conn as Danny's nitwit receptionist.

Beneath the gruff exterior, of course, he (Danny) worries about all his patients, including an old friend who has a brain tumor, according to a neurologist.

"THE NEUROLOGIST — he voted for Nixon," Danny insists, dismissing the diagnosis.

Another entry in NBC's mid-year program switches is "The Rich Little Show," which bows in Monday from 7-8 p.m., with special guests Glenn Ford and John Davidson.

The best part of the show is Rich Little and his crowd of impersonations, from Jimmy Stewart and John Wayne to Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, Henry Kissinger and anybody else with a recognizable vocal style.

At one point Rich, as President Ford, is asked to sum up the economy in three words. "Very good," is the reply, and the vignette goes on from there. The Democrats will have to get elected if they want equal time.

Hand with slams galore

The game was board-a-match team of four and both West's opened with three diamonds. At one table East elected to pass and it was up to South to do something. He looked at what appeared to be eight sure tricks and tried three notrump. Everyone passed and after West opened the queen of diamonds South ran off 12 tricks.

Everyone laughed when they noted that a spade lead, diamond return, second spade, second diamond, etc. would have given the defenders a grand slam.

North and South were so happy that they overlooked the fact that they could have made a suit slam.

This wasn't overlooked at the other table. East bid three spades, South four spades and eventually South wound up at six clubs. He needed to exercise a little care to bring it home. He wasn't happy with the result since six hearts would make even easier, but he had a winner while his lucky opponent at the other table had a loser.

Rate hike
for C&NW
delayed

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site
for drivers
set in area

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

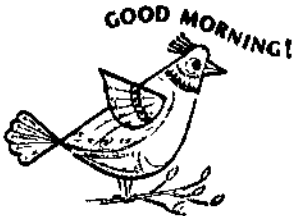

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Streator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

City budget to spiral to $14.9 million

Des Plaines officials next week are expected to unveil a record $14.9 million budget for 1976, an increase of about 6 per cent.

Ald. Charles Bolek, 3rd, chairman of the city council's finance and insurance committee, said Thursday that while the proposed budget will be some $650,000 higher than last year, officials are "attempting to hold the line on spending."

"We're planning to hold the line totally and completely on all hiring," he said. "We also haven't instituted any new programs that I'm familiar with."

BOLEK SAID the rising cost of materials and labor and the increasing cost of pension funds for city employees are some of the primary reasons for the record-breaking budget.

"We're locked in on so many things like pension plans of which we have no control over," he said. "We're also caught in the inflationary cycle and the city can't get anything any cheaper than anyone else."

Despite the increases, however, Bolek said the city will balance its 1976 budget.

"Our goal right now is to balance the budget and I would say we definitely will be able to accomplish that," he said. "I think we've done as well as we can do."

Bolek said recent tax increases should bring in enough revenue to the city to make further increases unnecessary. A proposed real estate transfer tax and a 5 per cent utility tax on electric, natural gas and telephone bills are dead issues for now, he said.

CITY OFFICIALS have estimated that a real estate transfer tax would net the city about $90,000 annually and that a utility tax could bring the city about $1.5 million in additional revenue each year.

City officials last year voted to establish the real estate tax, but reconsidered after objections from residents and brokers. The city council never has voted on a utility tax.

"At this time we aren't considering a real estate transfer tax and definitely not a utility tax," Bolek said. "I would completely oppose a utility tax."

Bolek said the city will receive additional revenue this year from recent increases in garbage pickup fees, liquor licenses, vehicle license transfers, licenses for some trucks, water and sewer tap-on fees and the 1976 property tax levy.

THE CITY'S portion of the property tax levy was increased last summer, and will bring the city an additional $400,000 in revenue in 1976.

Bolek said the increase in the property tax probably will result in a 9 per cent increase to residents in the city's portion of the property tax. The city receives about 10 to 12 per cent of the total property tax bill.

Thus, if a homeowner pays an annual property tax bill of $1,000, he probably will pay $10 to $12 more as the city's share in 1976.

Bolek said that besides hiring no new employees or starting no new programs in 1976, city officials are considering other ways of saving money.

The city recently hired a consulting firm to make recommendations on how to reduce the city's work force and revise employee salary scales. They also are considering either hiring a private scavenger to collect the Inspectors follow up complaints at 'Greens'

by GERRY KERN and JOE FRANZ

A dozen Cook County building and health inspectors fanned out through the 127-building Greens of Golf Mill apartment complex Thursday investigating 500 alleged violations of health, building and safety codes.

Inspectors and representatives of the state's attorney's office met at the apartment rental office at 10 a.m. to begin an inspection of the complex, 8884 Stevens Dr., in unincorporated Maine Township. The group included electrical, plumbing, ventilation and fire inspectors.

The county plans to continue its building-by-building probe of the complex today.

COUNTY OFFICIALS were reluctant to comment on the conditions at the apartment complex or the alleged code violations pending completion of the investigation.

William Harris, county commissioner of building and zoning, said he will wait for all of the commissioners to report before he can verify that code violations exist.

"They were out there all day today and will be out there again tomorrow," said Harris. "Our plans are to go through the development building by building to look for violations."

"I'm waiting for a report from my inspectors. The information at this time is incomplete," he said. "You can find violations in any building if you look hard enough. I'm sure there are some violations there, but at this time I'm not sure how extensive they are."

The apartment complex, located northeast of Dempster Street and Potter Road near Des Plaines, has come under fire in recent months by the Greens Tenants Assn. The tenants group filed a list of about 500 apparent violations of health, building and fire codes with County Board Pres. George Dunne two weeks ago.

RESIDENTS complained of poor security, faulty garbage collection and insufficient fire safety standards in the construction of the apartments.

Dunne ordered an investigation into conditions there and promised to take the management and apartment owners to court if violations exist and are not corrected. The Littlestone Co. manages the apartment complex, which is owned by U.S. Managers Inc., a California firm.

Keith Marvin, president of the tenants group, toured the apartment complex with inspectors and other residents. He said inspectors talked with residents, but would not comment on alleged violations.

AT&T urges interstate rate hikes

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $225 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $365 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $178 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

Flu epidemic fear spurs state 'Victoria' probe

by KURT BAER

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,200 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

city's garbage or reducing the size of the city's sanitation force.
BOLEK SAID the city council will meet Feb. 6 in an attempt to finalize the city budget.
"So far there has been substantial agreement on proposals, cuts and equipment purchases," he said.
"When it comes before the entire city it either will be adopted or modified.
"If something is added in one area though, it will have to be taken out somewhere else," Bolek said.

Radio, jewelry taken at apartment

Burglars stole an AM-FM radio and some costume jewelry valued at $1,200 after breaking into the apartment of Mary Wadman, 765 Dulles Rd., Des Plaines, police said Thursday.
The woman reportedly returned home to find her apartment ransacked.

Baha'i talk at Lions Park
The teachings of Baha'u'llah, prophet-founder of the Baha'i faith, will be the topic of a talk by Dr. Monib Colletan at 4 p.m. Sunday at Lions Park Recreation Center, Mount Prospect. The public is invited to attend.

DES PLAINES POLICE have set up shop in their new home although a few operations like the radio room are still somewhat makeshift. Police moved Wednesday into the new $1.3 million facility located next to the old police station, 1412 Miner St., adjacent to the civic center.

Gifted, alternative plans pondered

Parents mull Dist. 59 finances

Questions about Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 financial problems and the progress of the gifted program and alternative school have been raised by parents at the School Community Council Forum.
More than 50 parents and school officials attended the meeting Wednesday held to bring out questions and concerns about the district.
Several parents questioned whether an alternative school would be established. An alternative school would stress basic academics and increased discipline.

LEAH CUMMINS, Dist. 59 public relations director, said the district is sending out questionnaires to parents to find out how many would want their children enrolled in such a school and what type of program they would want there.
She said one school might stress basics, and children would be bused to the school from the entire district.
"If the parents want more traditional schools, why can't we use the existing schools?" asked Gloria Stewart of the Rupley School area.
Alma Parrish, teachers union president, said the basics are taught in the schools. "It's not as if they are not taught. We do drill. When we talk about discipline, the child has to come to school disciplined."

Carol Wirth of the Rupley area asked, "How can we look into new programs if it is true that we are financially troubled? All of this has to cost money."
GERALD SMILEY, former board members, said the major cost of an alternative school would be for transportation, which is reimbursed by the state.
Other parents wanted to know about the progress of the gifted program.
Charlene Bessey, talent program director, said the district is currently training teachers to handle a gifted program. It is determining what programs should be developed.
She said more than 1,500 students were identified as talented in five areas. They include academic abilities, leadership, physical ability and the fine arts. She said programs should be started by the next school year.
Jack Roeser of Arlington Heights questioned the board's recent decisions on administrative salaries. "How does the district expect to have any faith in the community when the board and administration collaborated to raise administration salaries as they did?"
HE SAID THE district also should cut back on the number of administrators.
Mrs. Cummins said the average administrator's salary increase was 5 per cent if computed on a daily basis. If figured on an annual basis, administrators' salaries increased by 11 per cent.
She said the lower daily increases occurred because several administrators were promoted from lower positions where they had worked fewer days during the year.

Jaycees honor teacher, executive

Edward J. Bock, executive vice president of Banner Service Corp., and Mary Ellen Ostrom, second-grade teacher at South School, have been honored by the Des Plaines Jaycees as outstanding members of the community.
The two were honored at a recent awards ceremony sponsored by the local service club, with Bock receiving the chapter's 1975 Distinguished Service Award and Miss Ostrom being named Outstanding Educator.
Bock's civic involvements have included serving as director, treasurer, vice president and president of the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce. He is the financial chairman for the Friendship Festival.
Bock also is serving as finance chairman for the annual Chuckwagon Days fund-raising program at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines. He is a graduate of Northwestern University and the University of Chicago.

BOCK RECENTLY was nominated to the board of directors of the Chicago Savings and Loan Assn. and is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the Men's Assn. of Lutheran General Hospital, Executives Club of Chicago, Elks Club and Regency Club.
Miss Ostrom is a graduate of North Park College and has been teaching at South School for 11 years.
She is an active member of the Illinois Educational Assn., National Education Assn. and the Des Plaines Educational Assn., and has served on the board of directors of the South School PTA.
Miss Ostrom was nominated by Mrs. Donald Unnavy, a member of the South School PTA, who described her classroom as a unique corner of the world for her students.

Important moments in the nation's history will be portrayed through musical paintings at a Froot School cultural arts assembly. The artist, John Mosiman, will be appearing Tuesday at 10:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the school, 1308 S. Cypress Dr., Mount Prospect.

Among the paintings Mosiman plans to do to music are "The Arrival of the Mayflower," "Paul Revere's Midnight Ride" and "The Westward Movement to Oklahoma."

On Thursday, at 10:30 a.m., Buck Warren, the "OHare Poet," will conduct a program on poetry. In addition, he will display some of his pieces of sculpture.

An airplane mechanic for United Air Lines, Warren is a published poet. He plans to present one of his sculptures to President Gerald Ford.

High School Dist. 214

High School Dist. 214 has announced the third annual Distinguished Service Award contest sponsored in cooperation with the Dist. 214 Educational Assn. and various community service clubs.
Nominees must have made an outstanding contribution to secondary education during the 1974-75 year.

One person will be selected from the attendance areas surrounding Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Forest View, Hersey, Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling high schools.
Individual award plaques will be presented to the eight winners on March 22 at the regular Dist. 214 Board of Education meeting. A permanent plaque inscribed with the winner's name will be placed on display in each high school.

Nomination forms are available in each school and will be accepted during the month of February from any individual.

Full or part-time employees from Dist. 214 are not eligible as candidates for the award, however, they are encouraged to submit nominations.

For information contact William Warner, 259-5300, ext. 304.

The Elk Grove High School individual events team tied for sixth place in sweepstakes at Forest View High School recently. Individual winners included: Debby Lange, first in original oration; Tom Duncan and Debby Lange, first in dramatic duet acting; Joan Floros, first in humorous interpretation; Ron Cohen, third in original comedy; Janet Pumphrey and Tracey Lowing, third in dramatic duet acting; and Kerry Carlariello, third in original oration.

Gaining honors for the Elk Grove debate team at the Rockford Jefferson tournament recently were: Margaret Mathie, Walter Brock, Greg Hanson and David Cullen who captured second place team award in the novice division. Margaret Mathie was also named third best novice debater in the tournament. Dean Crivellaro and Tony Caffereta also gained honors in the junior varsity division by receiving the fourth and third place speaker award, respectively.

Special Education

A seminar entitled "Helping the Learning Disabilities Child in the Classroom" will be held Feb. 7 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights. Sponsored by the Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (COULD), the seminar will feature Janet Lerner, author and professor at Northwestern Illinois University, and Estelle Bradley, reading and learning disabilities coordinator in Des Plaines Dist. 62.

Lerner and Bradley will speak from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Specific areas of interest will be discussed in small groups led by learning disabilities professionals from 1 to 3 p.m. Areas will include visual perception, motor skills, arithmetic, auditory skills and classroom behavior techniques.

They all meet in delivery room

Twins... twins... twins... Everyone's got a twin!

by TONI GINETTI

Christine Sargent, her doctor, her nurse and I can tell you that good things come in twos.

Like to peas in a pod, two's company, tea for two.

And for Mrs. Sargent the magic number Monday night meant two daughters, identical twins born at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Now, the birth of twins is special in itself, but this birth was doubly different, so to speak. You see, little Angela Lee and Chanda Lee Sargent weren't the only twins in the delivery room that night.

THEIR ATTENDING physician, Dr. Frank Hesser, is a twin. So is the nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, who assisted in their delivery.

"It's the first time it's ever happened since I've been here," Holy Family's public relations director Jim McQuaid said. "And the part about both the doctor and the nurse being identical twins I'm sure has never happened before."

Chanda Lee, weighing in at five pounds, three ounces, arrived at 8:17 p.m. Monday. Her sister, delivered by Cessarian section at 9:44 p.m., weighed 6 pounds, 8 ounces. They are the first children born to Mrs. Sargent, 30, and her husband, Arnie, who reside at 5005 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Hesser had been Mrs. Sargent's physician and both knew about the potential "delivery room doubles" situation.

"MY MOTHER's family and my husband's family both have twins," Mrs. Sargent said Thursday. Dr. Hesser, a Des Plaines obstetrics and gynecology specialist, had advised her in early December to expect two, she added.

But when Mrs. Edwards, who is on the hospital's obstetrics ward staff, took her place in the delivery room, the double dose . . . sort of doubled.

"I knew he was a twin," Mrs. Sargent said of her doctor. "Then in the delivery room he said the nurse was a twin, too, and they were joking around with me."

"They said if it was a boy and a girl I should name them Marcella and for Dr. Hesser."

MRS. EDWARDS has a twin sister and Dr. Hesser has a twin brother, Charles, who is a pediatrician on Holy Family's staff.

(No, Dr. Hesser the pediatrician won't be the Sargent babies' physician).

The Sargents are pretty pleased about the arrival of their new family and the amusing circumstances surrounding their girls' births. After all, twins are very special.

Of course, I might be a little prejudiced.

I'm a twin, two . . . uh, I mean, too.

Cooking class at Maine

A one-evening cooking class will be held Feb. 5 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Maine East High School, Dempster Street and Potter Road, Park Ridge.

The fee for the session is $7. For information call 967-5821, office of the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Education Program.

Surgical review for nurses

A surgical refresher course for registered nurses will be offered by the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program for 16 weeks beginning Feb. 10 at Oakton Community College, Oakton Street and Nagle Avenue, Morton Grove.

The class will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1 to 4 p.m. To register, nurses must be licensed in Illinois or have applied for a current license and not presently engaged in medical surgical nursing.

Students will receive 60 hours of classroom and 40 hours of clinical instruction.

Tuition for residents of the college district is $40 and $233.40 for other students. For information contact Gladys Shute at 967-5821.

Adult archeology class set

"Archeology/Anthropology," a study of the origin of man, is being offered during the winter session of the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program.

The 10-week course is offered at Maine South High School, Park Ridge, Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Cost is $15 for in-district students and $56.35 for other students.

For further information call 967-5821.

Adventure film at college

"The Northwest Passage," a film adventure set during the French-Indian War in 1759, will be featured by the Oakton Community College Film Society at 8:15 p.m. Feb. 6. Films are shown in Building 6 on the interim campus, Oakton Street and Nagle Avenue, Morton Grove.

Admission is free to Oakton and Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program students. A 50 cent donation is requested of others.

Heart-saving techniques

The Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program is offering a cardiopulmonary resuscitation course designed for the general public Tuesday through Feb. 11.

The class will meet one night a week for three hours. Each one-night training session begins with a short film, which presents rescue techniques.

Instruction emphasizes actual practice of the techniques on manikins and models. A non-technical manual and other materials, produced by the American Red Cross and the American Heart Assn., will be given to each participant.

Classes will be held at Maine North High School on Tuesday night Feb. 3 and 10, and at Niles West High School on Wednesday night Feb. 4 and 11. Cost of the course is $5. For information call 967-5821.

Sex talk on radio Sunday

John Grover, assistant clinical professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Harvard Medical School, will talk about human sexuality Sunday at 8 a.m. on "The Search for Mental Health."

The program, to be aired on WJJD-FM (104.3), will be hosted by Morris Squire of Forest Hospital.

The program is a public service radio series produced for national distribution by the Forest Hospital Foundation.

Cafe Shabbat Friday

Cafe Shabbat, a traditional sabbath eve dinner, will be held Friday at 6 p.m. at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd., Des Plaines. Reservations can be made at the synagogue office, 297-2006.

Sausage-making at school

A one-evening session on sausage-making will be held Feb. 4 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at Maine West High School, Wolf Road and Oakton Street, Des Plaines.

The demonstration program includes tasting and distribution of recipes.

A fee of $9 will be charged. For information call the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program office 967-5821.

CLEP introduction Feb. 4

An introduction to the College Level Examination Program will be offered from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday at Niles West High School, Oakton Street and Edens Expressway, Skokie.

Michael Dessinax, assistant director of admissions at Oakton Community College, will explain how the examination can offer college credit for experience gained outside a traditional classroom.

A fee of $2 will be charged for the session. For further information, contact the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program office at 967-5821.

Sci fi book discussion

Paperback copies of the science fiction book, "Stranger in a Strange Land," are available at the main desk of the Des Plaines Public Library for those wishing to participate in the library's Adult Book Discussion Group.

The group will meet Feb. 18 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the library, 841 Graceland Ave.

Finland travel show topic

Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program's travel and adventure series will "Focus on Finland" from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday at Niles North High School, 9800 Lawler, Skokie.

Sid Dodson, a freelance photographer, will present his show about Finland, from Helsinki to the Arctic Circle. Dodson's tour highlights industrial and commercial aspects of the country, as well as the country's educational and cultural resources.

Admission is $1.50; senior citizens pay only 75 cents. For information, call 967-5821.

Dist. 63 caucus seeks candidates

East Maine Dist. 63 Caucus is looking for candidates for the Dist. 63 and High School Dist. 207 school board elections in April.

Three board positions are up for election in April in each district. Incumbent Larry Reiss of Dist. 63 and incumbent Anne Evans of Dist. 207 have announced they will seek reelection to the board. Other incumbents on both boards have decided they will not run for the board in April.

Residents interested in caucus endorsement for either board should contact Lynn Warmack, 966-4688, or Sue Motch, 297-5988.

To run for the school board, residents must be 18 years old and have lived in the district for one year. A candidate also must be a registered voter.

Vocation sessions slated

Vocational testing and counseling sessions are scheduled for Feb. 11 and March 3 at the Niles Community Church, 7401 Oakton St., Niles.

Sessions will be held from 9 a.m. until noon, and will test vocational aptitudes.

The charge for either session is $5. For further information, call the Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program office, 967-5821.

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site for drivers set in area

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Streator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

MALLARD LAKE apartments residents Thursday night voted on whether to have a rent strike in February to protest what they call poor living conditions at the 26-building Wheeling complex. Pat O'Connor, left, talks about problems in the complex with Keith Marvin, center, who heads the Greens Tenants Assn. Marvin's group was instrumental in getting Cook County inspectors to investigate 500 alleged building code violations at the Greens of Golf Mill, a 127-building complex in unincorporated Maine Township. Results on the rent strike vote are not expected to be available until today.

Tenants rent strike vote at 'Mallard'

by LINDA PUNCH

Residents of the Mallard Lake apartments in Wheeling met Thursday to discuss formation of a tenants' association and to vote on whether to withhold February rents to protest what they called poor living conditions.

Pat O'Connor, an organizer of the protest, said results of the vote would be posted today. Tenants were asked whether they wished to go ahead with the rent boycott or continue to negotiate with Littlestone & Co., managers of the complex.

About 50 tenants attending the balloting met with Keith Marvin, president of the Greens of Golf Mill Tenants Assn. The Greens of Golf Mill, an apartment complex in unincorporated Maine Township, is being inspected by Cook County officials for 500 alleged violations of fire, building and health codes.

THE GREENS also is managed by Littlestone & Co.

Marvin told Mallard Lake tenants that Littlestone refused to recognize the Greens tenants association, "so we decided to use outside resources. Rather than relying on management, we went to the county, the environmental protection agency and the Illinois Commerce Commission. Littlestone says they will cooperate fully now," he said.

Marvin said his association had considered a rent strike, but decided to postpone it because of the complications involved.

"The problem is getting people involved. A rent strike could also mean eviction to the leaders," he said.

Tenants associations should work to "get public support," Marvin said. "You may have a struggle ahead. These things won't happen overnight, but it works."

A GROUP OF Mallard Lake tenants called for a rent boycott earlier this month because of problems at the complex, including broken regulator pumps on hot water heaters, water damage to walls and ceilings, broken light fixtures and difficulties in getting refunds on security deposits.

Tenants also have complained of unheated hallways, broken locks on security doors and improperly sealed windows and sliding doors.

Wheeling village building and fire inspectors will tour the complex today to investigate the complaints.

Village mulls fee for fire ambulance

Wheeling village officials are considering charging residents of unincorporated areas for ambulance service provided by the municipal fire department.

The municipal fire department is part of the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District and serves unincorporated areas near the village. Village Mgr. George Passolt Wednesday suggested the ambulance fee after trustees learned that 31 per cent of all ambulance runs were to nonvillage residents.

The village pays for paramedic and ambulance services out of general tax revenues collected from Wheeling residents, and officials want to supple-

'76 committee dispute unresolved

The Wheeling Bicentennial Commission is still without three of its four members after a meeting with village officials failed to resolve a dispute which caused the three to resign.

Trustee Otis Hedlund will meet again Sunday with the group to see if the differences can be resolved. The three commissioners, the Rev. Thomas Moran, Carolyn Jenks and Gertrude Trunda, submitted their resignations earlier this week, charging Chairman Kathleen Bellwoar has exceeded her authority.

Rev. Moran told board members Wednesday that the root of the dispute is "a problem in communication."

"As far as the plans for the Bicentennial are concerned, we are in complete agreement with Mrs. Bellwoar. It's not a matter of what she has done as much as how it's being done," he said.

IN THE LETTER of resignation, the three commissioners said Mrs. Bellwoar had "entered into major financial obligations concerning the village on her own authority" contrary to village ordinance. Mrs. Trunda said commissioners were concerned that Mrs. Bellwoar had committed the village to selling $12,000 worth of tickets to the March 11 performance of the Shriners Circus.

Mrs. Bellwoar said the commitment to sell the tickets "was a gentlemen's agreement from the start." Hedlund said only the trustees can commit the village to a financial agreement.

The three commission members also charged Mrs. Bellwoar with proceeding "on her own authority with the planning of major events, rather than working through the (village) president and the board of trustees."

Rev. Moran said he also felt there was a "failure in communication between the board and the commission."

Hedlund said if the board had appointed a liaison to the commission "six or eight months ago, I think we could have prevented these problems."

by KURT BAER

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,260 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

AT&T urges interstate rate hikes

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $225 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $365 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $178 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

ment funds with the service fee. Trustee William Hein, who has suggested the village disannex from the fire district, said the ambulance service is just one instance where the village pays a disproportionate amount to the fire district.

"IT SEEMS TO ME, we're paying for the bulk of the service," he said. Trustee Otis L. Hedlund said the fire district is planning a referendum for an ambulance tax to cover the costs of providing paramedic services in the district. Fire district officials are seeking the tax because general revenue funds can be used only for firefighting costs.

"If we're in the business of furnishing ambulance service, then we should charge everybody or get an ambulance tax," he said.

Hedlund said he believes the village is "up against a stonewall" if it attempts to withdraw from the fire district.

"WE TRIED TO withdraw in 1965 and the courts said we couldn't because we would split the district in half and withdraw a major portion of the tax base. Things haven't changed," he said.

Village officials are considering several plans for bringing more tax money to the municipal fire tax. Hein said the village could collect up to $100,000 in additional revenues by withdrawing from the village.

Wheeling officials are working with fire district officials to annex the village completely into the district. Most of Wheeling is already within the district, except for some 2,000 residents in the northeast section of the village. Residents of this area do not pay taxes to the fire protection district. Instead, they are served by the municipal fire department, supported by village tax monies.

Wheeling officials are also considering levying a municipal fire tax on village residents not included in the district.

The fire protection district serves about 50,000 residents in the Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights area.

Scholarships

The Elks Scholarship/Leadership competition is offering $740,000 in scholarships to high school seniors who wish to pursue a college education. The top six winners each will receive grants for four years of study.

Application forms are available from college counselors at all four Maine Township High Schools, Notre Dame, Resurrection, Holy Cross and Mother Theodore Guerin high schools. Forms also may be obtained by contacting John R. Minerich, youth activities chairman of the Des Plaines Elks Lodge 1526, 1786 Maple St., Des Plaines, Ill. 60018.

All applications are judged on scholarship, leadership and financial need. Completed forms must be returned to Minerich or the Des Plaines Elks Lodge, 496 Lee St., Des Plaines, by Feb. 10 for local judging. Fourteen local winners will be sent on for state competition and the state winners will be announced in early April. National winners will be announced in May. Illinois students will receive 122 scholarships worth at least $53,000.

Reunions

Preparations are under way for the 20th reunion celebration for the Maine East High School class of 1956. Classmates are asked to contact Carol Baumer Lechner, 772 W. Woodland, Palatine, 363-4831, or Rosemary LaForte Ryan, 406 W. Sibley, Park Ridge, 825-5370.

Kelvyn Park High School class of June 1953 is planning a 28th reunion for June 25. All class members are asked to contact Tina Lavechio Behnke, 342-6134, or Loretta Rossa Fergue, 545-7235.

Carl Schurz High School graduates of 1941 are holding their 35th reunion in June. Classmates are asked to contact LaVerne Jensen Doktor, CL-5-0338.

In general...

Controversial atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair will speak Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the College of Lake County's Blue Lecture Hall, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake. The program is free and open to the public.

Mrs. O'Hair is widely known for her participation as an American atheist in the case culminating in the U. S. Supreme Court ordering bible reading and prayer recitation in public schools to be stopped.

Mrs. O'Hair has continued her work of involvement in separation of state and church by writing many books including "Why I Am an Atheist," and "Freedom Under Siege." She has appeared on television talk shows with Johnny Carson, Phil Donahue and Kup's Show.

The College of Lake County is offering a human sexuality seminar beginning Wednesday. The seminar will run for four consecutive Wednesdays, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. on the campus, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake.

The seminar is designed to aid in personal growth and to assist people in dealing with their feelings. Various methods of instruction will be utilized including movies, slide presentations, panel discussions and group discussions.

Registration fee is $15. For information call, 223-6601, ext. 400 or 407.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS CONCERNED CITIZENS COMMITTEE ASKS

INCORPORATE? WHY?

A vote for incorporation means HIGHER TAXES, ASSESSMENTS and RENTS.

Volunteer community spirit with promises not to tax or POSITIVE POWER (BY LAW) TO TAX is the issue.

Service budget figures are unrealistic for administering city government, police protection, etc. Only INCREASED TAXES can meet these needs.

Revenue Sharing isn't a guaranteed income — it is YOUR TAX MONEY to be requested after incorporation and subject to federal regulations, quotas, etc.

The public tax burden for supporting government is astronomical — why add more?

They all meet in the delivery room at Holy Family

Everyone's got a twin—the doctor, the nurse, the...

by TONI GINETTI
Christine Sargent, her doctor, her nurse and I can tell you that good things come in twos.

Like to peas in a pod, two's company, tea for two.

And for Mrs. Sargent the magic number Monday night meant two daughters, identical twins born at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Now, the birth of twins is special in itself, but this birth was doubly different, so to speak. You see, little Angela Lee and Chanda Lee Sargent weren't the only twins in the delivery room that night.

THEIR ATTENDING physician, Dr. Frank Hesser, is a twin. So is the nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, who assisted in their delivery.

"It's the first time it's ever happened since I've been here," Holy Family's public relations director Jim McQuaid said. "And the part about both the doctor and the nurse being identical twins I'm sure has never happened before."

Chanda Lee, weighing in at five pounds, three ounces, arrived at 8:17 p.m. Monday. Her sister, delivered by Cesaerian section at 9:44 p.m., weighed 6 pounds, 8 ounces. They are the first children born to Mrs. Sargent, 30, and her husband, Arnie, who reside at 5005 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Hesser had been Mrs. Sargent's physician and both knew about the potential "delivery room doubles" situation.

"MY MOTHER'S family and my husband's family both have twins," Mrs. Sargent said Thursday. Dr. Hesser, a Des Plaines obstetrics and gynecology specialist, had advised her in early December to expect two, she added.

But when Mrs. Edwards, who is on the hospital's obstetrics ward staff, took her place in the delivery room, the double dose... sort of doubled.

"I knew he was a twin," Mrs. Sargent said of her doctor. "Then in the delivery room he said the nurse was a twin, too, and they were joking around with me."

"They said if it was a boy and a girl I should name them Marcella and for Dr. Hesser."

MRS. EDWARDS has a twin sister and Dr. Hesser has a twin brother, Charles, who is a pediatrician on Holy Family's staff.

(No, Dr. Hesser the pediatrician won't be the Sargent babies' physician.)

The Sargents are pretty pleased about the arrival of their new family and the amusing circumstances surrounding their girls' births. After all, twins are very special.

Of course, I might be a little prejudiced.

I'm a twin, too... uh, I mean, too.

TWIN BABIES, a twin doctor and a twin nurse. That's what occupied Holy Family Hospital delivery room Monday when Mrs. Christine Sargent gave birth to Angela Lee and Chanda Lee. The attending nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, left, and the attending physician also are twins.

Rate hike
delayed

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site
for drivers
set in area

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Sreator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

BODY RHYTHMS are a big part of music, says Kathleen Lecinski, who provides the rhythm as preschoolers practice leaping to the sound of the tamborine. Mrs. Lecinski is the new music coordinator for the Buffalo Grove Park District preschool program.

Park preschool coordinator

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

It isn't just anyone who can take a group of shy 4-and 5-year-olds, turn on a record and have them singing on pitch to "The Zipper Song" — all within a few minutes of meeting them.

Kathleen Lecinski, a recent addition to the Buffalo Grove Park District's preschool program, managed to handle the situation with ease. Of course, she's got plenty of qualifications for the job — a lifelong interest in music, professional singing experience and three preschoolers at home "to practice on."

Mrs. Lecinski, a music teacher at St. Mary's School in Buffalo Grove, is the park district's new music coordinator. Her official duties include training the preschool teachers and introducing them to new programs, with the end results of "music, not just noise," Mrs. Lecinski said.

"Our goal is to introduce the children to basic concepts of music — listening, singing and body rhythms," Mrs. Lecinski said. "This age is perfect, because if they develop an interest in music now, they're more likely to keep it up.

"WE DO STRESS the importance of pitch," she added with a smile. "After all, music is a discipline. The good thing about it is that each child is bound to be successful in some area — there's so much to choose from."

The young, bubbly Mrs. Lecinski has no problems sharing the excitement of a "sing your name" session — her own love for music goes

AT&T urges interstate rate hikes

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $225 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $365 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $178 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,260 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

Mill Creek dwellers win plan change

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

Homeowners' objections to a proposed commercial development near the Mill Creek subdivision in Buffalo Grove have resulted in a revised plan calling for apartment buildings on the site.

The property, owned by Miller Builders with an option to purchase by developer Edward Schwartz, is located between old Arlington Heights Road and Crofton Lane, bordered by Dundee Road on the north.

Schwartz' original plans for the 16-acre parcel call for an 11-acre multifamily development and 5-acre commercial development bordering on Grand Spaulding Dodge to the north and the Mill Creek subdivision to the south.

A MEETING OF the plan commission last week attracted about 40 Mill Creek homeowners who objected to both the proposed five-acre commercial development and an alternate plan calling for three-story apartments on the entire 16 acres.

Schwartz' revised plan, which will be presented to the plan commission Wednesday, calls for construction of 7 two-story apartment buildings directly behind the Mill Creek subdivision to serve as a buffer between the single-family homes and 42 three-story units, said Jerome Soltan, architect.

Schwartz' original plans called for commercial development on the five-acre property behind Grand Spaulding Dodge because the area's topography includes uneven ground and poor drainage conditions, Soltan said.

"It will be much more difficult to build for a residential zone," Soltan said. "It's not that it can't be done, it's just a lot more expensive. You have to dig much deeper foundations and use more fill."

STANLEY CROSLAND, Buffalo

Grove Park District director, objected to the lack of recreational provisions in the Schwartz proposal. He said the Mill Creek area lacks any substantial park area, and said the existing park area next to the Washington Irving School site is "one of the worst excuses for a public park in the area."

Soltan said there are no plans to donate any land to the park district, but said three play lot areas will be included in the apartment development.

Soltan also said Schwartz will abide by the village's planned unit development ordinance, which has stringent requirements regarding footage between developments and adjoining property.

"We're now pulling back farther away from the Mill Creek property line. The apartments will be 40 feet rather than 30 feet from the single-family property lines," Soltan said.

If the plan commission Wednesday recommends approval of the development and it receives village board OK, construction could start "within 90 days" said Schwartz. He said the project could be completed in two or three years, depending on occupancy rates. The buildings would be individually owned, Schwartz said.

Leal Loi Escobar, 24, of 55 N. Wolf Rd., told authorities the attack occurred outside Joe's Pizzeria, 322 Milwaukee Ave., about 2:20 a.m. by two men wearing green military jackets.

'Victoria' flu fear spurs state probe

TWO LITTLE KNOWN American presidents came alive for fourth graders at Riley School this week as presidents lady Barbara Chimenti introduced them to William Henry Harrison and John Tyler.

U.S. presidents come alive for Riley students

by MARILYN McDONALD

Most fourth graders at Riley School, 1209 Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights, had no idea who William Henry Harrison or John Tyler were.

But after an hour with Barbara "B. J." Chimenti, the students knew that Harrison, our ninth president, died of pneumonia after being in office only one month, and Tyler served out Harrison's term as a rather unpopular head of state.

Mrs. Chimenti is one of five "Presidents Ladies" at Riley who make brief presentations about two U.S. presidents to students of all grades. Sue Berlin, cultural arts chairman of Riley's PTA, organized the Bicentennial project.

"WE DID THE traditional Picture Lady program like many other schools in the area," she said, referring to the program in which PTA volunteers give brief talks to students about famous artists and display prints of their work.

"This year we tried to tie into the Bicentennial, and thought, 'Why not feature our presidents?'" said Mrs. Berlin, 714 E. Burr Oak Dr.

"Our approach is more the human interest side of the presidents," she said. "We thought it would be a nice way to meet the presidents as human beings."

Illustrating their talks with laminated reproductions of presidential portraits, the Presidents Ladies gear their presentation to each grade level.

Mrs. Chimenti told fourth graders that William Henry Harrison was the son of Benjamin Harrison, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Harrison was a popular Indian fighter who earned fame at the Battle of Tippecanoe, thus inspiring the famous campaign slogan, "Tippecanoe and Tyler too."

BUT HARRISON succumbed on pneumonia only a month after his inauguration, leaving the bulk of his term to Tyler.

Tyler, not a very colorful chief executive, lost the next election. But he lived on as a statesman until his death at 72 years of age in 1862.

Students were fascinated by the presidential stories, asking several questions about birthdates and family life. Many were excited to hear that during the Harrison-Tyler era, the Barnum and Bailey Circus was just getting its start.

Scholarships

The Elks Scholarship/Leadership competition is offering $740,000 in scholarships to high school seniors who wish to pursue a college education. The top six winners each will receive grants for four years of study.

Application forms are available from college counselors at all four Maine Township High Schools, Notre Dame, Resurrection, Holy Cross and Mother Theodore Guerin high schools. Forms also may be obtained by contacting John R. Minerich, youth activities chairman of the Des Plaines Elks Lodge 1526, 1786 Maple St., Des Plaines, Ill. 60018.

All applications are judged on scholarship, leadership and financial need. Completed forms must be returned to Minerich or the Des Plaines Elks Lodge, 495 Lee St., Des Plaines, by Feb. 10 for local judging. Fourteen local winners will be sent on for state competition and the state winners will be announced in early April. National winners will be announced in May. Illinois students will receive 122 scholarships worth at least $53,000.

Reunions

Preparations are under way for the 20th reunion celebration for the Maine East High School class of 1956. Classmates are asked to contact Carol Baumer Lechner, 772 W. Woodland, Palatine, 358-4931, or Rosemary LaForte Ryan, 406 W. Sibley, Park Ridge, 825-5370.

Kelvyn Park High School class of June 1953 is planning a 25th reunion for June 25. All class members are asked to contact Tina Lavechio Behnne, 342-6134, or Loretta Rossa Forgue, 545-7235.

Carl Schurz High School graduates of 1941 are holding their 35th reunion in June. Classmates are asked to contact LaVerne Jensen Doktor, CL-5-0338.

In general...

Controversial atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair will speak Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the College of Lake County's Blue Lecture Hall, 18351 W. Washington St., Grayslake. The program is free and open to the public.

Mrs. O'Hair is widely known for her participation as an American atheist, in the case culminating in the U. S. Supreme Court ordering bible reading and prayer recitation in public schools to be stopped.

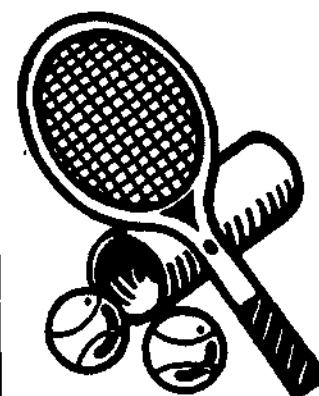

Mrs. O'Hair has continued her work of involvement in separation of state and church by writing many books including "Why I Am an Atheist," and "Freedom Under Siege." She has appeared on television talk shows with Johnny Carson, Phil Donahue and Kup's Show.

The College of Lake County is offering a human sexuality seminar beginning Wednesday. The seminar will run for four consecutive Wednesdays, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. on the campus, 18351 W. Washington St., Grayslake.

The seminar is designed to aid in personal growth and to assist people in dealing with their feelings. Various methods of instruction will be utilized including movies, slide presentations, panel discussions and group discussions.

Registration fee is $15. For information call, 223-6601, ext. 400 or 407.

INCORPORATE? WHY?

A vote for incorporation means HIGHER TAXES, ASSESSMENTS and RENTS.

Volunteer community spirit with promises not to tax or POSITIVE POWER (BY LAW) TO TAX is the issue.

Service budget figures are unrealistic for administering city government, police protection, etc. Only INCREASED TAXES can meet these needs.

Revenue Sharing isn't a guaranteed income — it is YOUR TAX MONEY to be requested after incorporation and subject to federal regulations, quotas, etc.

The public tax burden for supporting government is astronomical — why add more?

They all meet in delivery room

Is it possible? Everybody's got a twin!

by TONI GINETTI

Christine Sargent, her doctor, her nurse and I can tell you that good things come in twos.

Like two peas in a pod, two's company, tea for two.

And for Mrs. Sargent the magic number Monday night meant two daughters, identical twins born at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Now, the birth of twins is special in itself, but this birth was doubly different, so to speak. You see, little Angela Lee and Chanda Lee Sargent weren't the only twins in the delivery room that night.

THEIR ATTENDING physician, Dr. Frank Hesser, is a twin. So is the nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, who assisted in their delivery.

"It's the first time it's ever happened since I've been here," Holy Family's public relations director Jim McQuaid said. "And the part about both the doctor and the nurse being identical twins I'm sure has never happened before."

Chanda Lee, weighing in at five pounds, three ounces, arrived at 8:17 p.m. Monday. Her sister, delivered by Cesarean section at 9:44 p.m., weighed 6 pounds, 8 ounces. They are the first children born to Mrs. Sargent, 30, and her husband, Arnie, who reside at 5005 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Hesser had been Mrs. Sargent's physician and both knew about the potential "delivery room doubles" situation.

"MY MOTHER'S family and my husband's family both have twins," Mrs. Sargent said Thursday. Dr. Hesser, a Des Plaines obstetrics and gynecology specialist, had advised her in early December to expect two, she added.

But when Mrs. Edwards, who is on the hospital's obstetrics ward staff, took her place in the delivery room, the double dose . . . sort of doubled.

"I knew he was a twin," Mrs. Sargent said of her doctor. "Then in the delivery room he said the nurse was a twin, too, and they were joking around with me."

"They said if it was a boy and a girl I should name them Marcella and for Dr. Hesser."

MRS. EDWARDS has a twin sister and Dr. Hesser has a twin brother, Charles, who is a pediatrician on Holy Family's staff.

(No, Dr. Hesser the pediatrician won't be the Sargent babies' physician).

The Sargents are pretty pleased about the arrival of their new family and the amusing circumstances surrounding their girls' births. After all, twins are very special.

Of course, I might be a little prejudiced. I'm a twin, two . . . uh, I mean, too.

Radio net to help find lost aircraft

The Buffalo Grove Civil Defense unit is setting up an emergency radio network to coordinate search-and-rescue missions for downed aircraft in the Northwest suburbs.

The radio transceiver, which is being set up in conjunction with Group 7, Illinois Civil Air Patrol, will establish communications between ground rescue parties, airborne units and base stations.

Because Civil Defense and Civil Air Patrol have a statewide agreement about mutual aid for such missions, it is of utmost importance to have the necessary emergency radio network on a standby alert mode at all times, said Paul Soucy, Civil Defense director.

The radio transceiver will be located in the Buffalo Grove Municipal Center, 50 Raupp Blvd. The network will be netted at 7 p.m. daily to maintain reliability and relaying of official information.

Area man, 22, charged in sex, robbery incidents

Buffalo Grove police have charged Duane A. Bootz, Palatine, with attempting to rob an ice cream parlor in the Buffalo Grove Mall Shopping Center last month.

Bootz, 22, of 706 Eisenhower Ave., also faces charges of battery and indecent exposure in the case, Det. Donald Bottenhagen said.

Bootz currently faces several sex-related charges in Palatine and Mount Prospect, including one of attempted rape.

Bottenhagen said Bootz tried to rob a Baskin-Robbins ice cream store

Dec. 28. He tried to take money from a cash register, grabbed a 16-year-old clerk and exposed himself to her, authorities said.

The girl warned off the attacker, however, and he fled the store, Bottenhagen said.

Investigators became suspicious of Bootz after learning he had been arrested on sex charges by Mount Prospect authorities last week, Bottenhagen said.

He said Bootz' photograph was identified by the victim.

Bootz is in custody pending a court appearance.

back to piano lessons at age five, and she's been involved with chords and keyboards ever since.

"My mother was a concert pianist, so I've always been exposed to music," she said. "But it's surprising to see how many parents don't give their children much experience with singing or instruments."

"I'm always trying out songs on my own three kids. They're a great source of information in my classes," she added.

A graduate of Northwestern's School of Music, Mrs. Lecinski spent several years on the supper club circuit before trading her microphone for pencils and papers. She doesn't regret the decision: "Those kids' faces are all you need!"

Rate hike for C&NW delayed

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site for drivers set in area

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Streator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

To end false signals

Trustees to probe burglar alarm woes

by TOM VON MALDER

Several Elk Grove Village trustees will meet with village industrial firms which have had the most problems with false burglary alarms.

Trustee Edward W. Kenna Jr. said the judiciary, planning and zoning committee wants to meet with the three or four firms with the most false alarms. The committee and police are seeking some means to reduce the number of false alarms which have burdened police the past two years.

"We realized we were spending a lot of time and effort to punish somebody. What we really want to do is to stop the false alarms," Kenna said.

THE TRUSTEE was referring to a 24-page draft ordinance which spells out fines or fees to be charged firms for excessive false alarms. What has been suggested is no additional charge for the first six false alarms, but $25 each for false alarms seven through 10 and $50 each for each false alarm after the tenth.

The ordinance also provides for the village board's revocation of an alarm system user's permit after the tenth false alarm.

Kenna said he wants the meetings "as soon as possible."

"I want to talk with the head man, president," Kenna said, "I want him to realize what this is costing," Kenna said.

Village officials say it costs the village $15.32 an hour for two policemen to respond to an emergency alarm. There were 3,162 false calls from burglary alarm systems during 1974 and 3,369 false burglary calls last year.

"WE'RE NOT GOING to stop answering the alarms. They are taxpayers too," Kenna said, stressing the need for an educational type approach to the problem. "We ended up with a $6 million lawsuit when we refused service to someone who wasn't a taxpayer."

He referred to Gary Petee's lawsuit against the village which resulted because the village recalled an ambulance sent to his house in an unincorporated area. Mrs. Petee, for whom the ambulance was called, died in the incident.

In addition to the expense problem, Kenna said false alarms endanger the police who respond. "Every false alarm builds a little false security," he said, adding a real burglary might be unexpected.

Police Lt. William R. Kohnke would not name the firms with the highest number of false alarms for security reasons, but he said there were 22 firms on the "excessive alarm list."

He added that the number of alarms were distributed generally among the 22 firms.

Flu epidemic fear spurs state 'Victoria' probe

by KURT BAER

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,260 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

Interstate rate hikes asked by phone company

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $25 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $365 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $176 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

Egads! Everybody's got a twin

by TONI GINETTI

Christine Sargent, her doctor, her nurse and I can tell you that good things come in twos.

Like two peas in a pod, two's company, tea for two.

And for Mrs. Sargent the magic number Monday night meant two daughters, identical twins born at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Now, the birth of twins is special in itself, but this birth was doubly different, so to speak. You see, little Angela Lee and Chanda Lee Sargent weren't the only twins in the delivery room that night.

THEIR ATTENDING physician, Dr. Frank Hesser, is a twin. So is the nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, who assisted in their delivery.

"It's the first time it's ever happened since I've been here," Holy Family's public relations director Jim McQuaid said. "And the part about both the doctor and the nurse being identical twins, I'm sure has never happened before."

Chanda Lee, weighing in at five pounds, three ounces, arrived at 8:17 p.m. Monday. Her sister, delivered by Cesaerian section at 9:44 p.m., weighed 6 pounds, 8 ounces. They are the first children born to Mrs. Sargent, 30, and her husband, Arnie, who reside at 5005 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Hesser had been Mrs. Sargent's physician and both knew about the potential "delivery room doubles" situation.

"MY MOTHER'S family and my husband's family both have twins," Mrs. Sargent said Thursday. Dr. Hesser, a Des Plaines obstetrics and gynecology specialist, had advised her in early December to expect two, she added.

But when Mrs. Edwards, who is on the hospital's obstetrics ward staff, took her place in the delivery room, the double dose . . . sort of doubled.

"I knew he was a twin," Mrs. Sargent said of her doctor. "Then in the delivery room he said the nurse was a twin, too, and they were joking around with me.

"They said if it was a boy and a girl I should name them Marcella and for Dr. Hesser."

MRS. EDWARDS has a twin sister and Dr. Hesser has a twin brother, Charles, who is a pediatrician on Holy Family's staff.

(No, Dr. Hesser the pediatrician won't be the Sargent babies' physician).

The Sargents are pretty pleased about the arrival of their new family and the amusing circumstances surrounding their girls' births. After all, twins are very special.

Of course, I might be a little prejudiced.

I'm a twin, two . . . uh, I mean, too.

Important moments in the nation's history will be portrayed through musical paintings at a Frost School cultural arts assembly. The artist, John Mosiman, will be appearing Tuesday at 10:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the school, 1308 S. Cypress Dr., Mount Prospect.

Among the paintings Mosiman plans to do to music are "The Arrival of the Mayflower," "Paul Revere's Midnight Ride" and "The Westward Movement to Oklahoma."

On Thursday, at 10:30 a.m., Buck Warren, the "OHare Poet," will conduct a program on poetry. In addition, he will display some of his pieces of sculpture.

An airplane mechanic for United Air Lines, Warren is a published poet. He plans to present one of his sculptures to President Gerald Ford.

High School Dist. 214 has announced the third annual Distinguished Service Award contest sponsored in cooperation with the Dist. 214 Educational Assn. and various community service clubs. Nominees must have made an outstanding contribution to secondary education during the 1974-75 year.

One person will be selected from the attendance areas surrounding Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Forest View, Hersey, Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling high schools. Individual award plaques will be presented to the eight winners on March 22 at the regular Dist. 214 Board of Education meeting. A permanent plaque inscribed with the winner's name will be placed on display in each high school.

Nomination forms are available in each school and will be accepted during the month of February from any individual.

Full or part-time employees from Dist. 214 are not eligible as candidates for the award, however, they are encouraged to submit nominations.

For information contact William Warner, 259-5300, ext. 304.

The Elk Grove High School individual events team tied for sixth place in sweepstakes at Forest View High School recently. Individual winners included: Debby Lange, first in original oration; Tom Duncan and Debby Lange, first in dramatic duet acting; Joan Flores, first in humorous interpretation; Ron Cohen, third in original comedy; Janet Pumphrey and Tracey Lowing, third in dramatic duet acting; and Kerry Clariariello, third in original oration.

Gaining honors for the Elk Grove debate team at the Rockford Jefferson tournament recently were: Margaret Mathie, Walker Brock, Greg Hanson and David Cullen who captured second place team award in the novice division. Margaret Mathie was also named third best novice debater in the tournament. Dean Crivellaro and Tony Cafferata also gained honors in the junior varsity division by receiving the fourth and third place speaker award, respectively.

Special Education

A seminar entitled "Helping the Learning Disabilities Child in the Classroom" will be held Feb. 7 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights. Sponsored by the Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (COULD), the seminar will feature Janet Lerner, author and professor at Northwestern Illinois University, and Estelle Bradley, reading and learning disabilities coordinator in Des Plaines Dist. 62.

Lerner and Bradley will speak from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Specific areas of interest will be discussed in small groups led by learning disabilities professionals from 1 to 3 p.m. Areas will include visual perception, motor skills, arithmetic, auditory skills and classroom behavior techniques.

For more information, contact Peg Linder, 439-3875.

SBL donates health center site

Land for construction of the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center facility has been officially released to Elk Grove Village by the SBL Corp.

The deed for the 2-acre site, at Nerge and Rohlwing roads, was given to the village Thursday. The village board already has agreed to give the site to Elk Grove Township for construction of the mental health facility.

Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the township board will pass a resolution Tuesday accepting the land. The township will then lease the property to the mental health center.

JORDAN ROSEN, the center's executive director, said the final owner of the land will be determined by the requirements of the federal grant program, under which the center hopes to obtain up to $360,000 toward the $660,000 cost of the proposed facility.

The land has been given by SBL Corp. to meet village land donation requirements. The firm is building a mixed residential and commercial project in the area.

Rosen said the grant application must be processed by the state Dept. of Public Health before it is submitted. The application is due by April 30 and must then be forwarded to the U.S. Dep. of Health, Education and Welfare by June 15.

ROSEN SAID ONLY $631,000 is available in the fund program for the state and the Elk Grove-Schaumburg area has a very low priority, as determined by the state health department.

Local efforts to raise the remaining $300,000 needed for the project are proceeding according to plan. Both townships have pledged $100,000 as requested by the mental health center.

Elk Grove Township has yet to determine how it will raise the money, but Schaumburg Township officials Wednesday agreed to levy a mental health tax which would cost the average taxpayer with a home assessed at $10,000 about $1.90 next year.

Schaumburg Township's pledge was approved despite criticism from Gerry Warwak, former head of the township's mental health board, who said the board of auditors did not consult the mental health board on the project.

Township Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein said the action was taken because of the impending deadline for the grant application.

The remaining $100,000 to be raised locally will be generated by a special fund-raising committee.

Scott rules proposed bank office illegal

The Elk Grove Village office proposed by American National Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, is a branch bank prohibited by Illinois law, Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott has said.

Scott handed down an opinion on the bank proposal, advising Richard K. Lignoul, state commissioner of Banks and Trust Companies, that the proposed facility would generate loan requests.

Scott said the acknowledgement that loan requests would be prompted by the new office was "a decisive factor" in his decision.

Heart fair planned at bank March 19

Alexian Brothers Medical Center will sponsor a heart fair, "Signals For Survival," from 2 to 8 p.m. March 19 at the Bank of Elk Grove, 100 E. Higgins Rd.

There will be blood pressure testing, dietary displays and games designed to point out the warning signs of heart disease. The Elk Grove Nurses Club will staff the fair.

Parks to sponsor coin drive

The Elk Grove Park District is sponsoring a coin drive Saturday at Disney indoor pool, Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicester Rd.

The drive, for pennies and nickles, will be at 4:30 p.m. for ages 6 through 17. There is no charge for the event.

VFW bingo game Sunday

The Elk Grove VFW-sponsored bingo game will begin at 7:15 p.m. Sunday at the VFW Hall, 400 E. Devon Ave. It is open to the public.

Inspectors follow up complaints at 'Greens'

by GERRY KERN and JOE FRANZ

A dozen Cook County building and health inspectors fanned out through the 127-building Greens of Golf Mill apartment complex Thursday investigating 500 alleged violations of health, building and safety codes.

Inspectors and representatives of the state's attorney's office met at the apartment rental office at 10 a.m. to begin an inspection of the complex, 8884 Stevens Dr., in unincorporated Maine Township. The group included electrical, plumbing, ventilation and fire inspectors.

The county plans to continue its building-by-building probe of the complex today.

COUNTY OFFICIALS were reluctant to comment on the conditions at the apartment complex or the alleged code violations pending completion of the investigation.

William Harris, county commissioner of building and zoning, said he will wait for all of the commissioners to report before he can verify that code violations exist.

"They were out there all day today and will be out there again tomorrow," said Harris. "Our plans are to go through the development building by building to look for violations."

"I'm waiting for a report from my inspectors. The information at this time is incomplete," he said. "You can find violations in any building if you look hard enough. I'm sure there are some violations there, but at this time I'm not sure how extensive they are."

The apartment complex, located northeast of Dempster Street and Potter Road near Des Plaines, has come under fire in recent months by the Greens Tenants Assn. The tenants group filed a list of about 500 apparent violations of health, building and fire codes with County Board Pres. George Dunne two weeks ago.

RESIDENTS complained of poor security, faulty garbage collection and insufficient fire safety standards in the construction of the apartments.

Dunne ordered an investigation into conditions there and promised to take the management and apartment owners to court if violations exist and are not corrected. The Littlestone Co. manages the apartment complex, which is owned by U.S. Managers Inc., a California firm.

Keith Marvin, president of the tenants group, toured the apartment complex with inspectors and other residents. He said inspectors talked with residents, but would not comment on alleged violations.

Hulett renews interest in Urbana fire chief job

Allen W. Hulett, former Elk Grove Village fire chief, has again expressed interest in the Urbana fire chief job, an Urbana official said Thursday.

Urbana Administrative Officer Richard Frenks said he spoke by telephone with Hulett about two weeks ago, and Hulett asked whether the chief's job was still open, which it is. Frenks said he told Hulett he would have to reapply for the job.

Hulett was chosen last December from among 38 applicants for the Urbana post, and his appointment was confirmed by the Urbana city council. Hulett turned down the job, however, so he could accept a United Nations-sponsored post as airport fire rescue training officer for the government of Saudi Arabia.

Frenks said Hulett has not reapplied yet for the Urbana chief's position. "I wasn't aware that Hulett is back in this country," Frenks said.

Hulett unexpectedly quit his Saudi

Allen W. Hulett

Arabian job early this month, after having been on the job only a few days.

Applications for the Urbana job will be accepted until March 1, Frenks said, as the city decided to begin the application process all over again.

Hulett reportedly is in the Elk Grove Village area, but efforts to reach him have been unsuccessful.

delayed

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Streator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

'Parameters for safety'

Village considers
B-B gun controls

A proposal to control the use of B-B and pellet-type guns on private property is under study in Schaumburg. The legislation has been proposed by Trustee Ray LeBeau, who said he does not want to "ban B-B guns, but, in fact, to draw parameters for their safe use."

LeBeau said the idea stemmed from an accident in his neighborhood where an 11-year-old child was injured by a stray B-B shot.

LeBeau said assistant Village Atty Janice Bierman has said a total pellet gun ban is unconstitutional and has also given a "negative" legal opinion on private property control of pellet gun usage.

LeBeau said Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel has failed to respond to a request for an opinion made more than a year ago.

"I want a secondary legal opinion," LeBeau said, asking village administrators to suggest Siegel attend a legal committee meeting to discuss the proposal.

"We need a stiff enough ordinance that would prohibit projectiles from these guns from leaving private property," LeBeau said, adding he would favor the use of a "trap" or other receptacle to collect pellets when guns are used on private property.

Trustee Edward G. Olsen called LeBeau's proposal "unrealistic," adding the legislation would be aimed at youths who couldn't care less for an ordinance.

"You couldn't enforce this with a jail sentence and you can't legislate guns away. I see the problem as one of getting the guns out of the kids hands," Olsen said.

Flu epidemic fear spurs
state 'Victoria' probe

by KURT BAER

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,260 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

Seminar on marriage set

A program of adult learning on marriage, divorce and remarriage will be sponsored by St. Hubert's Church, 126 Grand Canyon Ct., Hoffman Estates, beginning Feb. 3.

Included in the program will be the Catholic church's views on marriage, divorce, the divorced Catholic, a new identity in the church and the future church.

Speakers will include Rev. James Flossi and Rev. Pat Brennan, associate pastors of St. Hubert's Parish.

Interstate rate hikes asked by phone company

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $225 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $365 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $178 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

Correction

The Village of Schaumburg has earmarked $90,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds for Spring Valley Nature Sanctuary, not $9,000 as reported in The Herald Thursday.

Egads! Everybody's got a twin

by TONI GINETTI

Christine Sargent, her doctor, her nurse and I can tell you that good things come in twos.

Like two peas in a pod, two's company, tea for two.

And for Mrs. Sargent the magic number Monday night meant two daughters, identical twins born at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Now, the birth of twins is special in itself, but this birth was doubly different, so to speak. You see, little Angela Lee and Chanda Lee Sargent weren't the only twins in the delivery room that night.

THEIR ATTENDING physician, Dr. Frank Hesser, is a twin. So is the nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, who assisted in their delivery.

TWIN BABIES, a twin doctor and a twin nurse, birth to Angela Lee and Chanda Lee. The attending That's what occupied Holy Family Hospital delivery nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, left, and the attending room Monday when Mrs. Christine Sargent gave birth to twins.

Chanda Lee, weighing in at five pounds, three ounces, arrived at 8:17 p.m. Monday. Her sister, delivered by Cesaerian section at 9:44 p.m., weighed 6 pounds, 8 ounces. They are the first children born to Mrs. Sargent, 30, and her husband, Arnie, who reside at 5005 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Hesser had been Mrs. Sargent's physician and both knew about the potential "delivery room doubles" situation.

"MY MOTHER'S family and my husband's family both have twins," Mrs. Sargent said Thursday. Dr. Hesser, a Des Plaines obstetrics and gynecology specialist, had advised her in early December to expect two, she added.

But when Mrs. Edwards, who is on the hospital's obstetrics ward staff, took her place in the delivery room, the double dose... sort of doubled.

"I knew he was a twin," Mrs. Sargent said of her doctor. "Then in the delivery room he said the nurse was a twin, too, and they were joking around with me.

"They said if it was a boy and a girl I should name them Marcella and for Dr. Hesser."

MRS. EDWARDS has a twin sister and Dr. Hesser has a twin brother, Charles, who is a pediatrician on Holy Family's staff.

(No, Dr. Hesser the pediatrician won't be the Sargent babies' physician).

The Sargents are pretty pleased about the arrival of their new family and the amusing circumstances surrounding their girls' births. After all, twins are very special.

Of course, I might be a little prejudiced.

I'm a twin, too... uh, I mean, too.

Primary goal since '66: Scala

Village health clinic study urged

Edward Scala, Schaumburg Board of Health president has asked village administrators to consider establishing a municipal medical clinic.

Scala told village safety committee members a clinic has been one of the primary goals of the board of health since its establishment in 1966.

"We had our own master plan for health care like (former village president) Bob Atcher had his plan for the village," Scala said.

He said the health board proposes to "draw in doctors" to serve the clinic on a volunteer basis.

SCALA'S SUGGESTION was supported by Mary Nagy, a health board member and registered nurse who has served as volunteer director of the community blood program for the past three years.

"The time has come for us to begin planning for our health-care needs for the next 10 years," Mrs Nagy said.

Scala said the board of health needs committee help in obtaining more personnel for the health department as well as a blood chairman to replace Mrs. Nagy, who has said she will resign in April.

"We used to report directly to the village board, but now you do it for us. Go and tell them what we need," Scala told safety committee members.

The health board and health department were placed under safety committee jurisdiction several years ago.

SCALA ASKED village administrators to prepare a cost breakdown for the community blood program if it is directed by a full- or part-time village employee as opposed to a volunteer.

Under the American Red Cross Blood-Replacement program adopted by the village in 1973, complete blood needs of all residents are insured provided a minimum of four per cent of the population donates blood annually.

Ken Oleksy, administrative assistant to Village Mgr. John E. Coste, said cost information for the proposed clinic and the paid blood program director will be presented at the February safety committee meeting.

Committee members also asked Oleksy to request an opinion from Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel on the legality of paying a blood program director. They said the opinion is being sought to avoid any problem which might occur because it is illegal to pay blood donors.

New zip codes in villages to take effect March 15

New zip codes for the Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg areas will officially take effect March 15, Roselle Postmaster Edward Budzyn said Thursday.

"The assignment of the new zip code numbers is based on service area and not on village boundaries," Budzyn said. "Four or five townships are covered in the new zip codes."

The area north of the Village of Roselle and south of Schaumburg Road will be assigned the number 60183, he said.

Residences north of Schaumburg Road and south of Higgins Road will use the number 60184. All residences north of Higgins Road will be assigned 60185.

"Customers of Schaumburg who presently are receiving rural route delivery will continue to use 60172 as their zip code," Budzyn said. He added those persons should use legal addresses and rural box number.

Roselle residents will continue to use the 60172 zip code, he added. Presently, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg use the Roselle zip code for their mail.

Budzyn said that while the new zip codes will be in effect March 15, the old zip codes will be honored for one year.

"After that, it's treated like a change of address," Budzyn said. "The letter with the old zip runs the risk of being returned to the sender."

Thomas Kasper, of the post office, said the new zip codes are being adopted because of the area's growth.

Rep. Crane to stay neutral in controversy on airport

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, has refused to become involved in the controversy over improvements proposed at Schaumburg Airport.

"The Congressman will communicate the objectors' story to the Federal Aviation Administration, but he will not take a position in what appears to be a feud between communities," Edward D. Murnane, Crane's administrative assistant, said Thursday.

Murnane said a group of persons from Roselle, Hanover Park and Streamwood have asked Crane to support their objections to Schaumburg's purchase and improvement of the 120-acre field. Murnane said the airport is not within Crane's 12th Congressional District.

Philip M. Crane

REPRESENTATIVES of a community action group known as Slop Schaumburg Airport Future Expansion recently said they would ask Crane and Gov. Daniel Walker to intervene in an attempt to halt federal and state funds from being used in the project.

Last week Walker agreed to review the airport proposal and said if he determined improvements are not needed, he would fight the project.

Consultants have recommended Schaumburg purchase and improve the airport provided certain conditions, including the availability of federal and state money, are met.

Village officials are awaiting FAA approval of the last phase of the consultants' study, which will consist of preparing an environmental impact statement and scheduling of FAA public hearings.

size should be reduced if a strong manager form of government is adopted.

Neuekranz and Aldermen Thomas J. Waldron Jr., 2nd, and Fredrick Jacobson, 5th, said 10 aldermen would better represent the city.

"I've done a sampling of 16 people in my ward and 13 of them are in favor of a strong manager form of government and retaining the present system of electing two aldermen from each ward," Jacobson said.

Waldron said Thursday he believes the city should adopt a strong manager form of government. He added he believes residents are satisfied with 10 aldermen.

"I've talked to people on the phone and they are sure about wanting the 10-alderman council, but they don't really know too much about the manager type of government," he said.

Two face Feb. 10 trial for Dinverno murder

Two men charged with the murder of a Palatine Township man last April will go to trial Feb. 10.

Antonio Perez and Arthur Perez were arrested separately in October for the murder of Alfred L. Dinverno in his secluded $135,000 home at 404 Inverdale Dr. Dinverno had been tied hand and foot to a chair and shot several times in the head at close range.

The men, not related, were arrested by detectives from the Illinois State Police and the Chicago Police Dept. acting on a tip.

The trial will be held at the Criminal Courts Building, 26th Street and California Avenue, in Chicago. A judge has not been assigned to the case.

Arthur Perez, 25, of Chicago, was released on $50,000 bond in November and is free on bond.

Antonio Perez, 29, with no known permanent address, is still being held in the Cook County Jail. Following his arrest, investigators said he had an extensive criminal record, including rape, robbery, indecent liberties with a minor and burglary. He had been charged with murder in the past, but was never convicted, police said.

When arrested outside a Chicago tavern, Arthur Perez reportedly was wearing an expensive diamond ring that belonged to Dinverno.

The ring, other jewelry, guns and a television set were believed to have been taken during the crime. A complete inventory of losses was difficult because the victim had held a house sale shortly before he was murdered.

Horseback riding offered by parks

A new session of horseback riding lessons will be offered by the Salt Creek Park District beginning Feb. 3.

The lessons will be held in the indoor arena at Hawthorne Stables in Wauconda. A van will leave Rose Park at 4:15 p.m. and return at 7 p.m. The fee for the six-week class is $33 for beginners and $38 for intermediates.

To register, call the park district office at 259-6890.

Rotary membership drive

The Rolling Meadows Rotary Club is seeking more members and speakers.

Harry O'Brien, who heads the membership drive, may be contacted at 398-3730 for membership information.

Al Carlsen, chairman of the program's committee, is seeking suggestions for future programs. Carlsen may be called at 259-4050.

Rotarians meet at 12:15 p.m. Mondays at the Holiday Inn, 3405 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Palatine-Meadows Dist. 15

The PTA at Addams School has challenged the school's faculty to a volleyball game. The contest will be played Monday at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium, 1020 E. Sayles, Palatine.

The first Monday of each month is volleyball night at the school, open to all adults at 8 p.m., and sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Assn.

Schaumburg Twp. Dist. 54

Milton Dorr, Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 associate superintendent will discuss the upcoming bond referendum at the Nathan Hale PTA meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The school is at 1300 W. Wise Rd., Schaumburg.

A student physical education program will highlight Tuesday's PTA meeting at Hoover School, 315 N. Springinguth, Schaumburg. Students from all grade levels will participate in the 7:30 p.m. demonstration in the school gym.

The Deesley School PTA will hold an open house for parents of students in kindergarten, second, fourth and sixth grades Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Parents are asked to assemble in the multipurpose room of the school, 622 Norwood Ln., Schaumburg, for a brief business meeting and a founders day program before visiting the classrooms.

Rate hike for C&NW delayed

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site for drivers set in area

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

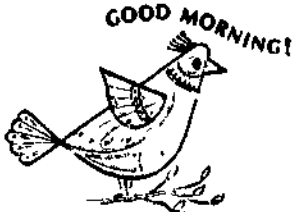

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Streator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

Eatery strip gives village indigestion

by LUISA GINETTI

Fast-food restaurants in Palatine have found a haven along a four-block stretch of Northwest Highway near Palatine Road.

No less than seven carryout diners are located in the area and plans for two more similar operations have been approved by the village board.

The latest additions to the Northwest Highway restaurant strip will be an Arthur Treacher's Fish and Chips and a Wendy's restaurant. The Treacher's franchise will replace the Gas USA station at 47 N. Northwest Hwy., while the Wendy's restaurant will be located at 279 N. Northwest Hwy.

Although village officials have expressed some concern about the increasing number of restaurants along the highway, they admit there is little they can do to stop it.

STEVEN LENET, village director of planning and zoning, said restaurants are the only developments which are showing an interest in Palatine and unless the village sets a policy on the matter, their number will continue to grow.

"It seems that the fast-service restaurant is the only business in America that's making money," Lenet said, adding that the village receives calls almost daily from restaurant chains interested in locating in Palatine. In contrast, the number of persons expressing interest in building other commercial or residential projects in the village is virtually nil.

Lenet said part of the problem with fast-food operations, such as a Kentucky Fried Chicken or Arthur Treacher's Fish and Chips, is that they are single-purpose buildings. If such an operation closes, about the only thing that can replace it is similar operation, he said.

LENET ADDED that unless the village board decides to adopt a policy for restaurants, all his department can do is try to lessen the traffic impact generated from the restaurants along Northwest Highway. Working with the developers on entrance and exit locations is a basic concern in this planning, he said.

The village planner said he probably will make no recommendation on the matter to the board because there are some benefits to be gained from restaurant development.

"There are advantages such as sales tax revenue generated for the village and a higher assessed valuation," he said. "The trade-offs are complicated, but a planner has to work under the assumption that a benefit today is worth two benefits tomorrow."

HAVING THE PROPERTY developed, even if only with a restaurant, is better than having the land vacant, he said, because the assessed valuation is higher.

He added that restaurants along Northwest Highway are preferable to having gas stations, which was the case a few years ago.

Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones said Northwest Highway does not have to become a strip of lights and no trees.

"As long as the restaurants are controlled in terms of landscaping and ingress and egress, Northwest Highway won't become food-store row," Jones said. "I'm bound and determined and I think the rest of the board is, too, not to have that type of hodgepodge in Palatine."

Riding lessons offered

A new session of horseback riding lessons will be offered by the Salt Creek Park District beginning Feb. 3.

The lessons will be held in the indoor arena at Hawthorne Stables in Wauconda. A van will leave Rose Park at 4:15 p.m. and return at approximately 7 p.m. The fee for the six-week class is $33 for beginners and $38 for intermediates.

To register, call the park district office at 254-6880.

AT&T urges interstate rate hikes

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said, would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $225 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $305 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $178 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

HOTDOGS, HAMBURGERS and chicken are available in abundance along a four block stretch of Northwest Highway near Palatine

Road. The number of carryout restaurants on the highway will increase by two with the addition of Wendy's and Arthur Treacher's Fish and Chips. Officials say the number of restaurants is disturbing but has not yet turned Northwest Highway into a strip.

Dist. 15 sets school inspections

Board members will inspect schools in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Saturday to determine what building improvements are needed this year.

Board members will divide into small groups to visit at least five schools each during the morning and convene after lunch to compare notes. Their findings will be sent to the board's budget committee.

Board members Walter Kendall and Joel Meyer will visit Virginia Lake

School, 925 N. Rohwing Rd., Palatine; Addams School, 1020 Sayles Dr., Palatine; Lake Louise School, 500 N. Jonathan St., Palatine; Churchill School, 120 Babcock Dr., Palatine; and Winston Park Junior High School, 900 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

LELAND GIBBS AND Walter Sundling will be inspecting Sanborn School, 101 N. Oak St., Palatine; Wood School, 50 E. Wood St., Palatine; Paddock School, 225 W. Washington Ct., Palatine; Pleasant Hill School, 434 W. Illinois St., Palatine; and Jordan School, 100 N. Harrison St., Palatine.

by KURT BAER

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,260 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

Special doings at library

The Palatine Public Library is sponsoring several special events in February, including feature-length movies, travel movies and a lecture series.

The first begins at 2.30 p.m. Sunday with the six-part series "The Search for the Nile." The series will explore the history of the Nile and is narrated by James Mason. Each part will be shown on succeeding Sundays. The library's free monthly monster movie series will begin at 10.30 a.m. Feb. 4 with a showing of "Beast at 20,000 Fathoms." Monster movies will be shown the first Saturday of each month.

The library's free film series showing feature-length movies will begin at 7.30 p.m. Feb. 4. Movies will be shown every two weeks at the same time.

AN AGREEMENT with the film distributor prohibits the library from publishing the list of movies to be shown but information can be obtained by calling the library at 358-5881.

The final February program is a series of four lectures exploring the area of myth and dreams. The series will begin at 7.30 p.m. Feb. 3 with a presentation by Frank Edmund Smith, assistant professor of English at Harper College. He will discuss "Explorations in American Mythology."

The next three lectures in the series will be March 2, April 6 and May 4. All the programs are free and at the library, 500 N. Benton St. For more information on any of the programs call the library at 358-5881.

Rate hike for C&NW delayed

by LEA TONKIN

The Chicago and North Western Ry. Thursday asked for an indefinite postponement of Illinois Commerce Commission hearings for a proposed 40 per cent commuter fare increase.

In a letter to the ICC, Christopher Mills, a C&NW Attorney, said the railroad is resuming negotiations with the Regional Transportation Authority for a purchase-of-services agreement to help finance commuter operations.

The commuter rate increase was proposed to the ICC late last year after a breakdown in C&NW bargaining sessions with the RTA.

Jim MacDonald, a railroad spokesman, said the railway was encouraged with preliminary talks with the RTA this week. If the talks with the RTA are unsuccessful, MacDonald said, the railroad will ask the ICC to slate additional rate increase hearings.

"We're talking about a hell of a financial rap," he said. "We don't intend to sit forever and wait in limbo."

Purchase of C&NW equipment could be negotiated with the RTA if the service agreement is reached, MacDonald said.

The railroad had asked the commission for a two-

Testing site for drivers set in area

by JOE SWICKARD

A drivers' license testing station will be "located somewhere very near to Arlington Heights," Sec. of State Michael Howlett told The Herald Thursday night.

Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate in the gubernatorial primary race, said the site of the facility in a rental building will be announced today or tomorrow.

Howlett, contacted at a campaign appearance in downstate Streator, said the Northwest suburbs would get the long-promised facility despite his pledge to return $11 million from his department's budget to the general fund. Of the money to be returned, $4.5 million was earmarked for construction of the local facility.

"WE'LL BE MAKING the announcement of the site in the next couple of days. It could come as soon as Friday," Howlett said.

He said land prices in the area ruled out the construction of a permanent building for the testing station.

"The land in the area is much too expensive," he said, adding that the leasing of a privately-owned building "will be a tremendous savings to the tax-

Realty sales levy backed by village

Mount Prospect officials want to pass a real estate transfer tax, estimated to cost $45 to $50 for the average house sale, if they can find a way to collect it.

Village board members have indicated their support for the new tax, which Trustee Edward B. Rhea Jr. suggested should be set at $1 per $1,000 in every village real estate sale.

"On the average house, it would run $45 to $50," he said.

However, the county collector will not collect the tax for the suburbs, although he does enforce the tax for the City of Chicago. Rhea said local brokers would be under only a "moral burden" to pay the village tax.

"I DON'T REALLY look at that as a revenue source until we can find some way to collect it," Rhea said.

Based on two months of real estate transactions reported in newspapers, Rhea estimated that the real estate transfer tax could produce $50,000 to $70,000 yearly.

Rhea said he plans to work with the village attorney to make sure the tax is legal and to see whether there is some way of collecting the fee locally.

"I think the support is there," he said, noting that other board members have spoken in its favor. "There shouldn't be much trouble passing it."

Board members speaking in favor of the tax, if collectible, include Theodore J. Wattenberg, Michael H. Minton and Leo Floros.

THE NORTHWEST Municipal Conference also is working on the problem of collecting a real estate transfer tax.

The tax is one of a series of proposals now being considered by the board in an effort to raise new village revenue. Rhea's committee has already discussed increasing business licenses, and soon will investigate hiking village fines and altering garbage collection service.

Officials estimate that village garbage collection costs can be cut by 10 per cent if residents are required to use plastic trash bags. Figures have not yet been developed on the cost of switching to a plastic bag program.

Library group plans information session

The Mount Prospect Friends of the Library will host a reception for business and civic community representatives at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the library, 14 E. Busse Ave.

Jo Anne West, acting president of the Friends, said her group will inform people of the additional services available when the new library is completed. She said "much work and money not included in the basic construction budget" is needed to finish the library.

Anyone interested in joining the Friends of the Library should call Mrs. West at 259-2356.

Mount Prospect officials have proposed cutting $1 million from the village's water department budget in an effort to balance it for 1976-77.

If approved by the Mount Prospect Village Board, the cuts would eliminate an expected $1 million deficit in the department's budget. The cutbacks do not affect the regular village budget which remains $400,000 short of tax funds. The water department must be self supporting, using revenue from customers.

The proposal to cut back on water department programs was made during a special budget session Tuesday. Tentative proposals are scheduled for review before the village board in February.

"THE WATER department has to operate as a self-supporting entity," said David Creamer, director of public works. "You can't spend what you don't have. So we outlined what kind of things we'd like to do, and they (village board) make a decision on what can be done."

Village proposals for cutting water department programs include:

- Elimination of a proposed $475,000 water main replacement program.
- Reduction in the budget for repairs to village water wells from $300,000 to $100,000.
- Postponing the drilling of a new well on village property near the Old Orchard Country Club. The original well proposal was for $425,000, but was reduced to $100,000 to pay the cost of a new pumping station at the site.

The largest proposed reduction is the water main replacement program. Rather than systematically replace mains in four areas, officials propose replacing or repairing mains as they break.

Village Mgr. Robert Eppley said the village simply doesn't have the money to begin a complete replacement program and will have to deal with main problems on an individual basis.

Areas where main replacement was discussed prior to the budget-cutting session were:

- Weller Lane south of Central Road where existing cast iron main is deteriorating because of corrosive soil conditions.
- Council Trail between Elmhurst Road and Hi-Lusi Avenue where a former peat bog is creating corrosive soil conditions.
- Hatton Avenue between Michael and Lincoln streets where another former peat bog is causing problems.
- Forest Avenue between Memory Lane and Highland Street, also a peat bog area.
- School Street where two proposals were discussed. One main would have run from Central Road to Busse

by KURT BAER

Illinois health officials are seeking to determine whether the season's first known outbreak of influenza in Cook County is the same type as a new flu strain that was blamed Thursday for three deaths in Nevada and Oregon.

The new strain, called "A-Victoria," also is causing soaring absenteeism among school children in New York and Minnesota.

The Illinois Dept. of Public Health said Thursday that an A-type flu strain was found in a Cook County college student Jan. 23. But officials could not identify it as the "Victoria" strain. The Cook County specimen has been sent to the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., for further analysis.

"There is no evidence of an influenza epidemic in the state at present," the Illinois Health Dept. reported.

The national Center for Disease Control categorized the flu outbreaks thus far as "spotty" and said much of it apparently is caused by the "A-Victoria" virus, for which there is no specific vaccine.

In Las Vegas, Nev., Dr. Otto Ravenholt attributed two deaths to the disease, which is especially prevalent in southern Nevada. One fourth of the patients being seen in hospital emergency rooms in Las Vegas have the flu, he said.

Ravenholt said he saw no tapering off of the disease.

The most concentrated outbreak was in Salem, Ore., where Whiteaker Junior High School reported nearly half of its 1,250 students down with the illness. Six of the school's 56 teachers have complained of symptoms thus far.

THREE NURSING homes around Portland, Ore., reported a number of flu-like illnesses with the A-Victoria strain confirmed in once case and blamed for one death.

State health agencies in Minnesota, Georgia, Tennessee, New Jersey and California also have reported suspected cases of the flu.

Persons stricken with the flu reportedly are seriously ill for two or three days and generally recover after four to five days or a week.

The Center for Disease Control last week reported the first cases of influenza this winter occurred on the west coast and in Minnesota earlier this month. It was the latest start of the flu season in the United States in many years.

AT&T urges interstate rate hikes

American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Thursday asked the Federal Communications Commission for new interstate telephone service rates it said would add an average 10 cents a month to residential bills and $2 to business bills.

The effect on a customer's bill would depend on the number and type of interstate calls, their distance and their duration, said Richard Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Dept. In some cases, the cost of long distance calls would be reduced, he said.

The company asked for increased rates to start Feb. 15. AT&T filed the rate hike request in response to a Jan. 19 FCC order, which granted the company a $225 million rate increase. The company originally asked the FCC for a $717 million rate increase in early 1975, but gained a $365 million increase.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. customers will pay an additional $178 million for service if the utility is granted a rate increase by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The deadline for the commission's decision is Feb. 4.

Important moments in the nation's history will be portrayed through musical paintings at a Frost School cultural arts assembly. The artist, John Mosiman, will be appearing Tuesday at 10:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the school, 1308 S. Cypress Dr., Mount Prospect.

Among the paintings Mosiman plans to do to music are "the Arrival of the Mayflower," "Paul Revere's Midnight Ride" and "The Westward Movement to Oklahoma."

On Thursday, at 10:30 a.m., Buck Warren, the "OHare Poet," will conduct a program on poetry. In addition, he will display some of his pieces of sculpture.

An airplane mechanic for United Air Lines, Warren is a published poet. He plans to present one of his sculptures to President Gerald Ford.

High School Dist. 214

High School Dist. 214 has announced the third annual Distinguished Service Award contest sponsored in cooperation with the Dist. 214 Educational Assn. and various community service clubs.

Nominees must have made an outstanding contribution to secondary education during the 1974-75 year.

One person will be selected from the attendance areas surrounding Arlington, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Forest View, Hersey, Prospect, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling high schools.

Individual award plaques will be presented to the eight winners on March 22 at the regular Dist. 214 Board of Education meeting. A permanent plaque inscribed with the winner's name will be placed on display in each high school.

Nomination forms are available in each school and will be accepted during the month of February from any individual.

Full or part-time employees from Dist. 214 are not eligible as candidates for the award, however, they are encouraged to submit nominations.

For information contact William Warner, 259-5300, ext. 304.

The Elk Grove High School individual events team tied for sixth place in sweepstakes at Forest View High School recently. Individual winners included: Debby Lange, first in original oration; Tom Duncan and Debby Lange, first in dramatic duet acting; Joan Floros, first in humorous interpretation; Ron Cohen, third in original comedy; Janet Pumphrey and Tracey Lowing, third in dramatic duet acting; and Kerry Clariello, third in original oration.

Gaining honors for the Elk Grove debate team at the Rockford Jefferson tournament recently were: Margaret Mathie, Walter Brock, Greg Hansen and David Cullen who captured second place team award in the novice division. Margaret Mathie was also named third best novice debater in the tournament. Dean Crivellaro and Tony Caffereta also gained honors in the junior varsity division by receiving the fourth and third place speaker award, respectively.

Special Education

A seminar entitled "Helping the Learning Disabilities Child in the Classroom" will be held Feb. 7 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Hersey High School, 1000 E. Thomas Ave., Arlington Heights. Sponsored by the Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (COULD), the seminar will feature Janet Lerner, author and professor at Northeastern Illinois University, and Estelle Bradley, reading and learning disabilities coordinator in Des Plaines Dist. 62.

Lerner and Bradley will speak from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Specific areas of interest will be discussed in small groups led by learning disabilities professionals from 1 to 3 p.m. Areas will include visual perception, motor skills, arithmetic, auditory skills and classroom behavior techniques.

For more information, contact Peg Linder, 439-3875.

Area man, 22, charged in sex, robbery incidents

Buffalo Grove police have charged Duane A. Bootz, Palatine, with attempting to rob an ice cream parlor in the Buffalo Grove Mall Shopping Center last month.

Bootz, 22, of 706 Eisenhower Ave., also faces charges of battery and indecent exposure in the case, Det. Donald Bottenhagen said.

Bootz currently faces several sex-related charges in Palatine and Mount Prospect, including one of attempted rape.

Bottenhagen said Bootz tried to rob a Baskin-Robbins ice cream store

Dec. 23. He tried to take money from a cash register, grabbed a 16-year-old clerk and exposed himself to her, authorities said.

The girl warned off the attacker, however, and he fled the store, Bottenhagen said.

Investigators became suspicious of Bootz after learning he had been arrested on sex charges by Mount Prospect authorities last week, Bottenhagen said.

He said Bootz' photograph was identified by the victim.

Bootz is in custody pending a court appearance.

They all meet in delivery room

Egads! Everybody's got a twin

by TONI GINETTI

Christine Sargent, her doctor, her nurse and I can tell you that good things come in twos.

Like two peas in a pod, two's company, tea for two.

And for Mrs. Sargent the magic number Monday night meant two daughters, identical twins born at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Now, the birth of twins is special in itself, but this birth was doubly different, so to speak. You see, little Angela Lee and Chanda Lee Sargent weren't the only twins in the delivery room that night.

THEIR ATTENDING physician, Dr. Frank Hesser, is a twin. So is the nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, who assisted in their delivery.

"It's the first time it's ever happened since I've been here," Holy Family's public relations director Jim McQuaid said. "And the part about both the doctor and the nurse being identical twins I'm sure has never happened before."

Chanda Lee, weighing in at five pounds, three ounces, arrived at 8:17 p.m. Monday. Her sister, delivered by Cesaerian section at 9:44 p.m., weighed 6 pounds, 8 ounces. They are the first children born to Mrs. Sargent, 30, and her husband, Arnie, who reside at 5005 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Dr. Hesser had been Mrs. Sargent's physician and both knew about the potential "delivery room doubles" situation.

"MY MOTHER'S family and my husband's family both have twins," Mrs. Sargent said Thursday. Dr. Hesser, a Des Plaines obstetrics and gynecology specialist, had advised her in early December to expect two, she added.

But when Mrs. Edwards, who is on the hospital's obstetrics ward staff, took her place in the delivery room, the double dose . . . sort of doubled.

"I knew he was a twin," Mrs. Sargent said of her doctor. "Then in the delivery room he said the nurse was a twin, too, and they were joking around with me."

"They said if it was a boy and a girl I should name them Marcella and for Dr. Hesser."

MRS. EDWARDS has a twin sister and Dr. Hesser has a twin brother, Charles, who is a pediatrician on Holy Family's staff.

(No, Dr. Hesser the pediatrician won't be the Sargent babies' physician).

The Sargents are pretty pleased about the arrival of their new family and the amusing circumstances surrounding their girls' births. After all, twins are very special.

Of course, I might be a little prejudiced.

Baha'i talk at Lions Park

The teachings of Baha'u'llah, prophet-founder of the Baha'i faith, will be the topic of a talk by Dr. Monib Colletan at 4 p.m. Sunday at Lions Park Recreation Center, Mount Prospect. The public is invited to attend.

TWIN BABIES, a twin doctor and a twin nurse. That's what occupied Holy Family Hospital delivery room Monday when Mrs. Christine Sargent gave birth to Angela Lee and Chanda Lee. The attending nurse, Mrs. Marcella Edwards, left, and the attending physician also are twins.

Gifted, alternative plans pondered

Parents mull Dist. 59 finances

Questions about Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 financial problems and the progress of the gifted program and alternative school have been raised by parents at the School Community Council Forum.

More than 50 parents and school officials attended the meeting Wednesday held to bring out questions and concerns about the district.

Several parents questioned whether an alternative school would be established. An alternative school would stress basic academics and increased discipline.

LEAH CUMMINS, Dist. 59 public relations director, said the district is sending out questionnaires to parents to find out how many would want their children enrolled in such a school and what type of program they would want there.

She said one school might stress basics, and children would be bused to the school from the entire district.

"If the parents want more traditional schools, why can't we use the existing schools?" asked Gloria Stewart of the Rupley School area.

Alma Parrish, teachers union president, said the basics are taught in the schools. "It's not as if they are not taught. We do drill. When we talk about discipline, the child has to come to school disciplined."

Carol Wirth of the Rupley area asked, "How can we look into new programs if it is true that we are financially troubled? All of this has to cost money."

GERALD SMILEY, former board member, said the major cost of an alternative school would be for transportation, which is reimbursed by the state.

Other parents wanted to know about the progress of the gifted program.

Charlene Bessey, talent program director, said the district is currently training teachers to handle a gifted program. It is determining what programs should be developed.

She said more than 1,500 students were identified as talented in five areas. They include academic ability, ties, leadership, physical ability and the fine arts. She said programs should be started by the next school year.

Jack Roeser of Arlington Heights questioned the board's recent decisions on administrative salaries. "How does the district expect to have any faith in the community when the board and administration collaborated to raise administration salaries as they did?"

HE SAID THE district also should cut back on the number of administrators.

Mrs. Cummins said the average administrator's salary increase was 5 per cent if computed on a daily basis. If figured on an annual basis, administrators salaries increased by 11 per cent.

She said the lower daily increases occurred because several administrators were promoted from lower positions where they had worked fewer days during the year.

Smiley said the district had one of the lowest administrator-student ratios, according to a report released several years ago. He said the state office of education two years ago also recommended the district increase the number of administrators.

Joseph Stecker, former financial committee member, said the district "has a knack to spend a little bit more and a little bit more. We'll be lucky if we are even in existence in a few years, and you're all talking about alternative schools and gifted programs? It can't be done."

$1 million cut for water division?

Avenue, while another called for a new main from Rand Road to Evergreen Avenue.

Rather than drill a new well to meet village water demands in the face of dropping water tables, village officials believe a new pumping station at the Old Orchard site would help storage capacity at tanks there. The station would not increase the amount of water pumped out of the ground, only the distribution capability of the water system.

The well repair budget was streamlined although three of Mount Prospect's 16 wells are not operating properly. Officials believe proper repairs can be made by budgeting only $100,000 for that program.

Village board members have been wrestling with budget proposals for weeks now, attempting to find additional sources of income to meet rising expenses. An informal poll of the village board Tuesday indicated most favor a separate garbage collection fee ranging from $3.25 to $4 per customer a month.

Garbage collection currently is paid out of village tax funds. A separate fee would free an estimated $663,000 to cover increased operating expenses and proposals for employee pay hikes.

The local scene

3 residents in movie

Three Mount Prospect residents will appear in a special film on traditional church rites produced for the University of Notre Dame's Murphy Center for Liturgical Research.

Mickey Hauser, Sandy Pedro and Mary Ellen McGee were among those appearing in the film, which depicts the initiation rites or baptism as practiced in Rome during the 3rd century.

Free foot tests for seniors

Free foot screening for the elderly will be conducted today in Mount Prospect in cooperation with the Illinois College of Podiatric Medicine.

Screening will be conducted from 10 a.m. to noon at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 S. See-Gwun Ave. Those determined to be in need of care will be advised to seek treatment.

Barb Sammarco on television

Did you catch the Channel 9-TV Phil Donahue Show last Tuesday morning when Mount Prospect's Barbara Sammarco appeared on the talk show panel?

The program dealt with the subject of widows. The three panelists told about their experiences as widows when they answered questions from the audience and from home viewers by telephone.

The other two panel members with Barbara were Tippi Huntley, wife of the late newscaster Chet Huntley, and Carrie Berns, an author who wrote a book on the subject.

Mrs. Sammarco was in the audience of the Donahue show a year ago and applied then to appear on it. She was recently called to be a guest panelist.

FRIENDS AND neighbors said goodbye last week to the Richard Dambucks, 116 N. Fairview Ave., who moved to Cedarburg, Wis. The family is well known and has been active in Mount Prospect for years.

HAVE YOU visited the recently opened J. K. Produce Store at 412 W. Northwest Hwy. — at the busy corner where Central Road, Northwest Highway and the railroad tracks meet? It's like a "farmer's market" with its wide selection of fresh fruits and vegetables.

ST. PAUL School is hosting its annual Invitational Basketball Tournament this weekend and next for Lutheran elementary schools in the Chicago and suburban area. More than 40 teams are expected to play in two divisions, grades five and six, seven and eight.

ALSO AT St. Paul, there's a Boy Scout paper drive this weekend. Newspapers should be taken to the school parking lot, 18 S. School St., Saturday or Sunday.

GEORGE R. and Esther Busse recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a weekend retreat with two other couples at Lake Thunderbird in Peoria. On the way home they stopped at Starved Rock State Park near Ottawa where the Busses had spent a portion of their honeymoon.

In addition, the anniversary was marked by several other events hosted by relatives, friends and neighbors.

The couple was married at St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights. They have two sons — George, a senior at Vanderbilt College, and Brad, a senior at Prospect High School.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS CONCERNED CITIZENS COMMITTEE ASKS

INCORPORATE? WHY?

A vote for incorporation means HIGHER TAXES, ASSESSMENTS and RENTS.

Volunteer community spirit with promises not to tax or POSITIVE POWER (BY LAW) TO TAX is the issue.

Service budget figures are unrealistic for administering city government, police protection, etc. Only INCREASED TAXES can meet these needs.

Revenue Sharing isn't a guaranteed income — it is YOUR TAX MONEY to be requested after incorporation and subject to federal regulations, quotas, etc.

The public tax burden for supporting government is astronomical — why add more?
